

Dr. Mudge Begins New Series of War Sermons

Urging a theocracy and not a democracy as an ideal state for this world, Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, pastor of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church, addressed his congregation last night, delivering the first of a series of Sword Sermons. The Garden of Eden was characterized as a state of God-like consciousness, guarded by a flaming sword. Faith is the one thing required to elude the flaming sword, the pastor declared. He urged the congregation to help make this a fit place for Christ to live and thus to hasten His second coming. At a religious service for the colored at Marsh Run yesterday afternoon, Bishop James Henry Darlington was the principal speaker. He was assisted by the Rev. Willoughby M. Parchment, rector of St. Augustine's Episcopal Church, the Rev. Leroy F. Baker, former rector of St. Paul's, and the Rev. Henry A. Post, rector of St. Andrew's Church. Dr. J. A. Lyter, pastor of the Derry Street United Brethren Church and secretary of the East Pennsylvania conference, yesterday rounded out a service of nineteen years in his pastorate. During his occupancy of the pulpit the church grew from a small edifice to a huge stone building. Just as it was finished, it was destroyed by fire and another church building was erected. The entire debt has been paid.

Wharton Study Club Sells Its Furniture For Red Cross

The Wharton Study Club which was organized and maintained by members of the Wharton Extension School, has disbanded for the period of the war and has sold its possessions. The proceeds, amounting to $95, were presented yesterday to Mrs. Lyman Gilbert, chairman of the local Red Cross organization, by J. W. Kline, of the State Library, who was formerly president of the club. Mr. Kline in his presentation statement said: "These funds were contributed in large measure by members who are already or who soon will be in the service, and by their many Harrisburg friends. It is the desire of those who remain that the funds be used for the benefit of those who are serving with the colors and it is believed that this can best be accomplished through the brave and untiring efforts of the Red Cross." The Wharton School in Harrisburg, continued Mr. Kline, "will go on as usual and registration is now in progress at the Chamber of Commerce each evening. The remaining Alumni and students are making every effort to fill the gaps with women and men of deferred classification. "In the future, however, the school will sacrifice the luxuries of the club and devote the savings thus accomplished to the prosecution of the war."

The Grocers Have Set a Patriotic Example By Closing On Saturday Nights

In deciding to close their stores every Saturday at six, as well as on other days, the Retail Grocers Association has moved in accord with the spirit of the times. That is practical conservation of labor energy as well as fuel, by concentrating the same amount of business in a lesser number of hours. The clerks and employers are mutual gainers, and the public will be served just as well.

We earnestly believe that the example set by the Grocers is one so commendable, that during the period of the war, especially, all stores could well afford to close on Saturday evenings as well as on other evenings without any inconvenience to the public, and with a great saving in fuel that could be converted into more essential channels.

All the beautiful electric signs, window lighting effects and interior lighting devices of a special character represent an aggregate of hundreds of thousands of dollars expended to attract attention to our names and wares. But that is an insignificant sum in comparison to what we have invested in the winning of this war.

It may seem very important that we burn fuel so we may have bright-looking and warm stores in which we may serve the people on Saturday nights; but isn't it far more important that these people should have ample fuel to be cozy in their own homes this winter?

Ordinarily it is essential that we have fuel to burn so we may have attractively illuminated windows in which to show our merchandise at night, but isn't it far more essential to have fuel where it keeps the workers in the essential industries, busily employed and 100 per cent. efficient?

It beautifies the city and is commercially important that we burn fuel so that innumerable electric signs may vie in brilliancy and color to keep our names and trade-marks before the people; but isn't it far more important to burn this fuel so that these peoples' children may have heat in the schools?

Suppose a drastic order came from Washington this winter that all stores could only be open four days a week to serve the public, rather than oblige essential industries to close part time, as they did last winter. Is there anyone who doubts that, with a little extra effort on the part of the salesforce and the public being requested to come in the dull morning hours—practically as much business could be done as with present hours?

If so, then why not voluntarily dispense with Saturday night opening this winter, by following the example of the grocers and thus complying with the suggestion of the Fuel Commissioner?

This store is willing and ready. How many others will join us?

We Must Go Over the Top On Fourth Liberty Loan

"Suppose when my commanding officer ordered me to take a detail of men into No-Man's-Land I had said, 'Let John do it, I have been out there through that mud and cold three times.' I would have been placed against a brick wall and shot quicker than I could say Jack Robinson." These were the words of Captain Harris, recently, in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce.

The same rule applies to us at home who are backing up our boys. We have no right to say "Let some one else buy bonds this time, I have bought once, twice and three times. Our boys cannot refuse to go over the top, no matter how many trenches they have captured. They must Carry On Toward Victory at any cost. So the least we can do is to back them up with the money that supplies them with munitions.
