ADAMS FRUIT ORCHARDS SAFE Recent Cold Weather Has Not Seriously Damaged Apple and Peach Blossoms

Gettysburg, Pa., April 28.—Orchardists of Adams county have been going through their orchards making careful surveys following the cold snap at the end of last week and believe that no serious damage has been done throughout the great fruit belt of the county.

The buds on both the apple and peach trees, the big crops of the county, are just at the stage where the wind was the greatest protection to them. With the exception of a few of the early varieties the buds on the apple trees have not yet fully opened, while the buds on the peach trees are just at the point where they could not be harmed as easily as if they had been open.

Mercersburg Odd Fellows Celebrate Anniversary

Mercersburg, Pa., April 28.—Marshall Lodge, No. 232, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the order Saturday evening with the most elaborate affair the lodge has ever held. The committee on arrangements, consisting of J. Dingler, R. C. Cron, Well, H. L. Wolfe, H. L. Waidlich and J. Z. Faust decided that a banquet with suitable addresses and a program of music would be a most fitting manner in which to celebrate.

The banquet was held in the dining room of the Mansion House where 60 couples were seated. The guests marched into the dining room with music played by an orchestra composed of members of the lodge and their families.

At the close of the dinner, the Rev. L. E. Wilson, past grand, acting as toastmaster gave a brief historical sketch of the order with a statement of its great achievements in growth of membership, building and maintaining of homes, and amounts spent in relief work.

J. J. Bonebrake, of Chambersburg, made the principal address. He spoke of the need of brotherhood through the world, and paid glowing tribute to the boys represented in this room, who were in the service flag, one of which had turned out to gold.

Dr. W. M. Bashore, of Macedonia, Iowa, followed with an address on the work of the Rebecca degree, the organization of women working with the Odd Fellows.

Toasts were given by Past Grand H. L. Waidlich, a member of the lodge for 33 years, the Rev. W. L. Slough, Sidney F. Negas and H. E. Hege.

BRIDGE BROKEN BY BIG TRUCK

Wooden Floor Gives Way Under Heavy Load of Lumber, Near Gettysburg

Gettysburg, Pa., April 28.—Coming from the mountain with seven tons of lumber, a big truck crashed through the wooden floor of the bridge over Willoughby Run, about a mile and a half from town. The truck was driven by Charles Asper, of Aspers Station, and he, the only occupant, was uninjured. The iron rods beneath the plank bottom of the bridge saved the truck from plunging into the stream below, a distance of about twenty feet, and causing a more serious accident.

The machine was on its way from the mountain, where the lumber had been secured, to Aspers Station, the lumber to be used there in constructing work at the plant of the Aspers Fruit Products Company.

The bridge gave way almost as soon as the full weight of the truck was down upon it. So completely was the truck wedged down between the iron rods that it took several hours to loosen it and get it out.
