Collapse of Bulgars Due to Concentration of Yankee in Drives

Washington, Sept. 28.—The impending collapse of Bulgaria, General March said to-day, is a direct result of the concentration of the American forces on the Western front.

Hitherto, General March explained whenever a section of the central empire was menaced Germany was able to withdraw divisions from the west front to bolster up the threatened point.

"That day now is past," he added, "as a result of the concentration of the entire American Army on the western front. This has forced the German general staff to keep intact their whole strength in France."

In the new Franco-American drive, the American forces west of Verdun have passed beyond the Hindenburg line and are facing the new Kriemhild line. General March was unable to identify positively American units which participated in this action.

He said the attack was characterized by the same shrapnel and rapidity which had heretofore marked the American operations. On the first day Pershing's men advanced from five to six miles.

Official dispatches to date show capture by the Americans in this sector of 8,000 prisoners, while the French to the west of them have taken more than 7,000.

FOOD PRICES TO BE GOVERNED BY NATION IS PLAN

Limit on Profits Urged as Only Means of Combatting High Cost of Living

Washington, Sept. 28.—Price control of the everyday necessities of life by governmental limitation of profits is urged as the only method in sight of combatting the ever-increasing cost of living in an official resolution of the war labor policies board.

Felix Frankfurter, chairman of the board, which is an official agency of the department of labor, in making his report to the board, explained that he and his associates realize the inherent difficulties presented by the question, but added with emphasis that like other great war problems it must be tackled and solved.

The resolution calls upon the war industries board, the food administration, the department of agriculture and the fuel administration to proceed as rapidly as possible with the formulation and enforcement of plans for the increase in production of the necessities of life, for the stabilization of their prices, and of the equitable limitation of profits.

As a first step in a determined plan to limit to reasonable prices the articles of personal and household use necessary to the average citizen, the public announcement of the resolution and Chairman Frankfurter's accompanying statement at this time is designed to sound the public ear.

The government proposes to call a halt to further advances in the prices the consumer has to pay for articles of personal and household use.

Mr. Frankfurter pointed out that labor is especially concerned in the maintenance of a fair level of prices. He said, therefore, naturally forced its attention to the attention of the war labor policies board representing as it does the industrial agencies of the country.

No one is critic the past failure to act, but it is made plain that the time for heroic measures has arrived.

Tells of Part Advertising Is Playing in Winning the War at Home and Abroad

The members of the Harrisburg Advertising Club and a number of guests attended the regular meeting of the club at the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Dinner was served and those present had the pleasure of listening to three excellent addresses.

Dr. Robert Bagnell gave a very interesting talk on "What Advertising is Doing to Win the World War" and explained the tremendous influence that advertising has had in bringing about the wonderful results accomplished both in the United States and in the other allied countries.

He clearly defined the nature and potency of advertising not only as a commercial agent but as a means of conveying to the people the principles and objects of the war, whether it be nationalistic or religious, or of some other character. He further explained what advertising has done and is doing, and pointed out the wonderful service that it will be called on to perform in the course of readjustment after the war.

Howe Stewart, president of the Poor Relief Club, and advertising manager of the Philadelphia Record spoke of the small beginning and wonderful growth and influence of the Poor Relief Club, and of the great work being accomplished in many other cities in this country and Canada by such organizations.

He spoke of the pleasure and personal satisfaction to be derived from membership and compliance with the Harrisburg Advertising Club on its auspicious start and predicted that it would prove a big factor in the commercial life of the city.

Andrew Patterson, president of the Chamber of Commerce and president of the Union Trust Company, commended the purposes of the club and such came to a close in this city yesterday.

That may be brought about between the two organizations. He reviewed the great change that had taken place in the character of business and the ideals of the public, and spoke of the still greater change that no doubt will prevail after the war. He illustrated the benefits that would follow the going together and interchange of ideas to meet the new conditions.

It was unanimously decided to make the services of the club to the movement of the city, in which it could in any way be helpful.

Several new members were admitted. The meeting was in charge of Harry E. Prevost.
