Washington, Dec. 3.—The Federal Trade Commission, in a supplemental report submitted to Congress yesterday charged the five big meat packing companies of the country with a combination in restraint of trade and with controlling the sale of the stock and the country.

German Law Professor Assails Flight of Kaiser

Berlin, Dec. 3.—Doctor Steininger, professor of law, criticizing the flight of Kaiser Wilhelm, writes in Der Tag as follows: "No criticism would be too strong, because the Emperor's action was unkingly, unsoldierly and unmanly, and served to lead to the death blow to the monarchical idea in Germany."

Huns Would Try Former Emperor in Own Land

Amsterdam, Dec. 3.—A member of the soldiers' and workmen's councils in Germany have requested the German government to have the former Emperor William tried by a German tribunal, according to a news agency telegram from Berlin.

BAVARIAN HISS EISNER DURING TROOP WELCOME

Supporter of Premier Prevented From Making Address; Red Flags Go

London, Dec. 3.—Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian premier, is losing prestige, according to Munich advices received here by way of Amsterdam, Copenhagen and Berlin.

Mayor Calls on City to Celebrate British Day

Calling upon Harrisburg citizens to observe British Day, December 8, Mayor Keister yesterday issued the following proclamation: "Whereas, We have celebrated Bastille Day, in acknowledgement of our regard for France, it is only fitting that we should also celebrate British Day, December 8, 1918, the day which marks the beginning of the end of the British Empire."

Soldiers, With Smile, Fight; Smile on Lips in Death

Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—They entered into battle with smiles and, though many fell, the smile remained, a grim one, it is true, but a smile nevertheless. "Thus it is that Sergeant Jack Harris, of 1602 South Fourth street, enlisted in the One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, 'the old Fighting Third,' in a letter home from Convalescent Camp, Hospital Center, A. P. No. 785, writes: 'I am a member of the old Fighting Third, of Philly, and in commemoration of my pals who fought and fell, I can say that the boys of Philly's prize organization (now the One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, A. P. No. 785) are no more glorious fate. They entered into battle with a smile, and, though many fell, the smile remained, a grim one, it is true, but a smile nevertheless.'"

Girl on Trial for Murder Gains Point During Day

New York, Dec. 3.—Testimony of Dr. Otto H. Schultz, county medical examiner, in the trial of the girl in the arm of Mrs. Helen Mamel as those of Elizabeth Baksa, of Freemansburg, Pa., on trial for the murder of Mrs. Mamel, was discontinued yesterday by Judge Rosko. The court declared that the doctor's comparison of a model of Mrs. Baksa's teeth with an impression of the indentations in the murdered woman's arm was an experiment without sufficient development to justify its acceptance in court. Such evidence, he said, "was uncertain and speculative."

Mail in Air to Drop to Six Cents an Ounce

Washington, Dec. 3.—With the establishment of daily air mail service between New York and Chicago December 1, the postal rate will be reduced from sixteen cents an ounce to six cents. This rate applies to letters and sealed parcels not exceeding thirty inches in length and four inches in diameter. It is optional whether special delivery stamps are used.

Senator Moves to Put Marshall in Presidency

Washington, Dec. 3.—Senator Sherman, of Illinois, Republican announced yesterday he would introduce to-day a resolution to declare December 8, 1918, President because of Mr. Wilson's absence and proposing that the President's powers and duties should immediately devolve upon the vice-president.

Vice-President Marshall Absent Same Time as Wilson

Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Did you ever ship anything? If you have done so, you may faintly realize that to look after the shipping of thousands of things measured by carloads and trainloads, articles of every description and every size from a vest pocket package to solid trains loaded to capacity with steel, is not a nerve-racking occupation. Especially was this true when the success of one of our greatest war undertakings—the building of ships—depended upon their prompt delivery.

Transportation of Supplies Makes Possible Quick Work in Many Ways

Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Did you ever ship anything? If you have done so, you may faintly realize that to look after the shipping of thousands of things measured by carloads and trainloads, articles of every description and every size from a vest pocket package to solid trains loaded to capacity with steel, is not a nerve-racking occupation. Especially was this true when the success of one of our greatest war undertakings—the building of ships—depended upon their prompt delivery.

KAISER'S SAYINGS AS RUN BY BREW NEAR

Boastfulness of Early Days Replaced by a Note of Desperation; His "Greif" For France

In a court of law the internal evidence takes precedence over the external. Now, when the Kaiser is awaiting trial before the world court, a short preliminary survey of his own utterances will give a line on the character and motives of the accused. For the present purposes we need not go beyond August, 1914, though his previous expressions are, to say the least, more picturesque. It was long before the war that he said: "In Germany there is but one master, and that is I." "Whoever opposes my will, him I will break!" "We Hohenzollern derive our power by the direct imposition of divine authority," and others of the celebrated sword-rattling adjectives now as obsolete as the crossbow and the catapult.
