Approves Suspension of Volunteer System

That the suspension of the volunteer system for recruiting the ranks of the Regular Army is the best plan to eliminate the distinction between the Regular and National Army was the opinion advanced by Lieutenant Robert W. Leshner, commander of the Harrisburg recruiting party this morning.

It was pointed out that because recruiting officers can no longer accept volunteers, the ability to volunteer is not altogether taken from the men of military age. Through the numerous induction calls received by local boards, or men prepared for special service at various branches or army occupations, it was pointed out that young men may still be able to get into the service by choosing the branches they prefer.

DRAFT BOARD MEN CAN NOT RESIGN

Major Murdock Declares They Must Act in Registration

Members of local draft boards who may seek to leave the national draft service prior to the registration proposed in the bills pending in Congress will not be allowed to do so, according to notice issued to-day by the state draft headquarters. The headquarters has received a number of resignations and has issued this caution "Board members are advised that no resignations can be accepted before the new registration, unless the health of the man requires it or unless he has entered the military service."

The headquarters has also issued notice that in a short time new regulations will be issued which will provide compensation for local board members and that hereafter orsards or arm bands are to be furnished to drafted men when they enter train for camp and that party leaders are to be provided with certificates showing their authority.

Word has been received at state draft headquarters that registration places need not necessarily be in polling places, but nothing has been decided designating September 5, which is also the voters registration day in all cities of Pennsylvania. The date will depend upon Congressional action. The responsibility for providing suitable registration places will rest upon local boards.
