

MAY REGISTER EVERY 4 MONTHS

Chairman Brown Predicts Numerous Calls for Youths Just Reaching 21.

REGISTRARS INSTRUCTED

All Plans Laid for June 5—Importance of Work Is Impressed on Men.

All youths of Chattanooga becoming 21 years of age since June, 1917, will report for registration at the county courthouse on June 5 between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

"One year ago today, when we registrars first met," said Foster V. Brown, chairman of city draft board No. 1, "we thought that the men whose names we were taking would never see service in France. Today we know the young men we will draft on June 5 not only will see service in France, but hundreds of thousands of men will see overseas service who as yet have never been called.

"On June 5 all the young men of Hamilton who have attained their majority since June, 1917, will be selected for the colors. It is most probable that a selective draft will be established to come every four months, so that as rapidly as American youths reach the age of 21 they may immediately join the American expeditionary force."

Sharply at 10:30 the registrars for this county gathered in the courthouse for their session of instruction. After the meeting was called to order by Foster V. Brown, the oath of office was administered by Notary R. M. Childress, a registrar of city board No. 1.

"The utmost care must be exercised in filling out the registration cards. They are the beginning of each man's army record. They will follow him through his military life and form part of his service record. They will be preserved after he is discharged from the army and form part of his pension life insurance record. If he be so unfortunate as to be wounded. Therefore, it behooves us to be extremely careful in this duty."

Here one of the draft board clerks arose and requested that the registrars use no surnames in writing names, as such fancy penmanship had proved almost illegible in the past. Typewriters were requested of all who could use them as guides in writing.

A point especially accented by the chairman was to get the district and ward of every man and see to it that each registrant should register in the correct booth at the courthouse. Nearly all the registrars were present. The meeting was adjourned at 11:30 a. m.

War Diet Seems to Agree With Chattanooga Public

Chattanooga is thriving on a war diet. War bread and sweetless days invigorate and strengthen. According to the city's free clinic, the city's health is better now than it has been for many years.

Dr. E. B. Wine, director of the municipal free clinic, explains the remarkable health of the people as a result of May being between seasons. Winter colds, pneumonia, malaria have given away, and summer epidemics such as typhoid, dysentery, etc., have not as yet appeared.

"In taking this oath," continued Mr. Brown, "you are becoming registrars not only for June 5 but for every other registration called for by the government till the end of the war. Those registrations may come much more frequently than you think. It is my opinion, there will be a registration every four months in order to take boys who come of draft age."

"I also think the age limit will be extended from 18 to 45. The registration for June 5 will begin promptly at 7 a. m. and last till 9 p. m. During that time you boys can get lunch if you find time, if you don't find time, you can do without. During that period, you will be on exactly the same footing as the boys in the trenches. (Applause.)

VETERAN AIRMAN WHO TALKS HERE After Two Years' Flying at the French Front He Is Now With the Redpath Chautauqua, Telling His Experiences.

REDDPATH-CAMPBELL CUTS

Capt. George Frederick Campbell, rightly named "a soldier of the sky," the man who brought down eighteen Hun aeroplanes in two years' flying on the western front and who lost his entire family—father, mother, brothers and sisters—in the great war, is coming here on the sixth night of the Redpath Chautauqua to tell of his thrilling experiences.

Campbell's father was the first of the family to fall. He was killed in the memorable retreat from Mons. At the battle of Loos his brothers, Bruce and Jamie Campbell, both lieutenants, fell with their faces to the foe, and in a trench raid not long after, his remaining brother, Capt. Blaikie Campbell, was killed.

The menfolk of his family were gone, but an invalid mother and a loving sister remained to mourn in the old ancestral home in the Mull of Kintyre back in Scotland. Then his sister, bent on an errand of mercy, embarked on the ill-fated Arabic and was counted among the lost when the vessel was sunk by a German torpedo. This final crushing blow killed the mother. Campbell, then a lieutenant of the Highlanders, was left alone.

Campbell was already a soldier of the king when the war broke out in 1914. A lieutenant stationed in India, he was ordered at once to the European front. In a few weeks he was fighting to stem the Hun advance on Paris.

At the battle of Neuve Chapelle in 1915 Capt. Campbell was severely wounded, his hipbone being shattered by a bayonet thrust through the abdomen. Several months in a hospital followed. On his recovery he was declared unfit for further duty with his regiment. He then sought and found further service in the royal flying corps. For two years, until again severely wounded, he fought the Hun in the air.

Probably no man alive has seen more fighting, on the ground and in the air, than Capt. Campbell. Chautauqua opens here June 2.

ZEITUNG SAYS PRINCE NOT ATTACKING ANEW

But Merely Systematically Continuing Previous Offensive. (Associated Press.) Amsterdam, June 1.—The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung says that it is increasingly apparent that the crown prince's advance is not a new attack, but a systematic continuation of the previous offensive. Continuing, it says that thanks to communications in the region south of Chauny, which were secured in April, the new region of attack is already beginning organically to grow, together with the big wedge driven towards Amiens.

"There are tremendous tactical and operative possibilities in the strategic positions won," the article says in conclusion. "Meanwhile, now as before, Gen. Foch's army stands in the region north of Amiens. There the entente awaits in certainty a revival of our offensive."
