

Rupture Between Belgians and Dutch Surprise to Mercier

By Associated Press. Baltimore, Sept. 22.—When Cardinal Mercier was informed at Cardinal Gibbons' residence of the reported severance of diplomatic relations between Belgium and Holland he said: "I knew there were difficulties but had no reason to suppose a rupture was imminent." Others in his party did not seem surprised over the news. Asked whether Belgium anticipated war, neither Cardinal Mercier nor his secretary would deny its possibility. "Many Belgians would welcome it," M. Dessain, the secretary, volunteered.

Bituminous Mining Reaches High Mark

Washington, Sept. 22.—The highest point in bituminous coal production in the year was reached during the week ending September 13, according to a statement by the United States Geological Survey. The total output was 11,930,000 tons, as compared with 9,833,000 tons of the week before. The output of anthracite during the week was 1,564,000 tons, or 84,000 tons above the production for the previous week, which was interrupted by cessation of work on Labor Day. The production was 19 per cent. less than during the last week of August, which set the record for the current year.

Drops Not Necessary

It is not necessary to use drops in making examinations of the eyes, except in rare cases. Nor is it necessary to have them "doctored," unless there is distinctly a diseased condition. Dimness of sight—eye fatigue, headache, nervous troubles, etc.—are frequently caused by eye strain, some muscular defect or a natural change in the pupil. The best plan when such conditions are indicated or suspected is to go to a reputable optometrist. Properly fitted lenses will rectify the trouble at once and you will probably save a big "doctor bill"—to say nothing of time and trouble—in the future.

Visiting the Shops with Adele

WERE all slaves to habit, to be sure. That is why we oftentimes miss wonderful opportunities. We get into a rut, and there we just naturally too habit-bound to improve our ways. Perhaps that is why we continue buying inferior coffee. We've simply become accustomed to going to a certain place because it is handy and we keep on going, even though we know that we aren't obtaining as high a grade as we should. Now, aren't we foolish to continue such a practice when by summoning a little will-power to our aid, we can make the break, and henceforth purchase our coffees at the Grand Union Tea Co., 208 North Second street. For it is at the Grand Union that the best and most delicious varieties are to be found.

ARTISTS—take notice! I have a message for you which you cannot afford to miss. Just today I discovered where you can procure parchment lamp shades for decorating. Indeed, when I saw them, I felt a little pang of regret over that much-discussed art object that never materialized. Had I taken it, as was planned, wouldn't I just seize upon the opportunity to beautify one or more of those attractive shades? They come in all shapes and sizes, for either oil or water colors. Naturally, they can be painted to harmonize with any decorative scheme and I personally intend to have one even though it means securing some one else to accomplish the necessary transformation. Where did I find them? Oh, yes, I almost forgot—why, at Saltz-giver's Art and Antique Store, of course.

FREQUENTLY during the past few weeks I have been asked whether I knew just when the Kolben-schlag opening would occur. And because people everywhere are so interested in the event I am glad to tell them that the time chosen is Tuesday, September 30, and Wednesday, October 1. On these days many beautiful and distinctive hats will be shown for the first time, including lovely pattern hats, stunning imported models, and an unusually attractive assortment from the shop's own workrooms. In addition, the Misses Kolben-schlag will display soft, rich furs of the highest quality, and wonderful beaded bags such as none but the most exclusive shops are showing.

PLEASE, Adele, tell me this— "are the 75-cent luncheons at the Penn-Harris all they're supposed to be?" inquired a friend several days ago. "Let me answer your question by inviting you to lunch there with me to-morrow," I replied. So we went, and at the conclusion of the appetizing repast she exclaimed, "I'll say they are!" And they are! I know, for I've often sampled them. And in the coffee room the meals are every bit as good. The same can be said of the grill, which is now open from 11 o'clock in the morning until midnight, in connection with it, special mention must be made of the unseer fountain where delicious soft drinks of all kinds are mixed by expert dispensers.

BELIEVE me, if the suits McFall's carry in their new clothing department are as good as their hats, they'll be some suits!" remarked a college lad the other day. "I just purchased two of the latter at their store," he continued, "and I like them so well I wish I could wear them both at once. Talk about a tough proposition! I look at the Stetson first and decide to wear it. About that time I catch a glimpse of the Dunlap and—well, I waver. So I grab one without looking and run." And little wonder, for McFall's hats cannot be compared with the average variety. In addition to the lines already mentioned, they carry Croft Knapp & Company, and Dobbs hats, or, in other words, the best in the land.
