

Lieut. Dorr Is Presented With Gift of Good Will

A sixty-cover dinner was given last evening at the Penn Harris by the transportation Department of the Aviation General Supply Depot, at Middletown. Lieutenant Dorr, as toastmaster, scored a decided hit. His intimate knowledge of camp incidents gave him the advantage over every man present and, as he encircled the table, he revived many little incidents which his victims had willingly and discreetly forgotten. Sergeant O'Brien, in behalf of the men, presented Lieutenant Dorr with a gift as a token of the hearty good will and fellowship accorded him at the camp.

BRONX CLUB BALL MOST DELIGHTFUL

Beautiful Decorative Effects in Winterdale; Stirring Music, Lovely Gowns

Last evening, at nine o'clock in Winterdale Hall, the Sourbeer-Myers Orchestra jazzed the opening bar for what proved to be one of the most delightful dances of the season. The event given by the Bronx Club, exceeded all expectations, and the varicolored gowns conspired with the decorations to transform the hall into a veritable bower of beauty.

The platform upon which the orchestra was seated, was hidden behind a bank of palms and ferns and a huge American flag was suspended from the balcony. Other smaller flags, arranged in artistic groups, were much in evidence but the main decorative scheme was a spring theme.

Beautiful butterflies poised as if for flight, hovered among the riot of flowers, and as the lights were dimmed and the soft rays of a spot-light played upon the scene, a miraculous transformation took place. The gates of Fairyland opened and one found oneself dancing a mystic dance in the midst of a company of elves and nymphs.

Then, as at a given magic signal, the music ceased, the spell was broken and the world of realities loomed suddenly forth, leaving only a memory.

The chaperons were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Mellus, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Crook, and Mrs. Stimmell.

The committee included Miss Eleanor Weaver, Miss Helen Crook, Miss Helen Fisher, John Wingert, Arthur Shultz and Harvey L. Essminger.

Mrs. Chris Willis, of the Reynard apartments, is visiting her son, Ross Willis, in Cleveland, Ohio, where he is in charge of the Cleveland District U. S. Steel inspectors with offices in Cleveland.

Mrs. Fred Cummings, of Reading, will return to that place this evening after a several days' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cummings, 14 North Fourth street.

ENGAGEMENT TEA AT "THE PINES"

Miss Evelyn Cumber to Marry Lieut. Reibel, of California, in the Early Spring

Guests at the charming little tea given this afternoon by Miss Evelyn E. Cumber at her home, "The Pines," Highspire, had the pleasure of meeting her house guest, Miss Eulalia Gill, of Latrobe.

Vases of Opheelia roses, snapdragon and white lilacs filled the rooms with their fragrance and in the dining room a centerpiece of roses and lilacs graced the tea table. Lieutenant Joseph Snyder, of 318 South Fifteenth street, is at his home with his wife, where he was recently cited for bravery in action.

Morning Shopping--- Why It Saves You Money

Do you know what sets the selling prices of merchandise? It's very simple. A retailer figures all his expenses—finds what they come to in percentage—then adds this percentage to the cost of what he buys—adds another percentage for profit and there's the selling price. So if you help a store cut its expenses it can afford to sell just so much cheaper.

The biggest single expense item is salaries of salespeople. Why is this high in a store like mine? Because they have to be paid, of course, for a full day, though most of their work is done only in the afternoon. If the day's business could be spread out more evenly fewer salespeople could handle it—selling prices would be lower. My business is growing fast. Soon I'll need more girls. Unless—some of my customers will develop the habit of shopping mornings. Then my present force can handle all the business. And I can mark my goods even lower than at present.

Get the morning shopping habit. It will save you money.

State Nursery Inspector Dined on His Birthday

Enos B. Engle, state nursery inspector, is celebrating his seventy-eighth birthday to-day, and in honor of the event there was a little dinner given him last evening at the Penn-Harris. Just a few days ago he remarked: "I am too young to carry a cane," so the office employees of the Bureau of Economic Zoology presented him with a fine umbrella, which he is proudly carrying to-day in the timely rain.

Mr. Engle was appointed to his position August 1, 1901, and has efficiently held it ever since. Now he does only office work, issuing licenses to nurserymen, dealers and agents. His father was a well-known nurseryman of Marietta and introduced the Paragon chestnut, which has attracted much attention in recent years.

Millions to Flow Into United States Treasury Today as Income Taxes

By Associated Press
Washington, March 15.—About four million persons and business concerns are expected to file income or profits tax returns before tonight and to pay the first twenty-five per cent. installment of tax, which probably will aggregate between $800,000,000 and $1,000,000,000.

This tremendous inflow of money to tax collectors' offices will be counterbalanced by an outflow of about $800,000,000 to redeem certificates of indebtedness issued last November 7, in anticipation of the tax collections today.

Penalties are provided for failure to file returns with collectors by tonight, but it is stated that leniency would be shown in the cases of those whose returns arrive a day or two late. Returns mailed before tonight will be accepted, it was explained.
