DENOUNCE TREATIES WITH ENEMY PEOPLES (Associated Press) London, May 14 - Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, made an important announcement in the house of commons Monday, the Times says, when, in reply to a question by Sir Edward Carson, he said the British government intended to adopt a policy similar to that of the French government in denouncing all commercial conventions containing a general clause regarding "most favored nations."

Such a step, the Times declares in its editorial comment, will leave Great Britain free in matters of fiscal policy. Up to this time the United Kingdom has been bound by commercial treaties with allied and neutral countries guaranteeing reciprocal "most favored nations" treatment in fiscal matters.

Terminated by War. Commercial treaties with enemy countries were terminated by the war. So long as commercial treaties remained in force, the Times adds, it was impossible for the United Kingdom to give specially favorable treatment to her dominions or allies in customs duties on imports or to differentiate between countries to which are exported goods of the United Kingdom.

These commercial treaties are now to be denounced. This denunciation, it is said, does not mean necessarily that there will be any radical change in the fiscal policy of Great Britain, but it makes such a change possible.
