

BLACK AND RED JAR MAUVE BADLY

Complaints of Automobile Tag Color Scheme Fail to Get Change

Complaint that a red and black automobile license tag is out of place on a mauve colored limousine has been entered at the State Highway Department, but it is very improbable that consideration will be given to such objections this year. The color of royal blue and white has already been designated for the tags of 1920.

The complaint about the color of the tag came from a woman, whose name has been withheld at the State Highway Department, but she said that the color scheme of the tag and average car should be considered and not arbitrarily arranged, as did the man who designated the green corn for a telephone which might be located in a delicately tinted boudoir. The point was made that nature did not put black minora feathers on lyre birds.

The color complaints are not new in the Highway Department, as women in mourning have asked to be allowed to use white and black tags and college and club colors have been suggested as special issues by men of unusual tastes. Highway Commissioner Lewis S. Sadler has ruled that the color standard must be the same no matter how seriously the colors may jar when placed on specially designed and painted automobiles.

In announcing that the colors for 1920 will be royal blue and white, the Department notes that the colors by years since 1916 have been blue and white, red and white, yellow and black, white and black, black and white, yellow and white, mahogany and white, green and white, light blue and white, again, light blue and white, yellow and black for the second time, brown and white and very dark blue and white in the order named, with black and red for this year.

At the Men's League of St. Andrew's Episcopal church ever hold another entertainment in their gymnasium at Nineteenth and Market streets, it is going to be so largely attended, they'll have to build a new clubhouse. Mark that, and hark to the color of their doings last night in the first vaudeville show and dance staged by the newly-formed organization (organized just a month ago).

The little gymnasium was jammed and packed with spectators when promptly on the tap of eight the orchestra struck up a rollicking melody. The impromptu stage with its full complement of curtains, footlights and property men, was very much in evidence at the front of the room. In a brief address John P. O'Neill, chairman of the entertainment committee, introduced the program to come, and introduced the beautiful quartet. The curtain rolled up and the audience glimpsed at the white, red and white, yellow and black, white and black, black and white, yellow and white, mahogany and white, green and white, light blue and white, again, light blue and white, yellow and black for the second time, brown and white and very dark blue and white in the order named, with black and red for this year.

58 Cities Submit Reports on Employment Conditions; Surplus in Pennsylvania

Washington, May 2.—Unemployment conditions showed a slight improvement in the week ending April 26, on the basis of reports for 58 cities, a summary of which was made public to-day by the Federal Employment Service.

Thirty-five cities reported a total surplus of 32,600, a decrease of several thousand from the total of the previous week, while six reported a shortage totalling 2,450 and twenty showed an equality of supply and demand.

The surplus showed a decrease for the first time in New England and Pacific coast states. Supply and demand in New Jersey and Delaware are equal, while some surplus is reported in Pennsylvania.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR MEN'S LEAGUE

Gymnasium at St. Andrew's Packed With Enthusiastic Audience

Following a contest held by the L. S. C. E. of the Fourth Street Church of God, the Red Side, losers, entertained the Blue Side, winners, at a social in the church. The program comprised a vocal solo, "Southern Moon," by Miss Sara Beck, a vocal duet, "Till We Meet Again," a reading and piano solo by Miss Kathryn Meek, and some impersonations of a negro by Harold Townsen. Several games were played in which William Frank Clarence MacDonnell won prizes. The following people were present:

Miss Sarah Beck, Miss Della Berkheimer, Miss Josephine Bond, Miss Mar Brown, Miss Violet Campbell, Miss Anna Davis, Miss Ora Davis, captain of the Red Side; Miss Margaret Ender, Miss Anna Erb, Miss Margaret Erb, Miss Martha Feeser, Miss Anna Fisher, Miss Sue Hayward, Miss Lucille Kann, Miss Catherine Long, Miss Dorothy Long, Miss Marion Maulfair, Miss Kathryn Meek, Miss Violet Meyer, Miss Katherine Pillow, Miss Lillian Rinehart, Miss Edith Rife, captain of the Blue Side; Miss Edna Robinson, Miss Rebecca Shick, Miss Pauline Stevic, Miss Elizabeth Yahn, Miss Kathryn Zimmerman, Richard Cass, William Franklin, Franklin Kaufmann, William Keagle, William Keef, Carlton Laverty, Clarence MacDonnell, president of the society; Robert Matthias, Albert Musser, William Musser, Elmer Stoner, Edward Stoner, Charles Thompson, Robert Wallower, Francis Wenrick, Harry Young, Mrs. Robert Wallower, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Townsen, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Cass.

The little gymnasium was jammed and packed with spectators when promptly on the tap of eight the orchestra struck up a rollicking melody. The impromptu stage with its full complement of curtains, footlights and property men, was very much in evidence at the front of the room. In a brief address John P. O'Neill, chairman of the entertainment committee, introduced the program to come, and introduced the beautiful quartet. The curtain rolled up and the audience glimpsed at the white, red and white, yellow and black, white and black, black and white, yellow and white, mahogany and white, green and white, light blue and white, again, light blue and white, yellow and black for the second time, brown and white and very dark blue and white in the order named, with black and red for this year.

Chairman O'Neill announced that he had heard the Runkle boys, acrobats, could not appear. George C. Martin, impersonator, took the next spot, presenting a ludicrous imitation of a colored preacher that sent the hearers into gales of merriment. Mrs. Howard E. Genover, soprano soloist, sang several numbers very beautifully, and Delloe and Shuey were an undoubted feature of the program, with xylophone and piano selections.

The Newboys quartet, four boys carrying copies of the Harrisburg Telegraph, struck the famous barbershop chord in several popular songs. There is talent among these newbies, it was shown to the audience, and who knows but what the audience last night heard coming operatic stars.

Miss Margaret Pollock, Mrs. Nellie Fensler, Mrs. Betty Harper and Miss Grace Rheinert, in a clever vaudeville sketch occupied the following number of the program. Miss Pollock's light, airy and graceful dancing was the hit of the sketch. The scene opened showing a picture of college life with the girls busy as barroom boys in a bumblebee's nest, whistling, singing, dancing and having "a real good time." They were given ample opportunity to show their splendid ability, and the audience showed its appreciation by vociferous applause.

A patriotic touch was given to the finale in an impressive tableau in which Miss Grace Seighman, Miss Vesta Smith, Miss Miriam Smith and Kent Stewart, Lee R. Conley and Luther Jones participated. Columbia was shown standing on a pedestal with a soldier on one side and a sailor on the other. A wounded soldier was lying at her feet and a Salvation Army lassie and Red Cross nurse were giving him assistance. The orchestra struck up "The Star Spangled Banner." Dancing followed the show.

Philonians Give Cup to Central High Winners

Because no public-spirited citizen offered to present a trophy to the winning team of the Triangle Debating League of which Central High school is a member, the Philonian Debating Society of Central presented the school with a handsome loving cup in behalf of the two teams. The Philonians won a victory over Hazleton and Reading in a recent league debate.

Lewis K. Rimer presented the cup for the Philonians and Principal Walter E. Severance received it for the school. The Philonian members this year are Clyde D. Hoeker, president; Stuart Wagner, vice-president; Robert W. DeBorja, secretary; W. K. McBride, treasurer; Gilchrist Brinsinger, custodian; Stanley Perrin, toastmaster; Carl B. Stoner, Lewis K. Rimer, Edith Smith, Richard Quigley, Milton Potts, Arthur Hibler, Arthur Hibler, Fred Snyder and Harold Connor. The proceeds of the recent Philonian dance were used to purchase the cup.

Large Sum Realized For Riverside Church

There was an interesting entertainment held in Tech auditorium for the benefit of the Riverside Methodist Church, with the program arranged by the church mandolin and guitar club.

Professor John T. Yenyon, of London, England, a dramatic reader of world-wide reputation, gave a wonderful production of "Lady Audley's Secret," which was a most pleasing and artistic manner, making a perfect whole. Will D. Meyer gave several mandolin numbers to the delight of the audience and P. B. Smith gave much pleasure by the fine rendition of a group of songs.

The church realized a nice sum for the treasury and appreciated the assistance of the club in making the entertainment a success.
