Germany Bars Allied Newspapers From Sale

London, Aug. 31.—The sale of newspapers published in allied countries has been prohibited in Germany for some time past. Previously English, French and American newspapers could easily be bought at shops and bookstalls and were allowed to circulate freely, but now they are obtainable only by special permits, which are given to privileged persons, such as members of the Reichstag.

The prohibition apparently is intended to counteract the growing pessimism of the German people, and is attributed to fear on the part of the German military authorities lest the truth about the American effort should become known.

LIGHTNER GOES AFTER SLACKERS

Energetic Head of Employment Bureau Starts a Clean-up in Harrisburg Fashion

A systematic and thorough round-up of all chronic loafers and work-slackers in forty-four central counties of Pennsylvania has been begun by Jacob Lightner, director of the Bureau of Employment, of the Department of Labor and Industry.

A letter is being sent to each burgoes or mayor of every borough and city in these forty-four counties asking that lists of chronic loafers and perpetually jobless persons be obtained through the police departments for use of the employment officials.

In the letters to the various municipal officials is cited the co-operation of Mayor Daniel L. Keister, of Harrisburg, whose office has furnished the names of 225 chronically unemployed persons being obtained in that city.

"I am going to try to make it hotter for the shirkers at home than our soldiers are making it for the Hunns in the field," said Director Lightner to-day.

"Every man named on the lists from the city officials will receive a letter urging him to go to work. A few days later Federal agents will hunt up those men to learn whether they have accepted the advice. If the Federal agent finds them still enjoying idleness they will doubtless find an opportunity to deny it without any argument."

"Special attention will be given the petty gambler and others who have been living on the edge of the various communities. The investigators will not be deceived by badges of employment, as issued by various establishments, unless the wearers can give other proof that they are employed; because there are many men wearing such badges who have only worked long enough to obtain them and are to-day using them as a subterfuge to avoid regular employment."

Director Lightner said that during last week 495 men and six women applied for work at the desk placed by the employment service in the Union Station at Harrisburg. These applicants were referred to the employment bureau at Third and North streets and placed in employment in this district.

Every man transporting labor from the Harrisburg district is questioned at the Union Station and compelled to show credentials giving him authority to transport workers from the district.

Fire Destroys Farmers' Creamery Company Plant at Mt. Joy; Loss $25,000

Mt. Joy, Pa., Aug. 31.—Fire early this morning completely destroyed the big plant of the Farmers' Creamery Company at Mt. Joy, Pa. The fire started in a coal bin at the plant, was caused by spontaneous combustion, it is believed. The loss, which will reach $25,000, is partly covered by insurance.

Several boilers of the plant were saved but the remainder was a total loss. Fifty barrels of sugar, 100 pounds of milk and a large number of milk cans were destroyed.

The fire was well advanced when discovered and there was little chance of saving the plant. The firemen worked until the Manor township, the Penn Mutual and the Mt. Joy Mutual fire companies arrived. They were unable to check the flames in time to save the blazing structure, which had been burning for several hours before the firemen arrived.

WOMEN GET CODE FOR WORKING

Must Not Wear High-Heeled Shoes or Jewelry While Employed in Factories

Women employed in Pennsylvania industries should not wear jewelry, avoid loose ribbons and ornaments and leave their high-heeled shoes at home when engaged in work, according to the new "Shop Clothing" code prepared by the State Industrial Board. The code was drafted after investigation by Mrs. Samuel Temple, the woman member of the Board, and Dr. Elizabeth Bricker, chief of the division in charge of measures to safeguard women.

The code is to take effect October 1 and makes regulations for the dress of women at work, as well as calling for reports from plants employing women, with a statement of what they are doing.

A statement issued regarding it says: "The new clothing code requires that before shop uniforms are adopted by employers, samples should be submitted to the Industrial Board for a description of the work to be performed by the wearer. It also specifies that all women working around machinery, where their hair may be caught by moving parts, shall wear caps of suitable fabric and design, and regulation for the dress of women at work, as well as calling for reports from plants employing women, with a statement of what they are doing."

The Women's Division advises strongly against women workers wearing loose or flowing sleeves, ribbons or other trimming on the caps, patch pockets, buttons or ornaments, loose ties or any
