

ROTARY CLUB TO BE HOST AT DIST. CONFERENCE HERE

Biggest Gathering in History of Fifth District Is to Be Held Here

The first step for the reception and entertainment of the fifth district conference of International Rotary, which is to be held at the Penn-Harris hotel, Thursday and Friday, April 10 and 11, was taken at a luncheon of the conference committee...

The following is the conference committee of arrangements: Eli N. Hershler, chairman; William S. Esick, registration; J. S. Musser, men's reception; Mrs. F. G. Diener, ladies' reception; Norris S. Longaker, men's entertainment; Mrs. R. S. Lyon, ladies' entertainment; W. H. German, hotels and reservations; F. B. Musser, automobiles; J. William Bowman, decorations; A. D. Bacon, special service; Charles W. Roll, booster; A. W. Moul, baggage; Howard C. Fry, the district governor and William M. Robison, conference secretary, were also present at this luncheon.

There will be some three or four hundred visiting guests in attendance at this International Rotary convention, and the Harrisburg Rotary club, which will be the host, is planning to have the best convention from the standpoint of reception and entertainment, that the Fifth District Conference of International Rotary has ever had.

A tentative program was arranged and the final adoption of same will take place at the next meeting of the conference committee. The fifth district is one of the most important districts in International Rotary, and consists of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison went home to Brooklyn, this morning, after a short stay among relatives in this vicinity.

Miss Alice Barth and her brother George F. Barth, of Pittsburgh, are stopping for a few days with their sister, Mrs. M. Luther James of North Second street.

The Personal Contact in a Store Like Mine

My store is comparatively small. It's still small enough to be a one-woman institution. I hope to keep it that way. Why? I can both buy and sell. I do not have to delegate. What is the result? Every garment shown is an expression of my own taste or my interpretation of my public's taste.

Also I'm constantly on the floor—in personal contact with my clientele. My customers receive the benefit of any personal experience in selecting becoming wearing apparel. And it's from this contact that I am able to buy with judgment and discrimination. Every week or ten days finds me in New York exerting my knowledge of my public's wants in making selections.

What this means to my clientele is shown by its steady expansion.

LOVELY DANCE IN PENN-HARRIS

University Club Displays War Relics in Decorations; Pretty Costumes

Flags, pennants, portraits of George Washington, a historic flag and cherry trees in full fruit added to the decorations of the ballroom of the Penn-Harris Hotel last evening for the Washington's Birthday dance of the University Club. Bowers of greenery, used as cosy corners, attracted the guests between the dances and many were interested in the relics loaned by Ehrman B. Mitchell, an old flag rescued by Robert Fulton Ehrman, a Marine officer, from the Civil War gunboat Westfield, which was sunk by internal explosion in the harbor of Galveston.

The Soubrier orchestra played most inspiring music for the dancing and a delicious supper was served in the banquet hall, also gaily decorated for the occasion. The patronesses were: Mrs. Arthur E. Brown, Mrs. William H. Henderson, Mrs. Henderson Gilbert, Mrs. P. M. Hall, Mrs. H. M. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Howard R. Omwake, Mrs. Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., Mrs. J. Douglas M. Royal and Mrs. Mercedes B. Tatich.

The committees in charge of the event included: Decorations, Elmer E. Erb, Robert T. Fox and George Wolford Quilguy; Invitations and acceptances, B. Allen and J. O. Shaar; reception, Henderson Gilbert and C. H. MacDonald; supper, Dr. Karl Schaffie and C. H. MacDonald; chaperons, E. B. Mitchell and William S. Earnest; special features and music, C. O. Shaar; C. Frederick Kammerer; publicity, J. Douglas M. Royal.

Many of the younger set were in attendance and most of the women wore the prettiest of new dancing frocks. It is said that never before this winter have so many attractive young girls been gathered together at this dance. There were about 250 people present.

Debate Teams Meet

The affirmative and negative debating teams met Thursday night at the home of Miss Katherine Zeiders to discuss the material they have worked up for the coming debates. Prof. M. O. Billow, instructor of declamation at Tech, was also present to help the debaters, and suggested many points that both teams will put into effect during the coming week. The question for debate this year is "Resolved, That Universal Military Service Should Be Adopted by the United States." The affirmative team, composed of Carl Stoner, Stewart Wagner and Winston Komiz, will meet the Reading debating team in this city. The negative team will journey to Hazleton on March 14, to oppose the Reading team from the Hazleton High school. Alton Conner, Robert Crist and Arthur Hilber are the members of the negative team.

Philonians on Teams

The Philonian Debating Society is well represented on both the affirmative and negative debating teams, which will represent the school in the coming Debate League. In fact only one of the six members of the teams is not a member of the debating society. Wagner and Crist are both officer, and Stoner, Conner and Hilber have been prominent in the society's debates.
