GIVES EVIDENCE AGAINST FATHER Minister's Daughter Testifies Physician Earned $7,166 For Saving Her Life

Middleburg, Pa., Dec. 13.—Miss Verna, daughter of the Rev. A. S. Blerly, was the chief witness for Dr. E. C. Williams in court yesterday in the physician's suit against her father for $7,166, with interest, for attending her during the period she is said to have suffered with Bright's disease.

Miss Blerly, now a young woman of 23, was easily the center of interest in the crowded court room. She is a decided blonde in type and was fashionably dressed. It was the opinion of court attendants that she made a better witness for Dr. Williams than he did for himself. She said, when questioned, that she did not think the fees charged her father by Dr. Williams were excessive. These totaled $7,166 and covered portions of 1911, 1912 and 1913.

She said that she had been very ill, and under the treatment of Dr. Williams her life had been saved. Her father told the physician "to save her life, no matter what the cost may be she tested and expressed herself as grateful for her recovery."

Dr. Williams had testified that Miss Blerly was brought to the sanitarium he conducts at Fort Trevorton suffering with Bright's disease, and that she had been cured.

Miss Blerly has been living in the Williams residence. She first went there in 1911, a girl of 15 years, as his patient. Dr. Williams and his wife are divorced. Miss Blerly testified against her father in a former suit with the physician about two years ago.

The cost of the case is estimated at $1,000 a day. In addition to the numerous lawyers, there are 144 witnesses said to have been summoned, and two handwriting experts at $200 a day.

One of these is Webster Amescher, of Philadelphia, the expert in the famous Lieb case at Philadelphia last year. The other is L. C. Horton, of New York. The two are leaders in their profession. They will testify regarding the writing on checks, which the pastor contends prove the genuineness of the document.

Dr. Williams comes of a noted family. His father was a member of the Italian nobility. His grandfather on his mother's side, was a general in the American army during the war with Mexico, and had the distinction of raising the American flag over Mexico City.

SHOOTS PAL WHO SOUGHT REVENGE

Crook Lures Man Who Testified Against Him, But Plan Fails

Elizabethtown, Pa., Dec. 13.—Four years ago James Dugan and William Wallace Jones were arrested by Constable William D. Plummer. Several months later he assaulted a motorman after being put off a car. The constable was seriously stabbed and at the trial of the case at Lancaster testified it was Dugan who slashed the officer. Dugan was sentenced to a year in prison. Irons went free.

At Thursday night Irons, a cripple, was lured into the detective bureau in the Philadelphia City Hall; threw a revolver on the desk and said:

"I am going to kill you I brought you here to make up for bygone." Irons claims that in the ensuing struggle he got the revolver from his assailant, fired twice, the bullet entering Dugan's body near the heart and the other grazing his leg. He then surrendered.

When Magistrate Yates went to the Hahnemann Hospital to get Dugan's antemortem statement he placed a Bible in the dying man's hands. With an oath Dugan hurled the book across the room.

"I am not going to die," he said. "I am going to get well and kill Irons." Few minutes later Irons was brought into the City Hall by Detective Beckman, of the City Hall squad. At first Dugan refused to say that he was the man who did the shooting. When told that Irons had confessed he admitted that he was his assailant, but begged the police to let him off. "Don't put him in jail," he wailed. "Leave him to me. I'll get even with him."

DEER SEASON IS IN FINAL STAGE

Franklin County Sportsmen Threaten to Work For Ban on Hunting

Chambersburg, Pa., Dec. 13.—The deer hunting season is drawing to a close and the slaughter of does, fawns and half tame stags nears the finish. Each morning trolley cars to Caledonia take out more than a load of men with rifles bound for the mountains. Twice as many deer hunters have been out this year than last season, due mainly to the returned soldiers, who have learned the use of the rifle in the army. The deer industries are pressed with orders and have pleaded with their men to work every available hour but that seems to have no effect on the men who will follow the deer hunting bee, for hundreds of them have been taking the 15 days off for deer stalking. Pheasants, partridges have been shot. Many are being shot in the mountains. The fact that their open season is over, which fact coupled with the killing of does and fawns may bring about the closing of the deer season in Franklin county this year. Many sportsmen have threatened to work for it.

After seeing a demonstration of the Mack, which seemed best adapted for the purpose and equipped with a chemical apparatus, council decided to purchase one of that make.
