

PILGRIM CHURCH TO GIVE TWO CLASSICS NEXT WEEK

"Pilgrim's Progress" and "Paradise Lost" to be Presented in Lecture, Music and Picture.

The lecture committee of the Pilgrim Congregational church is to be congratulated upon its success in securing two nights—April 10-11—Col. Frederick Ray, the gifted speaker and singer, and Mrs. Frances Ray, pipe organist and pianist, who will bring in lectures, music and motion picture, the two greatest classics, "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Paradise Lost." These magnificent productions were filmed in Italy at a cost of $118,000 and have been shown in the largest church auditoriums in America to crowded houses. On April 1 people were turned away from Johnson City's largest auditorium.

This company carries over half a ton of motion picture equipment, under the special direction of an expert technician, Laurence Clark, and every art of projection known is used in presenting these wonderful cinematogues. One of the striking features of the production, in addition to the incomparable scenic effects and the artistic incidental music, is the unusual portrayal of characters. Every person in middle life and every aged man or woman who remembers this deathless allegory of John Bunyan, the tink of Bedford, must not fail to see this most wonderful presentation of the journey to the celestial city.

Also every child should see and hear this masterpiece from the pages of English literature. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis says: "Col. Ray's presentations cannot be praised too highly. Bunyan's great epic has perhaps never before been fully appreciated as a dramatic, picturesque and fascinating story, the contest for the city of man's soul." The committee has made prices so low that every one can attend—Main floor, 50 cents; balcony, 35 cents; school children, 25 cents. The entire gallery reserved for colored people.

SHADES OF NIGHT IN EVENING GOWN

(By Betty Brown.)

Dame Fashion has taken it into her pretty head that harmony is the touchstone of beauty. Acting on that theory she displays a decided preference for black evening gowns—night's own shade. In the gown pictured here soft black satin is used for the foundation—the deep shadows—and the dark tulle is used for the cloudy mists and shadows, and flashing jet for the gleam of stars.

BRITISH INSTRUCTORS ENTERTAINED TONIGHT

Children of British Empire Invited to Supper-Dance at Home Mr. and Mrs. Hart.

Trio of Tableaux Presented, Including "Liberty Aflame," Kaiser Bill Sent to Gehenna.

Frances M. Walker, chapter, U. D. C., will present "Madame Jarley's Wax Works" at the Lyric theater Saturday night, April 13. The event promises to be one of the most elaborate entertainments ever given by the popular organization. A large cast, made up of prominent Chattanoogaans, will present the features of the occasion, which will vary largely from any presentation ever given by the popular organization. The audience will be admitted by girl ushers in white aprons. Clem Woodworth will sustain the role of the madame and the vivacious French maid will be Mrs. E.

OVER 300 WOMEN ATTEND VICTORY LUNCHEON AT STATE CONFERENCE

East Tennessee Ably Represented by Mrs. J. B. Lauderbach and Mrs. Paul J. Kruesi, of Chattanooga.

(Special to The News.)

Nashville, April 6.—One of the most enjoyable and inspiring features of the state war conference of the Tennessee division, women's committee of the Council of National Defense, was the victory luncheon held yesterday at the Hermitage hotel, attended by over 300 women war workers from over the state. The great dining hall was packed and many were unable to obtain seats.

The honor guests of the occasion were Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, national chairman of the woman's committee and the most eminent woman orator in America today, and Christine Miller-Clemson, the notable American contralto, who came from Pittsburgh to sing at the big mass meeting at the Ryman auditorium last night.

Stirring in her eloquence, Dr. Shaw, in a few words at the close of the luncheon, pictured the grave crisis in Europe. "There has never been such an awful doom as is hanging over the world today," she declared. "If the Germans should succeed in getting through, what is to become of France? We are not gathered here simply to discuss matters and to learn what to do, but to seek a divine direction, leadership and help, and ask of God, 'What wouldst Thou have me do?' Every woman should consecrate herself to her task. Let our country see what we women are, so that when we shall speak of the great women of this war we will not have to look to France, but will find them here, the women of America, ready to work, to sacrifice, to give their all for humanity."

In expressing her pleasure at being here, Dr. Shaw recalled the suffrage convention which she once attended in Nashville, and declared that convention had been unique in the history of the suffrage association. "It was almost a religious revival," declared the speaker. "We adopted truly the Golden Rule, 'As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them.'"

Miss Virginia Moore, home economics director of the federal food administration for Tennessee, was the able toastmistress of the occasion. Mrs. Idabel Wilson, state chairman of patriotic meetings, and Mrs. George Denny, of Knoxville, state chairman of the woman's committee, were in charge of the affair.

Among the interesting speakers was Mrs. Frank Chapman, of Washington, D. C., who was sent by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross to speak at this conference. Mrs. Chapman made a most earnest plea for food conservation.

Among the prominent women who spoke on the production and conservation of food in the homes were Mrs. Alex Caldwell, of Nashville, chairman of food conservation for the Tennessee woman's committee, and Miss Weir, of the division of extension of the University of Tennessee. West Tennessee was represented in talks on conservation and production by Mrs. E. G. Williamson, of Memphis; Mrs. Leola, of Dyersburg; and Mrs. Kelly, of Memphis. Middle Tennessee was represented by Mrs. F. E. McKay, of Williamson county; Mrs. Charles Caldwell, of Nashville; Mrs. George Washington, of Robertson county, and Mrs. Peay, of Sumner county. East Tennessee was represented by Mrs. Lauderbach and Mrs. Kruesi, of Hamilton county; Miss Thornburg, of Knoxville; and Mrs. Foster, of Roane county.

L. R. CARRIGAN TO SING AT COMMUNITY CHORUS

THIS BRIDEGROOM GOT HIS JUST DESERTS

The bridegroom comes in for scant attention in reports of weddings, says the Utica Press. About all that is said of him is that he wore the conventional black, while the bride's costume is described in detail. But an Ohio bridegroom got his just deserts. In the account of his wedding it was said that the bride "was dressed in a conventional wedding gown of white," but that "the bridegroom wore a flowing black coat with an elaborate white vest decorated with real pearls. His shoes were of black with real lace shoestrings. Imported gray broadcloth trousers of the latest cut and make, white gloves and a white cravat of fine Indian linen, together with collar, shirt and handkerchief of similar material, completed his perfect costume."

BIDDY BYE'S GOOD FORM COMMENCED TO SPIT BLOOD

Privacy is the choicest privilege of the home. Many a friendship has been strained or broken by too great informality. Therefore it is best to avoid making "neighborly" calls via the back door.

The meeting of the Judge Howell Tatum society, children of the American Revolution, has been postponed from today to next Saturday afternoon when the meeting will be held as announced at the home of the Misses Margaret and Mildred Wight in River-view.

A meeting of the Northside Study club was held Friday afternoon with Mrs. John Magill. A round-table discussion was held concerning the address given recently on thrift stamps by O. B. Andrews. Topics from the Literary Digest were read by Mesdames W. J. Patterson and M. D. Smith.

BOOKER WASHINGTON IDEALS SHOULD BE REMEMBERED

Tuskegee, Ala., April 6.—Declaring that "this section of the country cannot be strong with a third of its population weak," Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, in an address at Founder's day exercises of Tuskegee institute here yesterday, urged that the ideals of the late Booker T. Washington should never be forgotten in the education of the negro. Dr. Claxton was introduced by William G. Wilcox, of New York, who is here attending the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the institute, of which he is chairman.

Of the life work of the late negro leader Dr. Claxton said:

"Booker Washington fought for the ideal that the education of the negro shall stress, first, the development of character, and second, adaptability to the needs of the pupil and the community. It will take the best thought and the wisest leadership on the part of the men and women in all groups to achieve this ideal of education. America will not soon repay the debt it owes to Booker Washington. His demonstration for his race that education is a dignifying human service rather than a means of escaping labor is only less important than his demonstration to the southern people that education of the negro is a fundamental need for the south and the nation."

Mrs. Wheeler Says Her Trouble Started With Severe Cold. KEPT GETTING WORSE SAYS FOUR BOTTLES OF LUNG-VITA ENTIRELY CURED HER.

"I took a severe cold and my doctor gave me some medicine, but it did not do me any good," says Mrs. G. T. Wheeler, who lives at 114 Oldham street, Nashville, Tenn., in her statement. "I had pains in my side and chest and commenced to spit blood. I was told by a friend of mine that she had heard that the doctor said I had lung trouble. Reading the paper one day I saw a testimonial in it saying Lung-Vita was good for the lungs, so I bought a bottle. I commenced to take this medicine as directed, and it did me so much good that I kept it up until I had taken four bottles. By the time I had finished the fourth bottle I was entirely cured, and now I can go about doing my work just as I did before I got sick. I cannot say too much about Lung-Vita, for it is certainly the medicine for lung troubles." Lung-Vita is sold by druggists and dealers.—(Adv.)
