FALL BONNETS. The First Styles from Europe. From the New York Evening Post. Styles of bonnets for early fall have recently been imported from Paris. Many of them differ very materially from the summer styles. Most of the new bonnets are intended particularly for evening, and are used as pattern hats by the milliners. There is little doubt that the next arrival of Parisian bonnets—which will be in time for the opening next month—will bring changes in the shape and mode of trimming. The new fashion for the fall will be definitely established. White French felt, in round hats and in bonnets, is, in some respects, as novel. When the material is tastefully trimmed it is quite attractive. The white felt, with an unassuming look, and though costly, are not new.

There is a new shape, narrow and long at the sides, nearly flat on the top of the head, and drooping in front. Another is a small square of lace or silk upon a stiff frame, tastefully trimmed, having long lace streamers, and only covering the crown of the head. Among other hats is a unique style, consisting of a small circle formed of five large velvet leaves, with loops of black chain falling below it, and wide streamers of gossamer lace, (either black or white, to suit the fancy of the wearer), attached at the ends, and forming a crown of the shape of a top hat. One in form of the Gipsy Queen has the edge pointed, resembling a stay, and when finished with lace, flowers and pendants, is very pretty.

Some of the bonnets are without wide streamers, but have a band of velvet, with a lot of lace or crystals, and a row of lace strings, in a long loop in front. Among the many bonnets recently imported, there are likely to attract attention. One is a beautiful bonnet, made of marabout—a white, soft, wavy down—with a wreath of cherry-colored velvet flowers and green leaves, and a black back and front. A cherry-colored velvet band forms the inside trimmings at the top, streamers of velvet ribbon, of the same color, yard and a half long, flow from the sides, and the strings are of white lace, finished on the edge with narrow point lace. The whole is trimmed with a row of white pearls.

Another pretty hat is of Fanchon shape, the center of marabout, and the edge consisting of two or three rows of pearls, garnished, and shaded from the lightest to the darkest line, with a fall of marabout at the back. Velvet leaves form the lace trimmings, and instead of the usual black band of velvet with a fall of lace in front. A decided novelty is a brown velvet bonnet, the front close to the face, and the sides, the cottage shape, with a turban crown. It is trimmed plainly, with a small white outside feather on one side, near the front edge. A row of brown velvet on the opposite side of the crown, a velvet band on the only inside trimmings with strings of white pearls.

There are also bonnets with a crown resembling some of the shapes in straw now usual variety of round hats, among which are the coronas, the Duro, a turban, the Moscow, also a turban made of French felt, in white, black or drab, and the Nelson. Although very different from those used in decorating the patterns hats recently imported, yet the flowers on exhibition are varied, rich and beautiful, and doubtless will be employed profusely later in the season. There is a new trimming called fringe, about two inches wide. It is formed of rough feathers, lined with jet beads, which will make a rich trimming, but will be expensive as well as elegant.

There is a new trimming called round hats of all hues, and are more showy than usual. Black and white plumes are thrown quite in the shade by the display of orange, red, blue, purple, etc. It is likely that much trimming will be fashionable this fall on bonnets, and on all apparel for ladies.

COTTON QUESTION IN ENGLAND. The London correspondent of the New York Times writes: "The Government of India sent one Dr. Foss to the cotton States of America to report on the prospects of that section of Dixie. His report is very favorable for India. He says that the cotton plantations are unworked, and the free laborers do a third less than when slaves were used. The cotton industry is thoroughly re-organized. There is, therefore, a British interest opposed to such re-organization. He adds that the human selfishness not to rejoice over the calamities of a country which is the most powerful rival to British India, and which is being used by high tariffs against British competition, whose resources are only in the beginning of their development, while those of England are better and exhausted. In England labor is rising in price, from emigration to America. Coal and iron are scarcer. The cotton States of America are becoming unworkable, and the people are in great distress. The demands for increased wages have been met by the manufacturers. Food is dear, because two-thirds is imported. Fresh meat is now to be brought in galvanized iron tins, filled with a gas that will exclude oxygen. In the South America; but it is an up-hill fight. There are many who think that free trade was a mistake and is a failure, and the working men of England, though they insisted on free trade in food, will not allow free trade in wages. Last week they mobbed some hundreds of French and Belgian 'navvies'—railroad laborers—who were 'taking the bread out of their mouths'."

Notice to Planters and Others, Having Cotton in the hands of A. HAMILTON & CO. We have several hundred bales of cotton stored with us previous to the 1st of January, 1862, and we are now offering it to the owners of said cotton to make some other disposition of it, or to have it stored with us until they wish to sell it, and we will not any longer hold their cotton in our hands.
