Attendance prizes and silent boosts for the week are in the hands of the committee.

M'KIBBIN, BRAVE SOLDIER, WAS ON PATTISON'S STAFF

Brigadier General Who Died in Washington Inspector General of National Guard

National Guard historians at the Capitol recall the fact that Brigadier General Chambers McKibbin, who died in Washington on Monday, was once an aid on the staff of Governor Pattison and later inspector general of the National Guard, a place he held for four years.

The story of General McKibbin's early life is one of the most interesting stories of the Civil War. He was born in Pittsburgh on November 2, 1841. During his boyhood the family moved to Philadelphia, and it was there he enlisted in a Philadelphia regiment and went to the front in the Civil War, and at Gaines Mill joined the fighting ranks of the Fourteenth Infantry. He was wounded shortly after getting into active service.

A short time later he enlisted for general military service and received a commission as second lieutenant of the Fourteenth Infantry. He fought with this organization in the campaign of the Army of the Potomac, except at Gettysburg. He was wounded both at Chancellorsville and at Wilderness Railroad, and was severely wounded again on August 18, 1864. He was cited for bravery in the battle of North Anna River, Virginia.

From the close of the Civil War until the declaration of war with Spain he saw service in the Indian campaigns in the West. At the outbreak of war with Spain he was lieutenant-colonel of the Twenty-first Infantry, and on July 10, 1898, he was appointed a brigadier general of volunteers. He commanded the Second Brigade, Second Division, Fifth Army Corps, to April, 1899. He took part in the Santiago campaign in Cuba and afterward served in the field in the Philippine Islands.

General McKibbin retired in August, 1902, after forty years' service, both in the United States service and the Pennsylvania National Guard. During the intervals between military activities General McKibbin returned to Pittsburgh and embarked in the iron business with McKnight & Co. At the same time his military training began to exhibit itself and he entered the Eighteenth Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, in 1873, where he rose from private to colonel of the regiment, serving with honor during the Pennsylvania railroad riots of 1877.

Military Units May Sell Property That They Own

Washington, Jan. 1.—Under a general order issued yesterday by the war department, property owned by military units such as pianos, phonographs, libraries, athletic goods and such articles, may be disposed of by the organization and the funds thereby derived be added to the unit fund. Should the property not be disposed of after the unit is disbanded, the commander may sell the property and divide the money among the enlisted members.

KEEP WHEAT PRICE UP

Washington, Jan. 1.—Chairman Lever, of the House Agricultural Committee, announced last night after a conference with Secretary Houston, that legislation to insure the maintenance of the Government wheat price for the 1919 crop was being drafted by the Department of Agriculture and that he would introduce it in Congress within a few days.

Pa Philip, Who Helped Transport 110,000 Troops

ARTHUR E. PHILIP After having dodged a dozen U-boats' torpedoes, Chief Engineer Arthur E. Philip of the Empress of Britain has the record of having helped to transport 110,000 troops while traveling 174,000 miles. This took him to every part of the world during his more than four years of war service. Philip, who was personally decorated by King George, is senior chief engineer of the Southern Pacific Fleet. He is known by his fellow officers as "Pa." The Empress of Britain has been bringing wounded soldiers back to the United States.

Saving Several Shovelfuls of Coal

Baby must have it extra warm for a bath. What does such an occasion mean in your home? Do you have to put all the draft on the furnace and feed in the precious fuel every time you want one room warmer than the rest of the house? Or do you light your Perfection Oil Heater and save that coal?

PERFECTION OIL HEATERS

are helping to heat millions of American homes. Don't get the idea that they are only for houses that have no furnaces. Perfections are for every home and there was never a time when they were more needed than right now. You'll find a heap o' comfort in your Perfection, too. There's something homey and cheerful about it that you'll like.

Perfection heat is economical heat because kerosene is an economical fuel. But remember this—it makes all the difference in the world what kind of kerosene you use. There is one kind though, that you can always be sure of. It is easy to get it because it has a special name—Atlantic Rayolight Oil. Ask for it by that name. It gives maximum heat and burns without smell, smoke or sputter.

Perfections are safe oil heaters. There is no risk of turning the wick too high. That is impossible, unless you take it apart. A good plan would be to go to your dealer and select your Perfection now. He has a good supply now—reasonably priced, $5.65 to $10.00.
