JUNIOR CRITENTON HOME TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

Rescue Work Among Girls Going On, but Need of a Home Most Imperative.

(Special to The News.) As a result of a meeting of the Junior Crittenton board held Monday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., a city-wide campaign will be inaugurated in a few days for a home for delinquent young girls.

Meetings with the board members were representatives from the Elks and Rotary clubs, among these being James Gillespie, Capt. Ryan, Frank Nelson, Lewis Burke and Dr. J. S. McClellan. The facts brought out, though veiled with reluctance on the part of board members, who only gave expression to the conditions in the hope of finding some remedy, were appalling.

Some of those who have heretofore been big sisters in their respective families, it was stated, are now becoming little mothers. As an immediate oasis in this desert of vice in which the girls have been led the board seeks to establish a home for them. Eight little girls between the ages of 11 and 15, who are morally delinquent, it was said, have been taken in at the Crittenton home within the past two weeks and there is no other place for them. The home is overcrowded, as its numbers have been greatly increased since the establishment of the camp at Fort Oglethorpe; besides it is not considered the place for these young girls.

Since the building of the Crittenton home the town has grown up around it until it has become a very thickly settled residential section, and the space does not afford the proper recreation for those living there.

It is intimated by those actively connected with the work that the home should be moved farther out and more ground procured. However, this will be secondary to the proposed campaign for the new home, which is to be entirely separate, for the delinquent girls.

With the city and county aroused in the interest of the work, it is expected there will be little or no trouble in securing a nucleus fund upon which to found a home. A habit of safety for these little girls of Chattanooga.

The kind of place wanted, as described by a member of the board, is one with ground enough for football pursuits and outdoor games, the house should be homelike, with separate bedrooms rather than a dormitory, and two bathrooms.

"There are lots and lots of places offered for sale or rent in the suburbs," said one of the members, "but we can't do anything until we get some money. The treasury at the Crittenton home, she said, has been heavily taxed by the increased numbers of mothers and babies; that last month the milk bill alone for the babies was $52. "But," she said, "if the women of Chattanooga knew how the home problem is agonizing to our hearts, they would not leave a stone unturned until something was done for the prevention of further wandering away into such darkness."

The home conditions of most of them were pictured as being very bad, some intimated the mothers knowing of a and sanctioning the practice of vice as a means of increasing the family income.

Tuesday afternoon a meeting was held with the city commissioners, with the result that Dr. T. S. McCallie asked that the board recognize the problem as a public one, and instead of giving $500, to make it $2,500.

Commissioner Betterton offered stringent recommendations to meet the conditions here, and also offered an ordinance amending an ordinance commonly referred to as the curfew law, making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $25, for a minor to be seen on the streets after 9 o'clock at night unless accompanied by an adult.

The Junior board is composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Mark Senter, president; Mrs. Frank Hutcheson, vice-president; Mrs. George Guild, secretary; Miss Louise E. Jewell, treasurer; Mrs. Lucius Mansfield, chairman of house committee; Mrs. James F. Johnston, chairman of pantry committee; Mrs. Walter Henson, chairman of the recreation committee; Miss Elizabeth Read, chairman of the devotional committee; Mrs. Read Voigt, chairman of wardrobe committee, and Mrs. Garnett Andrews, chairman of hospital committee.

Kronstadts Typical of Untrained Russia. Kronstadt is the island in the Baltic where all the secrets of the czar's fleet were locked up under the old regime. It will be remembered as the seat of a little revolution of its own after which its citizens declared independence from the provisional government.

In Everybody's Magazine, William G. Shepherd, who managed to get into Kronstadt when the island was in a state of anarchy, gives us a picture of conditions as he saw them.

"The mad Kronstadts are believers in force. And the matter with them is the matter with all the rest of Russia. The Kronstadts are typical of an untrained democracy. Their motto is one that may read Russia. It is government of few of the people by few of the people, for few of the people, in the Kronstadt sense, means me and my neighbor. The people of all Russia is too big an idea for even the greatest men in Russia to comprehend just now."
