

BRETZ CREDITORS TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

Creditors of Harry M., Charles E. and William R. Bretz, the three members of the firm of Bretz Brothers, hardware dealers, now bankrupt, will meet next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Federal court room in this city for the examination of the bankrupt, according to letters sent out to-day by Referee John T. Olmsted. It is expected by attorneys for some of the creditors the examination will reveal the cause of the failure of the Bretz brothers to meet their liabilities.

Action also will be taken on whether permission will be given for a private sale of a property in Park avenue, Camp Hill, owned by Charles E. Bretz.

VARIETY BILL WINS APPLAUSE

Good Juggling Novelty at Majestic; Comedians Are Popular

Variety entertainment came into its own again at the Majestic for the last half of the week, the contrasting offerings winning much applause. During the last few weeks at times a vaudeville musical comedy held sway and the return to the changing acts seemed to please last night.

"Back Stage"—Billy West plays in this movie comedy which is fairly entertaining.

Johnson—This clever aerial artist has some interesting feats which he performs with skill and ease, something which always brings applause.

Duval and Symond—In dialogue and song they put across some humorous twists which start the laughs.

"The Owl"—Phil Adams is starred in this miniature musical comedy and in reality does most of the entertaining, although some of the song numbers are good. More comedy chatter would improve the offering.

Smith and Troy—It didn't take the crowds long last night to see that these two boys would do some real entertaining both in song and fun, and as they continued their work the applause increased.

Maestro and Co.—The juggling and balancing work was so fascinating that at the first show in the evening only a few left before the last curtain, an unusual record for such an act as the close of a bill which shows that exceptionally good turns will keep the crowds until the act is over.

MAX ROBERTSON.

To-morrow—William S. Hart in "The Gun Fighter," and a Keystone Comedy, with "Fatty" Arbuckle and Mabel Normand in "The Bright Lights."

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Catherine Calvert, in "Romance of the Underworld."

Seats are selling rapidly for the wonderful next Wednesday matinee "The Bird of Prey," which will close its run with performances to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night. This extraordinary film was created in and about the village of Ham, France, during the first of the world war, amid such historic happening that Mr. Griffith wove his thrilling and appealing love story. A symphony orchestra and a carload of special stage settings lend their aid to the realistic presentation of the spectacle. Performance begins promptly at 2:15 at the matinees and 8:15 at evenings.

George McManus' creation, "Bringing Up Father," now in its fourth consecutive year of phenomenal success, will appear in an entirely new atmosphere for its annual visit to the Orpheum next Wednesday, matinee and night. Patrons of this popular series of cartoon comedies have become so familiar with "Jiggs and Maggie" and their old friend, "Valty," not forgetting the inimitable "Fatty," that a genuine reception is accorded each character as they appear. After "Father" dips into politics, followed by the trip abroad, their homecoming is, indeed, a momentous occasion.

"Maggie's" patience sorely tried by "Jiggs" flirtatious ways with the fair sex, indeed divorces are distinctly visible on the family horizon, but next to his "beer" Jiggs loves "Maggie's" best, and that covers a multitude of sins. This street act, "Bringing Up Father at Home" an entirely new production this season, and one that will add greatly to the success of the comedy. Of course, laughter is the main ingredient. Girls and more girls will add zest to the entertainment.

To-night is the last opportunity patrons of the Colonial Theater will have to see "The Safety Curtain" in which brilliant Colonial Norma Talmadge is starred. Many favorable comments were heard concerning the picture, and few, if any, left the theater disappointed. The story is one that holds the interest of the audience throughout, while the work of Miss Talmadge is fine. Both in the comedy moments and her more serious moments she is superb. Charming and talented, Norma Talmadge has won a place in the hearts of the audience. A strong cast has been selected to support the star in this production. Saturday only, Edith Storey will be seen in "The Demon," a thrilling story of love and sacrifice.

No matter what they have, some people always want something more. Cecile B. DeMille's picture "We Can't Have Everything" is a picture that will give you a picture of a picture. Cecile B. DeMille, who married Cedric Belfrage, wanted to be a motion picture star. Cecile B. DeMille's latest production such a remarkable comedy-drama. And the ultimate outcome can be realized by seeing this picture to-day or to-morrow at the Regent Theater. It was shown yesterday and everybody laughed and laughed and saw it. It is one of those big boom dispellers. Next week, two big pictures will be shown at the Regent, "Crashing Through to Berlin" and "The Underworld."

When a man who is infatuated with Adele Durant kills himself in "The Bird of Prey" her presence, his friend, Robert Bradley, threatens to denounce her as a murderess unless she submits to his wishes. Bradley takes her to a lonely part of Mexico and leaves her at a disreputable dance hall, where she becomes one of the leaders of a band of brigands, who plot to kill the American
