NON-POLITICAL RELATIONS OF THE CHURCH.

Discourse by Rev. Stuart Robinson, of Kentucky.

Dr. STUART ROBINSON, the eminent Presbyterian Minister, of Kentucky, delivered a discourse at Greenwood Hall, Cincinnati, on Thursday night, on the invitation of a number of citizens, on the non-political relations of the Church.

It was a most able and instructive performance throughout, but we can only find room for the subject of extracts, which will be found very interesting. The Christian theory is:

1. That there are two divinely appointed social orders besides the family—one the civil power from God, the other the power of the spiritual government from Christ.

2. The rule of faith which is to direct the civil government is the law of nature, equity, and a distributive justice, and to the whole history of the Apostolic Church.

3. It follows that political is a term not applicable to any right acts of the Church, nor to any of its proper acts of the State.

4. The notion of religion as an engine for the aid of the State, which is the origin and nature. In ancient times, among all pagan nations alike the statesmen and jurists could not conceive of governing a nation without the agency of the gods.

5. The notion of religion as an engine for the aid of the State, which is the origin and nature. In ancient times, among all pagan nations alike the statesmen and jurists could not conceive of governing a nation without the agency of the gods.

6. The notion of religion as an engine for the aid of the State, which is the origin and nature. In ancient times, among all pagan nations alike the statesmen and jurists could not conceive of governing a nation without the agency of the gods.

7. The notion of religion as an engine for the aid of the State, which is the origin and nature. In ancient times, among all pagan nations alike the statesmen and jurists could not conceive of governing a nation without the agency of the gods.

8. The notion of religion as an engine for the aid of the State, which is the origin and nature. In ancient times, among all pagan nations alike the statesmen and jurists could not conceive of governing a nation without the agency of the gods.
