

Parade on Monday in Central Pennsylvania

SHOPMEN GO ON NINE-HOUR DAY

Unusual Rush of Work at Northumberland Plant; Longer Hours

Northumberland, Pa., Aug. 30.—Men employed in the Northumberland car shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad have been placed on a nine-hour basis owing to a rush in car repair work. Both the day and night shifts will work nine hours instead of eight as heretofore, it has been announced. It appears that car repair work is at high pressure, with refrigerator cars predominating. It was on account of the larger number of the latter needing repairs the car shop working day was lengthened. It was stated to-day no definite time limit for the operation of the nine-hour day has been set, but it may continue indefinitely. About 400 men are affected.

No Joint Celebration of Perry's Found in Welcome

Marysville, Pa., Aug. 30.—Movements to hold a combined welcome home celebration for Perry county men and women who were enrolled with the United States during the past war, have fallen altogether. Action to this effect was taken at Duncannon at a meeting attended by committees from the several towns now planning welcome home celebrations and by representatives from other towns. It was proposed that each town of the county co-operate in the plan, which provided for the holding of a general day of celebration at Duncannon. One of the home coming celebrations planned by the several county towns were to have been cancelled. It was planned, in addition, to hold the reunion of the Perry County Veterans' Association in conjunction with the joint event at Duncannon. When the plan for a combined welcome home celebration, however, this plan was dropped.
