subjects, in an effort to reach the very large number of ex-service men in rural communities, including small cities, towns and villages, where there are no Y. M. C. A. schools, and instruction is most difficult to obtain.

Approximately 70 per cent of the 4,500,000 men under arms during the war came from rural communities, it is estimated. Accordingly, a curriculum appealing to men in rural communities has been prepared, including courses in soils and fertilizers, farm crops, breeding and feeding of live stock, dairy farming, poultry husbandry, productive orcharding, market gardening, citrus fruit raising and farm management.

The scholarships will be awarded discharged service men, Americans who served with our Allies, or some sons of Americans who died in service during the World War, and are offered with no restriction other than the man's ability to carry through the educational program for which he applies.

Applicants who qualify for free scholarships may enroll in either day or night schools. Those desirous of entering a course not available at a local association will be awarded a scholarship in one of the schools accredited by the educational committee.

BRYAN'S SHADOW LOOMS LARGER IN POLITICAL FIELD

His Strength For Presidential Nomination Grows; to Make Stumping Tour

Washington, Dec. 30.—The shadow of William Jennings Bryan is beginning to loom larger and larger upon the horizon of Democratic national politics.

There no longer is any doubt in the minds of the politicians that Bryan is shaping his plans to capture control of the Democratic national convention if not the Democratic nomination for President. He is beginning to reassert party leadership unmistakably, and all of the candidates and prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination realize that he is a power to be reckoned with.

At the Jackson Day dinner to be given here January 8, many of the potential candidates will be trotted out and their paces shown before several hundred Democratic leaders who will be in Washington for the session of the Democratic national committee, which will fix the time and place for holding the convention.

McAdoo Will Speak

All of the men viewed as possibilities for the nomination will deliver speeches which will show where they stand on national issues and be tantamount to bids for support for the big job. Among them will be William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, and son-in-law of President Woodrow Wilson; General A. Mitchell Palmer, Gov. Governor of Ohio; James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; Senator Foraker, of Ohio; Secretary of the navy Josephus Daniels, Chairman Clark, Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, and Secretary of War Baker.

And Bryan will be here to deliver addresses which he will devote to the campaign as he views them and to instruct all and sundry aspirants what attitude they must assume on public questions if they expect to get within hailing distance of the nomination. It is not doubted that the tests of availability laid down by Mr. Bryan will be rigid and it is just possible that no one but himself will be found qualified.

To Jam New Rule

Before the Democratic convention ballots for President an attempt will be made to force through a rule eliminating the two-thirds rule and substituting a majority rule for the nomination of President and Vice-President. The plan of a group of Democrats who have organized democratic conventions since the organization of the party.

Sproul Would Make an Ideal President, Labor Leader Declares

Philadelphia, Dec. 30.—Governor William C. Sproul was described as the ideal Republican candidate for the Presidency by Floyd Eastwood Morrison, editor of the "Proletarian Labor World," in a speech at the weekly luncheon of the City Business Club of Philadelphia, held yesterday in the Adelphi Hotel.

Mr. Morrison said that the bulk of the workers of the nation are Americans first and laborers second, and that they would not support any pro-paganda which would in any way undermine the confidence of the government of the United States. The apparent difficulties between capital and labor, he said, were not really between employer and employee, but between special privilege on the one hand, and the worker and the employer on the other.

He advocated the taxation of land values as a solution of the economic ills of the country. "The steel strikers made a bad mistake when they picked 'Bill' Foster for their strike," Morrison said. "Foster is a radical syndicalist, dynamite and a 'go in' man for the American Federation of Labor and the American Federation of Labor and they don't even dare to open their mouths."

"I hope they take Sproul out of the Governor's chair and put him into the White House. He is the ideal man for the settling of the many problems which will confront the country in the years to come. Sproul is a red-blooded fellow. He looks labor in the eye and says: 'You get what you are entitled to—no more, no less.' Morrison also paid a tribute to the efficiency of the State Police. The men composing the force are on 'job' and 'real men,' he said. "It is absurd to charge, as so many radicals do, with being a menace, Morrison declared.

Hays Acts as Harmonizer For Indiana Republicans

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 30.—Concentrated efforts toward serving the nation at this critical time was urged upon the Republicans of Indiana by Bill H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, at a harmony luncheon yesterday. The luncheon was given by Mr. Hays, it was said in political circles, to bring together factions that gave signs of disrupting the Republican organization in Indiana.

United States Senators Harry S. New and James E. Watson, Governor James P. Goodrich, of Indiana, and a number of the most prominent Republicans in the State attended the luncheon. Mr. Hays came to Indianapolis from his home in Sullivan, Ind., where he spent Christmas.

"This is no time for little things—we have no time for pullings or haulings, either as against Democrats or between ourselves," declared Chairman Hays. "We attribute honesty of purpose to the opposition and urge that the contest between the Democrats and the Republicans be a contest in effort of service to the nation. Our politics is to find out what is the very best for the country and to do it first."

WOOD HEADQUARTERS OPENED

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Headquarters of the organization promoting the candidacy of Major General Leonard Wood for the Republican Presidential nomination to-day was established at the Congress Hotel. William C. Proctor, of Cincinnati, head of the organization, took charge of the campaign.
