

SPROUL BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT

Congressman Kiess Says He Is the Man of the Hour For the Nation

Governor William C. Sproul was declared to be the man around whom Pennsylvanians could rally as the man for the presidency by Congressman Edgar R. Kiess in an interview given at Williamsport. The Congressman said that the country needs just such a man as Sproul. In his statement Mr. Kiess said: "The primaries for the selection of delegates for the presidency to the 1920 conventions for the nomination of candidates for the presidency are less than eight months distant," said he, "and no outstanding candidacy for the Republican nomination has as yet arisen above the horizon. So far as the leaders have shown their handwork, it is anybody's race. "General Leonard Wood, our greatest soldier before the war, who was too anxious to put the country on a preparedness basis to please the powers that be, is popular with a great many of our citizens and has possibilities no one doubts. So has Senator Warren Harding, of Ohio. He is a fine, upstanding man, with a brilliant mind, and a successful business career behind him. Senator Hiram Johnson, who was the running mate of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, is not without his ambitions and his followers, and he undoubtedly will enter the race.

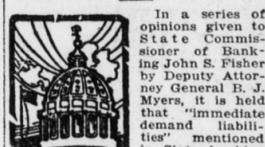

Call For Big Man of Affairs "Whether ex-President William Howard Taft is or is not, or will or will not, be a candidate for the Republican nomination next year is a matter of speculation. Certainly, he is much stronger than he was when he retired from office in 1913. But these are critical times and the call seems to be for a big, upstanding man of affairs, a real, live business man first, but one not unknown to and unknocking about politics and matters of State. Our own great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania stands ready to present such a candidate to the Nation in the person of Governor William C. Sproul, than whom, let it be said, there is no more available man for the place. "All will agree, I think, that Governor Sproul clearly and fully possesses such qualifications. He is a broad-gauged business man who has demonstrated his leadership both in politics and in business. He hails from Chester, on the Delaware River, where the great fleet of new ships are being built and launched almost daily, and where he is interested in many lines of industry akin to his shipping and shipbuilding. "From a political viewpoint, Governor Sproul served for a quarter of a century as a member of the Pennsylvania Senate, with a splendid record as a high class man and a wise and good public servant. He is now completing his first year in the gubernatorial chair of his native State, and has acquitted himself in a post of extreme difficulty in a manner to win praise from all sides. His first year, always the most difficult one, has been a decided success, and he has attracted most favorable attention wherever he has gone since his inauguration. "In Washington one hears a good deal about Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania, and his name is frequently connected with the Republican nomination next year for the presidency. As you know, he attended and took a rather conspicuous part in the meeting of governors at Salt Lake City last summer. Later he went to the coast with Mrs. Sproul and seemingly left behind him many warm friends and a most favorable public opinion among the people of the Western lands, who seem to remember our Governor most kindly and not infrequently mention his name as among the probabilities for next year.

Meets All Requirements "Governor Sproul would seem to meet the qualifications demanded of a Republican candidate for the high office of President of the United States at this time, if the party is to successfully meet the crisis of affairs and that of the Nation. He is in the first instance a sound, wide-awake and progressive business man who has made a success of his own affair and those of the Commonwealth; and, secondly, he is in the best sense of that much-abused word a politician in that he has been for many years in close contact with the large affairs of government and his party. "Regulars and progressives alike have unbounded faith in William C. Sproul, and never has he betrayed that confidence or that of the people. He hails from a Republican stronghold and the second largest of the states in population and first in the industries. His tremendous majority in a hotly-contested campaign last year showed him to be popular with all elements of his party. He has done much in the past year to iron out the differences that have long existed and will do more in the immediate future. "I believe that our party in this world crisis can go farther and fare worse in its quest of a winning candidate. Governor Sproul has behind him the prestige of the governorship of this great Republican Commonwealth and should he decide to allow his many friends here and throughout the country to present his name to the Republican convention next year he will not only have behind him a solid Pennsylvania delegation but many earnest supporters scattered throughout the other delegations. "It may be safely stated that among those who are now being given the acid test of availability for next year is Governor Sproul."

BANKING LAWS ARE CONSTRUED

Deputy Attorney General Gives Rulings in Regard to Calculating Some Reserves

In a series of opinions on the question of State Commissioner of Banking John S. Fisher by Deputy Attorney General B. J. Myers, it is held that "immediate demand liabilities" mentioned in State banking acts include bills payable on demand as well as deposits payable on demand and he holds that "the reserve to be maintained on account of deposits of money subject to check or payable on demand should be calculated on the basis of 15 per centum of the demand deposits, bills payable on demand and all other demand liabilities. A distinction should be made between bills payable on demand and bills payable on time. Bills payable on time need not be considered in computing the amount of reserve to be carried for the protection of demand deposits; which reserve shall only be 15 per cent of demand liabilities."

In other opinions it is held that banks and trust companies need not take out licenses to sell steamship tickets, but that agents and others who must be required to present sureties that will satisfy the Commissioner of Banking. Mr. Myers has held in an opinion to the board of managers of the State village for feeble-minded women at Laurelton that the question of age at which women are to be admitted is one for the courts of quarter sessions and the managers "have no discretion to receive or refuse the admission of the person." The opinion was given in construing the act of July 16, 1919.

Reports on the opening of the States rabbit season on Saturday indicate that in many of the southern counties there was fair hunting until the rains set in. Game wardens are calling attention to the new season limit and that traps are forbidden except box traps by boys on lands where they reside.

Serious loss to the apple growers of Pennsylvania, especially in the South Mountain belt, has been reported, due to the excessive dropping of fruit which has been caused by continued wet weather and the high temperature for the latter part of October. The prospects for the crop, even including the yield of the young apple trees just commencing to bear, were reported recently by the Department of Agriculture, as less than for the last few years and the dropping of the fruit has caused a further reduction of the crop. Some of the firms in the apple-growing counties of Central Pennsylvania have withdrawn their prices on this fall's packing.

Dozens of letters are being received daily by the Public Service Commission in regard to the plans for the enforcement of the new jiney applications. Most of the inquiries come from Philadelphia and requests are made for certificates. The Commission bureau is preparing for vigorous enforcement of the new regulations this winter, not only in Philadelphia, but in Pittsburgh, Scranton, Harrisburg and other places.

Arrangements have been completed for the hatching of landlocked salmon eggs for Pennsylvania lakes. This will be the first time this has been undertaken and a supply has been received from New York and other states by Commissioner of Fisheries N. R. Buller, who will have the eggs hatched at one of the State hatcheries and placed in two or three lakes. The experiments will cover four years. Several states which have lake similar to those in Northern Pennsylvania have been successful with this noted game fish.

Owners or agents cannot deprive tenants of water or light, even if they refuse to pay rentals. All such cases will be prosecuted under the health laws, says ex-Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain, chairman of the Public Welfare Commission, which is conducting the probe of rent profiteering. The realty speculation in Philadelphia. Mr. McClain took this stand after tenants' protective associations brought to his attention instances of landlord's attempts to force eviction of tenants by turning off the water supply. The tenants had refused to pay what they termed exorbitant increases in rent.

no pleas court should be promoted to the vacancy in the superior court," Governor Sproul said. It was called to the attention of the Governor that none of the local common pleas judges was seeking the promotion and that the appointment of Mr. Tauline was looked upon with considerable favor in Philadelphia. Governor Sproul then said that there undoubtedly were many judges of the common pleas courts in other sections of the State who would be pleased with promotion.

ACCORDING TO CIRCUMSTANCES A "regular" from a western army camp came home the other day on an extended furlough. He was entertained extensively by his former companions and friends. One evening he told the boys about the Indian's great love for whisky.

"Why, the way them Indians love whisky beats anything you ever saw," he remarked. "I once met a Cheyenne on his pony. Give me a drink of whisky; I'll give you my bridle for it," he says. "No," says I. Then he offered his bridle and saddle and pony all in a bunch for one drink."

"Well wouldn't you give it to him for all that?" asked one of the boys. "Well, not much," said the soldier, emphatically. "I only had one drink left."—New York Evening Post. Use McNeil's Cold Tablets. — Adv.

It's Hard to Beat the Best

There are certain Doctors, lawyers and great statesmen who always rank a bit above the average and everybody seems pleased when they can claim an acquaintance with them; that it is their good fortune to be associated in business dealings, or perhaps that they are a resident in the same city with these men who hold such a commanding influence.

Harrisburg has its share of men who are in the limelight of success and the people who live Here are proud of their success. But isn't it just as glorious for a store to have a good reputation, to have the people saying nice things about the service, reliability, the salespeople, and the merchandise you sell? Of course you know it is, and while you are reading, just stop to think of DOUTRICHS, the store everybody is talking about, how it ranks as an "always reliable" store where there are no disappointments or exaggerations, a store where square dealing and honest representation prevails at all times.

A short time ago in a prominent cigar store five young men were casually talking. One thing after the other was discussed and finally clothing happened to be mentioned. The "pros and cons" were sifted. None of these men knew just where the other man was buying his clothes. They had each other "on the fence."

Then a show down, coats were pulled back, the labels were displayed and four of them were Doutrich labels—What did the other fellow say? Just this—I'm not going to be the only odd man in the crowd. Next time I want clothes, me for Doutrichs. How about it, Mr. Man? Are you buying your clothes at Harrisburg's largest, livest leading men's clothing store? We have the reputation!

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief to Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome. He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease. And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Methylated Arsenic at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled. Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly. That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work; but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using. If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwell-combed yearly visitor fails to appear.

Sproul Favors Sitting Judges

Governor Sproul rather quietly, but none the less firmly, enunciated a policy in regard to appointments to the appellate courts and also assisted talk of Joseph H. Taulane, assistant district attorney of Philadelphia, as successor of J. Henry Williams on the superior court bench. "Mr. Taulane is a fine man and a fine lawyer, but I believe that a judge from the bench of the com-
