Game To-night
East End vs. Hygienic.
Swatara dropped another contest to St. Mary's last evening by the score of 6 to 5. The winning team was outbatted, having but 8 hits off Kurts, to 9 by Swatara of Lauder. The latter excelled in strikeouts, however, having 9 to his credit against 2 by Kurts. Bad fielding on the part of Swatara accounted in part for its defeat. Three times during the game runs scored by St. Mary's on misplays by the Swatara players. Kurts, Shafer, F. Dolinar and M. Zerance led in batting for their respective teams. Outside of an error Matter played well at third for Swatara having two putouts and three assists. Hocker and F. Dolinar hit for doubles. There were eight stolen bases during the session, the pilferers being Dalley, M. Zerance, Martiney, Lauder, Nickey, Shafer, Ellenberger, Matter and De Santis. This evening East End will play Hygienic.

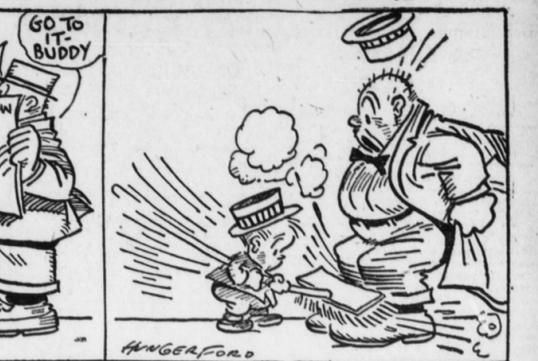

Six hits and six errors gave the Commonwealth Travelers a 6 to 4 victory over the Engineers and Firemen at the West End ball park last evening. With their rivals in the lead by a narrow margin of one run the Commonwealth players went to bat in the third inning and when the smoke of conflict had cleared away they had collected five runs, adding another tally in the sixth, or a total of a half dozen during the twilight session. "Dutch" Connors should, by all the rules of the game have won his duel with Herbert Washington, who was on the hill for the Commonwealth. Besides allowing the Engineers and Firemen six hits he struck out six of them as against three by Washington, but one of the six hits was a home run by Gerdes and that one by the usually reliable Mr. Hinkle, drew forth applause in plenty. For instance, when Gordon Ford made a one-handed catch of a ball in right field the applause did not subside until he raised his cap in response to the demands of the fans. Wagner, likewise, had to doff his cap after he had caught a hard fly in left field. The umpiring of Cook called forth considerable adverse comment. Gerdes hit a long fly close to the foul line in right field. From the scorer's box it seemed certain that the ball hit on fair ground. So certain was Gordon Ford that he made no special effort to catch Gerdes who was racing for the home plate. Cook, who has umpired in satisfactory fashion in many games called it fair and maintained that his decision was correct, but the bleachers thought otherwise and showed their disapproval by hooting the arbiter.

After the game members of both teams admitted that the conduct of the fans if persisted in would result in lessening the crowds at the games. They said, too, that it was a hard matter for the people on the bleachers to hold their peace when their favorites were losing. The games at West End Park have given much pleasure to thousands of lovers of the pastime. "I wish for the sake of the sport," said one of the league officials last evening, "that crowds would be a little more patient with the work of the umpire chosen to officiate at the league contests. Umpires are only human. They do not make mistakes intentionally. Besides that, they're in better position to judge plays than the crowd, who many times are not in position to say whether the umpire has made an error. Let's be fair and

I know it's hard to keep quiet, but the result will be that we will not be able to obtain competent umpires to officiate if the crowds do not show better temper. There certainly is no cause for profanity and the calling of hard names simply because persons who come to see the games do not agree with the umpire.

KLEIN PLAYERS HAD TO TRAVEL

Hummelstown Hands Chocolate Boys Biggest Surprise of Season

"Brackey's" chocolate boys had to go some last night at Hummelstown, to land a victory. When the nine innings were played the score was: Klein Chocolate Company, 2; Hummelstown Fire Company, 1. Fans handed it to Hummelstown for giving the Klein team the hardest shake of the season. It was a real game and a hair-raising exhibition every minute of which was enjoyed by more than one thousand fans.

Every player in the game was in evidence throughout the nine innings. "Mule" Watson from the Phillies, with his old reliable backstop, O'Donnell, showed wonderful form. His support was classy. Watson fanned nine batters, while Mellinger swished five. Kay put up a wonderful game for the Klein folks, hitting out a two and three bagger.

Kay Nailed at Plate
Kay, in the sixth, reached first on a hard fly to Keller. He stole second and took third on Brennan's hit to left field. Kauffman fled out to center and Babe Brown made a perfect throw to the home plate and had Kay out eight feet from the plate, the throw going right into O'Donnell's glove. Stewart played second and put up a big league game. Hagy on first made some beautiful stops and retired the runners in order.

Weaver made a nice catch from O'Donnell, catching Wrightstone who tried to steal third base. Keller on short played a fine game, his specialty being the hard hit ones.

In the eighth inning Keller's fled out to center field. O'Donnell singled. McCurdy fled out to Cranston. Watson hit a hard one that struck the pitcher's box and bounced high into center field. O'Donnell safe on second and Watson on first. Hagy worked a base on balls, filling the bases. Bordner, noted for his wonderful eye as a batter worked a walk forcing O'Donnell home. Stewart fled out to short, retiring the side.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen Is Wizard of Tennis Courts

The victory scored by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen in the women's tennis singles at Wimbledon has again brought up the discussion regarding the ability of the "little wizard of the tennis court" and either Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the American champion, or Mary K. Browne, the former holder of the American women's tennis crown.

WELLING LOSES TO LEW TENDLER

Chicago Boy Clinches to Save Knockout; Harry Greb Also Is Winner

Philadelphia, July 15.—Eight fans were kept on edge last evening in one of the best ring exhibitions ever seen at Shibe Park.

Lew Tandler defeated Joe Welling, of Chicago, in six hard rounds. Tandler set Welling such a terrific pace that the Chicagoan was weak and clinched at every opportunity in the final round. Tandler did not show his opponent any quarter in the final frame with Welling hanging on almost continually. Tandler ripped home six-inch jolts with his left to the body and to the chin that had Welling looking wistfully toward his corner.

Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, with a "regulation" hair cut and a willingness to fight, was handed a tough assignment in his bout with Battling Levinsky. Greb won, but in earning the verdict he was confronted with the problem of solving Levinsky's defensive tactics.

W. Lewis Draws
Ted ("Kid") Lewis, of England, former holder of the welterweight title, was lucky to earn a draw with Steve Luzzo, of Haleson, in the third contest. Lewis, who several months ago had the 145-pound crown wrested from him by Jack Britton, had visions of being deprived of another chance at the present champion when he was dropped twice in the initial session. The spectators, keyed to the highest pitch by the unexpected termination of the Chaney-Tipitiz bout, were brought to their feet yelling wildly when Luzzo floored Lewis twice. The bout had barely started when the Haleson slugger rushed at Lewis to the Englishman's corner. Here Lewis was the target for a shower of blows to body and head, and the Briton crumpled from a left hook that caught him under the jaw. Lewis took a short count, and a few seconds later another fusillade of rights and lefts sent the Englishman to his knees. He again took a short count, and gaining his feet elbined and stalled until the bell.

Tipitiz Scores Knockout
"Joe" Tipitiz duplicated the feat of his sparring partner, Lew Tandler, by knocking out George Chaney, of Baltimore, in the third round. It was a left uppercut to the point of the jaw that turned the fight. Chaney received a wide swing and promptly sank to the canvas. He was drunk from the blow and did not show signs of coming to life until Referee O'Brien held up the fight. Chaney's feet felt like lead and he was unable to get to his feet. Chaney did not appear to have a chance and the referee wisely ended hostilities.
