CASUALTY LISTS TO BE WITHHELD

War Department, at Pershing's Recommendation, So Rules. Relatives Only Notified.

Washington, March 9.—Names of the next of kin and emergency addresses of soldiers whose names appear on the casualty lists of the American forces in France will be withheld in the future as the result of a war department order published today.

The announcement explained that the step had been urgently recommended by Gen. Pershing and the purpose of the order was to keep valuable information from the enemy.

Department officials disclaimed any intention of suppressing reports of heavy casualties abroad and said that lists of the dead and wounded without addresses will be sent to the committee on public information for distribution as usual.

The committee issued a notice to the press that hereafter all information regarding casualties must come from the war department.

While the disagreement between the committee and the department will be straightened out soon, the "expurgated" lists may be available to all who desire them, the purpose of the department to withhold the addresses apparently is unalterable.

Acting Secretary Crowl said that the lists issued at the urgent recommendation of Gen. Pershing, and that it would be permanent. Both Mr. Crowl and Maj. Gen. March, acting chief of staff, declared that the press would not be given a classification of each man named in the list of the previous day.

Unofficially it was said at the war department that Gen. Pershing held that the publication of addresses with the casualty lists tends to disclose information which the enemy is so desirous of obtaining that many lives are risked in sending raiding parties to bring out a prisoner or two to be examined and questioned.

To the press the order means that each newspaper must depend upon the messages to relatives to get the news of men from its own community who are killed.

The sentry opened fire rapidly without challenging. The German leader fell at the first crack of the rifle. The others in the trench hurriedly sought protection.

As the American began firing, a German some distance outside the wire shouted, "They are coming!" The sentry needed no second invitation. In fact, those who were still in the wire already had started out.

The small American patrol saw the enemy trailing back into the trench, and under fire from the sentry and from Americans at a point farther along the line. The patrol joined in the fray and helped to speed the Germans on their way by hurling a large number of hand grenades, some of which probably took effect. Four rifles were found in the American lines.

Patrols, both American and German, are constantly on the alert. The Germans on this occasion certainly did not wish to be discovered. They cut the American wire with the greatest caution, making no noise, and were detected only when they were seen to be watching their performance all the time.

Attacked With Liquid Fire. American troops in the sector northwest of Toul have been subjected for the first time to an attack with liquid fire. Enemy troops carrying flame projectors were just opening the attack when an American patrol which happened to be nearby fired on them. The Germans fled precipitately, pursued by the Americans.

The Americans were of which were flaming. The Americans went into action so quickly that the enemy had no chance to light the other two. No damage was done by the flames. The projectiles lay in the trench and for three days. Early this morning they were removed.
