"When a Girl Marries"

By ANN LISLE

A New, Romantic Serial Dealing With the Absorbing Problems of a Girl Wife

CHAPTER CXXIX.

"Dick West is a cad!" I said disgustedly to Phoebe. "First he gets you fathoms deep into his debt. Then he asks you to marry him and makes ugly insinuations about what people will say of your owing him money if you don't marry him. And when he goes as far as to drag Virginia in, I think he's a regular black-maller."

"Then you don't think he could make me out a dreadful sort of girl that every one would turn away from?" cried Phoebe.

Her tension relaxed and I could see the beginnings of relief coming to her terrified young face.

"Of course not, child," I replied in a matter-of-fact tone. "I think you ought to be spanked for gambling and stood in the corner forever thinking Dick West was to be trusted. But you've been foolish and reckless, not criminal. So now wipe that desperate look from your face while I think our way out."

Phoebe smiled wistfully through a tiny veil of tears. I thanked her guardian angel that she was still a child at heart and didn't see the danger of her story. If Dick West wanted to force her to marry in order to avoid gossip, he would still have the whip-hand when she had paid off her debt. Paying the debt wouldn't change the fact that she'd once owed him money. If he were cad enough to talk, he'd still have the story of her gambling and borrowing to tell, even when the money was paid. It had to be paid—and at once. Still I didn't see how that would get her out of his power.

"I could feel Phoebe's eyes fixed trustfully and hopefully on mine, as I sat reviewing the whole sorry business. I made a vow that her name shouldn't be smirched if I could help it, and that she should even be saved from a big, raw deal some day. You'll see."

"Oh, Anne, you make me believe I'm going to be happy again and not frightened and miserable all the time," murmured Phoebe, giving a little skip as she rose to leave the dining room. He's coming to-night—Dick West is, and I'll do just what you've said."

"You might try to stay friendly with him. No use having enemies," I warned, praying that even a scoundrel like Dick West would let Phoebe off without opening her eyes.

Then I went to the writing room, gave Phoebe the check that wiped out my part account and hurried home. I longed to go to Jim with the whole story, and to enlist his help. I must confess I had a moment of selfish joy in planning how close Jim and I would come through his little sister's trouble. I felt a great longing to find Jim again, and it seemed that Phoebe was showing us the way. This very evening Jim and I would work out her salvation together, and our perhaps, too, I said a little prayer to myself as I rode up in the elevator—a prayer for Phoebe and for me.

When I got to the door of my apartment there stood Evvy Mason, her finger pressed to the pearl disk of the electric bell.

"I've just been calling on your charming neighbor, Mrs. Cosby," she explained. "And I'm running in to invite you and Jim to join us at a little party I'm giving at our country place this week-end. I want to have the Cosbys meet some of our neighbors. Jim will like that, won't he?"

"We can't come. Not possibly," I declared as I led Evvy into the living room.

My one objection was to have her visit conclude before Jim came home. I didn't want Evvy intruding on our meeting. But I soon perceived that Evvy's object was to remain until Jim came. She insisted on being shown over the apartment and lingered with no seeming thought of time until Jim marched in on us.

"Is it dreadfully late?" she cried in seeming confusion. "Oh, Jimmie, I'm a lovely nest you've built for Anne! It makes me want a little place of my own."

"Nice child!" replied Jim expanding under her gaze of wide-eyed admiration. "You stay here and share the nest now. We'll have a cozy little dinner and then call in Shelly or Tom for a game of bridge."

"How adorable! But I wouldn't think of intruding on you and Anne," returned Evvy putting it up to me, and leaving me helpless to rescue the evening I had wanted for Phoebe and me.

"Of course you must stay," I said. "I haven't a nest like this," said Evvy huskily, looking up at Jim. "But I've the old homestead. You won't refuse to come out for the week-end, will you, Jimmie? Anne thought you had made other arrangements."

"I'd come—for you even if I had to cancel a dozen bookings," replied Jim gallantly. "Anne's mistaken, though, we've nothing else on."

"We'll be a nice party," said Evvy complacently. "Everyone and her best beat. But I really must run along now. I'll have a bit of arranging to do, and I'll leave the two love-birds alone in the nest. Not a word, you nice, cordial people."

As he closed the door after Evvy Jim turned to me with the almost habitual scowl between his brows. And in a sudden panic I sensed that Evvy and her party bode no good for Phoebe or me.

PROPOSES PUBLIC OWN RAILROADS

Resolution Is Presented Before American Federation of Labor

Atlantic City, N. J.—A proposal that organized labor insist upon public ownership of the railroads of the country is before delegates attending the reconstruction convention of the American Federation of Labor by Glenn E. Plumb, counsel for the railroad brotherhoods.

The speaker's statement that the ownership of the systems should be acquired immediately was greeted with prolonged applause. The cheering was renewed when Mr. Plumb said that with the government substituting government bonds for outstanding securities, the railroads would be "removed from the dictatorship of Wall street."

Government ownership of the railroads, he said, would mean a reduction in interest costs of from four to six hundred million dollars and probably a reduction of 10 per cent. in current transportation rates. The plan as detailed by Mr. Plumb, proposes the operation of the roads by a single corporation regulated by and accountable to the government for all its acts and expenditures. "Such a corporation," said the speaker, "would require no capital."

"It would be authorized to take and hold and operate these properties under the regulatory power of the Government. The stock of the corporation should be held in trust for the benefit of the employees. The earnings should constitute a trust fund to be declared as a dividend on the amounts paid to the labor which it employs, every employee receiving that proportion of this trust fund which his annual wage bore to the total annual compensation of all employees."

The so-called Plumb plan already has been presented to the Executive Council of the Federation. The Council, in its report now before the convention, recommends that the convention should declare as a dividend on the amounts paid to the labor which it employs, every employee receiving that proportion of this trust fund which his annual wage bore to the total annual compensation of all employees.

RAILWAY UNION SUED FOR STRIKE

Asked to Pay $2,035,000.78 in Action by the People of Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, June 11.—The people of Pittsburgh, through A. E. Anderson, an attorney, filed a suit in equity in court here late yesterday against the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, in which the union is asked to pay damages of $2,035,000.78, which sum, it is claimed, was lost by the people as a result of the recent street car strike.

The suit raises the question of the right of persons engaged in public service to strike to enforce demands for better pay and improved working conditions. Receivers of the Pittsburgh Railway Company are named as party defendants.

The actions of the strikers were and are unlawful, it is alleged, and infringe upon the rights of the public, business and travel, which was in violation of the constitutions of the United States and the State of Pennsylvania, and a conspiracy and a combination in restraint of trade.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Parents May Invite Him

Dear Miss Fairfax: A young man but a year older than I has been calling on me for two months. Since the distance from his home is 75 miles he sees me only once a week, usually Saturday evening. Would it be proper for me to ask him to stay at my house all night, or is it up to him to ask me if he may stay.

Undecided Young Girl If it will be proper for your parents, if they are pleased with him, to extend an invitation to him to remain all night and over Sunday anytime he wishes to do so. He could hardly ask to be your guest even if he knows you care for him.

Better Stay in School Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a girl 16 years old, who feels sure her future is to be an actress and of course my parents object. I know I'll not have a good time in my life if I don't go on the stage. I go to school and am rather pretty and show lots of talent. Tell me how to become acquainted with some actress please, or where to write for information on going on the stage.

ITALIAN ROSE A girl of sixteen, unless she shows most unusual talent for the stage, had better keep on with her lessons and the stage fever will wear off as other interests come into her life. Your parents will probably know what you are suited for better than I can tell you. The mail of actresses is so large that one cannot hope for a personal reply to any letter and their secretaries have little patience with the hundreds of young girls who are stage struck.

A GOOD REPUTATION DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 22, of good reputation. A few days ago, while taking a walk a girl started a flirtation with me, and I was in rather a jolly mood, talked to her, and afterwards we took a walk. This girl has proved to be the most talked-about person on our block, and it seems every one saw me that evening. I have seen the young woman only three times, all of which were out of doors, when she forced me to stop and talk as I passed by her street. There is absolutely nothing between us, and I want to ask how I can make her understand that I do not care for her company. She lives on a block I pass every day, and is always standing near her stoop.

A WORRIED BOY. Has it ever occurred to you to go the other way and avoid meeting the young woman who is always standing on her stoop? If you do chance to meet her, and do not care to continue the acquaintance, raise your hat, bow and pass on. If she wags her tongue, excuse yourself and tell her you are in something of a hurry.

Get wise to Willard's condition before you bet. Read his "Own Story" now running in "The Philadelphia Press" every day.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing fermentation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisulphated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisulphated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose. Geo. A. Gorges.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits overtime. Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork. By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Tiredness, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in large measure to abated nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before, if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

Calls Extra Session of N. Y. Legislature to Act on Suffrage

By Associated Press. Albany, N. Y., June 11.—An extraordinary session of the New York Legislature for tonight, June 16, was called by Governor Smith in a proclamation issued yesterday. The purpose is to act upon ratification of the woman suffrage constitutional amendment. The executive expressed the view that the legislators who attend would not be required to remain in Albany for more than two days.

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisulfated coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely creaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisulfated coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Miners Caught in Mysterious Flood at Henry Clay Colliery

Shamokin, Pa., June 11.—A mysterious body of water broke through a breast at the Reading Coal and Iron Company's Henry Clay colliery, near here, yesterday, and two miners, caught in the rush, are known to be dead. Others fled into inside workings and are believed to have escaped through an air course to the surface. Officials are at a loss to understand where the water emanated as the area of old workings within seven hundred feet.

Yes--- Cloverdale GINGER ALE is d-i-f-f-e-r-e-n-t

DON'T get the impression that all Ginger Ale is "just Ginger Ale." We suggest that you try one bottle of CLOVERDALE—then you'll realize that there is a big difference in its favor and in its flavor.

There are several reasons for the superior quality of

beside the fact that

"It Doesn't Bite"

First, the water comes clear, pure and sparkling from the celebrated CLOVERDALE Springs, at Newville, Pa. Then, the "ginger" is truly Jamaica Ginger (not cheap red pepper) and that's why "It Doesn't Bite." Lemon and the purest cane sugar syrup are also used because we are offering the best ginger ale, not the cheapest.

One cold drink will quench that thirst—then send home a case for the family. Many people are finding it beneficial to drink a bottle every day—as a tonic.
