Why It Pays the Customer To Shop In the Morning Most women do their shopping in the afternoon. But did they realize how much better the stores could serve them in the morning many would change their habits. During the forenoon when business is comparatively dull you can make your selections more leisurely and be fitted without the slightest haste or confusion. And there's another advantage. Study the chart. It shows the condition of the average mind during the entire 24 hours. From 10.30 till noon the faculties swiftly become more awake and alert. Tests by psychologists have demonstrated this. Therefore by shopping in the morning you secure the services of the salesperson at her highest peak of ability. Her perceptions, her color sense, her eye for line and contour are at their keenest. And the same applies to you. We're glad to see you at any time—morning or afternoon. But just try shopping in the morning once. See if you don't enjoy it.

Girls Receive Prizes at the D. A. R. Meeting

One of the most interesting programs has been arranged for the meeting tomorrow of the Harrisburg chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, in the Civic club. Opening at 3 o'clock, with the Regent, Miss Cora Lee Snyder, presiding from start to finish there will be "something different all the time."

Girls of the senior class Central High School who are prize winners in the annual D. A. R. essay contest will receive their gifts of gold from Mrs. Charles J. Wood, Jr., after Miss Virginia Downs, who secured the first prize, reads her essay on "The Value of Our Naval power to the Country."

Miss Catherine Dubbs, soprano, accompanied by Miss Steinhauer, will sing "The Americans Come," "Danny Boy" and "The Lullaby in Khaki," and there will be patriotic songs from the new folk songs of the chapter.

Dr. Walter E. Severance, new principal of Central High School will make a brief address and there will be a brief resume of the recent State conference D. A. R. held in this city.

Tea will follow with Mrs. Joseph A. Thompson and Mrs. Robert Porter and Miss Snyder, the Regent, pouring, assisted by the committee and school girls.

There are many members of other D. A. R. chapters now in the city and some members-at-large all of whom are cordially invited to be present and become acquainted with the local people.

INTERESTING PERSONAL NEWS

MISS JAMESON TO WED LT. FORSTER

Grandson of Former Insurance Commissioner Has Fine Military Record

Many Harrisburg people will be interested in the approaching wedding of the grandson of the late J. Montgomery Forster, for many years Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania and a well-known young lady of Philadelphia. Lieutenant John Montgomery Forster is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forster and visited in Harrisburg frequently at the old homestead, in South Front street. His fiancée, Miss Gladys M. Jameson, is the daughter of Dr. G. L. S. Jameson, of St. Davids, and the wedding will take place at St. Mary's Episcopal Church on March 4, to be followed by a large reception and a honeymoon trip in the South.

Owing to the fact that number of the officers who would have served in the bridal party are still overseas, or have been discharged from the service, the original plan of a large military ceremony may have to be abandoned. Lieutenant Forster is a hero of the Great War and returned from France January 23, having been invalided home after a severe attack of influenza and pneumonia, about the time the armistice was signed. He was honorably discharged from the service about two weeks ago.

Fine Military Career

The many friends of the Forster family in Harrisburg will doubtless be interested in the young officer's military career. He was born in Philadelphia, St. Davids in 1894, attending the Harvard school; was graduated from the Yale, class of 1915, and subsequently attended the University of Pennsylvania Law School. In May, 1917, he entered the first Niagara Training Camp, where he was given a commission as second lieutenant in field artillery. On August 15, a month later, he sailed for France where he was sent to the famous French Artillery School at Saumur. On January 1, 1918, he was assigned to the 101st Field Artillery, 26th Division, which was brigaded with the French at Chemin de Dames a more or less active sector. After three weeks with a French battery of Verdun veterans, Lieutenant Forster was ordered in March to join the Sixth Field Artillery "First Division," which was sent to Picardy, offensive sector in April. As liaison officer before the Cambrai fight, which was the first American victory, the young lieutenant was wounded by shell. His company was subjected to harassing fire, four straggling telephone wires, four were killed and several wounded, including Lieutenant Forster who was struck in the foot. He was carried back to a dressing station and subsequently sent to a base hospital near Paris. He rejoined his battery in Picardy in June and was with his division in the Toul sector early in July where he took part in the preparation for the attack on the Soissons salient. He participated in the hard fighting in July, beginning on the 18th and when the Division was relieved Lieutenant Forster was sent to Launay as an instructor in field artillery. His regiment was awarded three citations and Lieutenant Forster himself, with two others of his regiment, received the Croix de Guerre for gallant conduct in action.

Telegraph Man Receives Honorable Discharge

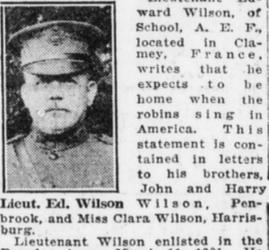

First Class Sergeant Frank Lindsey, formerly a monotype operator at the Telegraph Printing Company, is home after receiving an honorable discharge from the Regular Army. Mr. Lindsey left Harrisburg December 11, 1917, joining the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, was appointed sergeant January 13, 1918; was made first sergeant and also appointed the small arms firing instructor while at Camp Dick, Texas. Sergeant Lindsey was later transferred to the air service and was made a sergeant first class July 18, 1918. At the time Camp Dix was demobilized, Sergeant Lindsey was transferred as first sergeant in the Regular Army and assigned to Troop M, 14th Cavalry, stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, on December 20, from which place he received his discharge with an excellent military record. The above photograph shows Sergeant Lindsey in the uniform of a flying sergeant in the air service.
