

REPORT SHOWS NEED OF DEEPER RIVER

river from its mouth to Harrisburg, have a productive value of approximately a half million dollars a year, according to the aforementioned figures which were compiled by the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs at the direction of Secretary James F. Woodward and forwarded to Col. J. J. Loving, of the United States Engineer Office at Baltimore, Md. The United States Engineer Office is making a preliminary survey of the territory adjacent to the Susquehanna under an act of Congress with a view to determining the advisability of having the War Department make the stream navigable as far as Harrisburg.

Dauphin County Leads
The eight counties which would contribute directly to the shipping on the Susquehanna are Cumberland, Adams, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry and York and the production figures of the district have developed many surprises. Dauphin county leads in manufacturing.

The report submitted by Secretary Woodward to Col. Loving goes into numerous details concerning the territory. It shows that the eight counties cover an territory of 5,095 square miles and that the population of the district is estimated at 787,644. In the eight counties there are 50 towns of more than 2,000 population and there are a total of 50 towns bordering on the Susquehanna. In the counties, too, there are 3,694 schools.

Great Industrial Center
In the eight counties which would be contributory to shipping on a navigable Susquehanna, there are 2,222 industrial plants, giving employment to 93,730 persons. The market value of products from the plants in 1918, according to figures submitted by the various industries, amounted to a total of $223,977,844. Dauphin county leads in the productive value of manufactured goods with a total of $102,249,020 and Lancaster is second with $72,269,655. The others in order follow: York, $68,440,104; Lebanon, $43,317,184; Franklin, $19,005,240; Cumberland, $8,885,400; Adams, $6,350,685; Perry, $3,471,233. In addition to its manufactured products, Dauphin county produced during the year anthracite coal valued at $3,306,141.

A table showing the number of productive industries in the eight counties, Lancaster leads with a total of 642; York, 466; Perry, 458; Adams and Dauphin is third with 303. The others in order are Lebanon, 251; Cumberland, 148; Franklin, 120; Adams, 116; and Perry, 46. The others in order follow: York, 466; Adams, 303; Perry, 458; Adams, 2,140; and Perry, 647. There are 1,609 persons engaged in the production of coal in Dauphin county in addition to those employed in the class of "productive industry."

Production in the eight Susquehanna counties has been classified under the heading of: Chemicals and allied products; clay, glass and stone products; clothing manufacture; food and kindred products; leather and rubber goods; metal and its manufacture; liquors and beverages; paper and printing industries; textiles; metals and metal products; and other. The most important products are: wheat, corn, rye, oats, potatoes and hay. The products are measured by the piece, pairs, barrels, square and cubic feet and other methods and in the case of these accurate figures on weight are impossible.

Great Farm Yields
Agricultural interests in the eight counties are large and figures secured from the Department of Agriculture show that the value of wheat, corn, rye, oats, potato and hay crops alone for the year 1918 was $54,479,145. There were 782,605 tons of hay grown in the eight counties, while the wheat, corn, rye, oats and potato crops totaled 40,421,017 bushels. Lancaster, one of the river counties, has long been credited with being the richest agricultural county in the country in proportion to area and would undoubtedly prove a big favor in river shipping should the Susquehanna, in a future year, be made navigable.

In value of corn, wheat, rye, oats, potatoes and hay grown, Lancaster is ahead of the other counties in the district, its products returning $20,482,818 in 1918. York county's value was $18,028,192 and the others in order follow: Franklin, $10,982,694; Cumberland, $9,062,018; Adams, $8,493,934; Lebanon, $6,440,166; Dauphin, $6,321,509; Perry, $2,750,614.

Lancaster county is rich in tobacco, too, and this product of the farm annually makes a big increase in the value of the farm products in the county.

Much Fruit Grown
Four of the counties which would contribute to the shipping are well known as fruit counties and Adams and Franklin are in the heart of the fruit-growing belt in the east. Hundreds of thousands of bushels of apples and peaches are shipped annually from those two counties to points all over the country and York and Cumberland counties likewise contribute largely to this industry. In the four counties latest figures show there are 307,230 apple and 474,105 peach trees, all bearing and in addition there are 272,748 apple and 87,550 peach trees which are too young to bear.

Exact figures on the apple and peach production in the four counties are not available, but some of the more prominent fruit growers are of the opinion that the district produces about 350,000 barrels annually—enough to fill 2,500 freight cars. Growers estimate that within the next four or five years the apple crop will be from three to four times as large as it is at present because of the great number of trees young now—which will be bearing at that time.

Tape Great Country
In his letter accompanying the report to Col. Loving, Secretary Woodward points out that in addition to the great amount of tonnage produced in the river counties, there would be just as vast an amount of tonnage "that might be contributory to a large canal indirectly from farming the outlying territory, such as the bituminous coal fields not more than 100 miles west and the large anthracite districts farther to the north than Harrisburg, all of which have railroad termini at Harrisburg."

By Associated Press
New York, Oct. 27.—Male school teachers of this city are urged to petition for leave of absence and "take up the pick and shovel" if the threatened coal miners' strike went into effect. Asserting that President Wilson's declaration in the matter was a "call to duty," Homer Gray, president of the Association of Men Teachers and Principals of New York City, issued a call for meeting next Saturday to consider possible action.

Do you like cold coffee? Very few people do, but the Majestic Theater is offering something the first half of this week called "Cold Coffee" which should meet with the hearty approval of every Harrisburg. "Cold Coffee" is the name of an act which comes here to-day to play a three-day stand. The act is funny from the start and will keep the audience in an uproar. Four other headliner Keith acts, every one of which is as funny as they can be will be shown. Another episode of the latest serial, Helen Holmes in "The Fatal Fortune," will be shown.

William Farnum will undoubtedly score another hit with Harrisburgers in his presentation of "The Last of the Duanes," the story of a man who is the hero of Zane Grey's popular novel, "The Last of the Duanes." This picture opens a three-day run at the Victoria Theater to-day. Farnum's work has always been good, but this will undoubtedly offset any of his former pictures as it is a story written in the master style of Zane Grey and bears that true to life feature. The story in itself is brimful of thrills and we've a dexterous protagonist through these thrills is a wonderful love story.
Thursday, Friday and Saturday Tom Mix will be offered in his latest

Gale Henry has begun a new series of two-reel comedies, the first of which has been given a metropolitan location especially adapted, it is said, to our August weather. The cast includes a number of well known Broadway favorites, including Josephine Whittell, Irving Beebe, Frank Crumit, Laura Hamilton, Josie Intropidi, Edward Garvey, Worthington Romaine, Georgia Mannett, Lucille Manion, Sammy Evans, the well known dancing team of Grant and Wrigley, and a chorus of dainty, dazzling dancing beauties.

WALLACE REID AT THE REGENT
Wallace Reid comes to the Regent to-day in his new Paramount picture, "The Love Burglar." This photoplay, which will be shown to-day and to-morrow is an adaptation of the recent play by the celebrated author and playwright, Jack Lait, entitled "One of Us." The play had its premiere at the Morocco Theater in Los Angeles and after a successful run in which Bertha Mann played the starring role, it was taken east.

After a careful study of the values of the different roles, the producers decided that the hero role was by far the stronger and in the picture version, the leading male part is the steller role. Wallace Reid is said to have a highly effective role in this production, and one of the best in his screen career.

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 27.—Senate leaders hope to expedite the German Peace Treaty this week by disposal of amendments and by beginning consideration of reservations. Both Houses convened to-day however, with decreasing prospects of adjournment. The statement immediately led to renewed speculation as to whether Mr. Wilson would act on it or permit it to become a law Tuesday midnight without his signature.

WHAT HE WANTED
Little Ben, who was very fond of beefsteak, passed his plate the other night at dinner for a second helping.

"Why, Ben," said his uncle, "you mustn't eat any more meat. Don't you know," he counseled, "if you eat more meat you might have a dream and see elephants and tigers and lions, and scorpions and panthers and—"

Ben grinned delightedly. "Gimme another piece," he begged. "I want to see all them things."—Los Angeles Times.
