

WILLIAM C. HEADRICK LANDS IN ENGLAND

Writes That Towns Are Quaint and Some of Them Look Centuries Old.

William C. Headrick, son of Mrs. J. B. Headrick, and brother of Miss Glennie Headrick, of North Chattanooga, who left here last September for Camp Mevier, sailed June 4 for England, and has written to his mother advising her of his safe arrival. He has a brother, J. B. Headrick, at Camp Gordon. Mr. Headrick was well known in Chattanooga. After finishing school at the local schools, he went to New York City, where he graduated from the School of Philanthropy. Previous to his going into the army, he was assistant secretary to state charities at Nashville. His letter, which is given below, contains facts about conditions in England as compared with those of America, which will be read with much interest.

On Active Service with American Expeditionary Forces, Somewhere in England, Wednesday, June 12, 1918.

Dear Mother: I suppose you received my letter, written just before we left the ship, in which I said that we had had a safe and comfortable trip. We landed and marched from the docks to the railway station through the city of debarkation. The people gave us a rousing reception with bands, etc. It was a big city with great buildings and winding streets. The street cars were two-story and all traffic kept to the left instead of the right. When we got on the train we found it a little dinky thing compared with ours. Coaches are called carriages and are in compartments for 7 or 8 passengers each with doors opening on side of car for each compartment. We had a ride of several hours, most of which was in day-time. Passed through most beautiful country I ever saw. Village after village, each in sight of the other, with intensely farmed land between. The towns are very quaint and some look centuries old. All houses are of brick and even in small towns are all crowded close together. Each village is like a miniature city.

We got out at one place where Red Cross served hot cups of a drink which I couldn't tell whether it was coffee, cocoa, or tea. When we got to the town near this camp we again marched. It was the most interesting place I ever saw, with little shops and signs all around on the winding streets, looking just like the descriptions in Dickens and other writers' stories. All the houses are brightly painted and all grounds are kept very clean and green. I am hoping to get back again and go all through the town. It is indeed a beautiful place. I think they call this camp a rest camp. We have two meals a day, but the food is fine so far.

We don't know how long we will stay here or where we will be sent for training, or even whether we will train in England or France, but it makes no difference to us. So far everything has gone along fine and the trip has been enjoyed and the places seen very interesting. The weather here is cool and pleasant and I am as well as can be. I think that there are only 5 hours of night in the 24 hours. All the sanitary train boys I know are here. We have a Y. M. C. A. and canteen. I am numbering the letters I write home so you will know if any are lost. There is nothing important to write.

My address is below. I will enclose little souvenirs from time to time, and if they get by, may be interesting and worth while keeping. Hoping all are well there. As ever yours, WILLIAM C. HEADRICK. Ambulance Co., 119-165 Sanitary Train, American Expeditionary Forces. (Censored by Lieut. J. L. Simmons.)

C. H. COBLEIGH COMES HOME TO SEE LITTLE MISS COBLEIGH

Corpl. Clarence Henry Cobleigh, who for the past several weeks has been doing his bit for Uncle Sam at Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., is home on a ten-day furlough. He was glad to get back to Chattanooga and greet loved ones, but a tiny little lady with beautiful eyes of blue was the special reason for his visit. He is a proud father and Miss Cobleigh arrived on June 27 to bring brightness and sunshine into the home. Mr. Cobleigh departed for Camp Jackson on April 27. Mrs. Cobleigh was formerly Miss Violet Turner. They reside with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Cobleigh, on Mulberry street, Oak Grove. Corpl. Cobleigh arrived in Chattanooga on Sunday.

EFFECTS OF WAR ON SHOES NOT TO BE EVIDENT UNTIL SPRING

(Associated Press.) Boston, July 9.—High shoes of various shades will continue in vogue for women and misses the coming winter, but next spring will see marked changes in shapes and colors as a result of the war. This was pointed out by speakers last night at the annual shoe and leather style show. Under the rules issued to shoe manufacturers by the war industries board, it was explained, the spring styles of 1919 will be in two shades of brown, in black and white. No shoe will be more than eight inches in height. Heels will be low and the curves which grace the heels of present styles will be missing.

LEAGUER SETTLIFF HONOR GUEST OF EPWORTHIANS

On Monday evening the members of St. James Epworth league gave a social at the home of Miss Marie Wattenbarger, 111 Jefferson street, in honor of one of the members who will leave Tuesday for the navy. An enjoyable evening was spent. Music was rendered by Misses Rosalie Lyle, Lena Burk and Frances Stewart. Many games were played, after which an ice course was served. A very handsome gift was presented to Mr. Settiff from the league, of which he was a faithful member. In conclusion a very impressive talk was made by Mr. Settiff, thanking the leaguers for the hospitality shown him and hoping to some day be with them again at St. James.

Those present were: Misses—Florence Welch, Frances Stewart, Cora Jillson, Cecel Hallmark, Rosalie Lyle, Lena Burk, Marie Wattenbarger.

Messrs.—Jefferson Settiff, Olin Gregory, Floyd Settiff, Carl Ray, Marvin Settiff, Chas. Miller.

MOUNTAIN COLONY LADIES MAKE MANY COMPRESSES

dies were in attendance during the day and by evening compresses to the number of 1,175 had been produced. The meeting was held in the large clubhouse ballroom.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED IN GLEN MARTIN CIRCLE

Interesting Program on India Marks Session—Mrs. D. P. Houston Presides.

Mrs. David P. Houston, new president of the Glen Martin circle, presided at the meeting of the circle held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fletcher B. Martin on Oak street.

Other new officers elected for the year are as follows: Mrs. J. A. Wilson, vice-president. Mrs. W. A. Burns, secretary. Mrs. J. C. Wilder, treasurer. Mrs. C. E. Kirkpatrick, auditor. Mrs. Myrtle Clemons, music. Mrs. F. B. Martin, programs. Mrs. C. B. Thayer, publicity.

The installation of officers was a feature of the occasion. The program presented two interesting papers on "India and Buddhism," read by Mesdames Will Cason and D. S. Zachery, the latter being in charge of the program.

During the business session report was made that the circle had enjoyed a wonderful year financially. A $100 liberty bond was purchased, and a young girl who is being educated in college by the Glen Martin circle will, it was reported, leave shortly for foreign service.

It was decided at this meeting to appoint hostesses and committees for each month, the place of meeting being, as customary, with Mrs. Martin. Mrs. Charles Gemons and committee will be hostesses for the August meeting.

About twenty-five ladies were present. Punch and cake were served during the social hour.

MISS GUTHRIE TO GIVE CANNING DEMONSTRATION

Syrup as a Sugar Saver to Be Studied. Drying Vegetables, Also Feature of Program.

Miss Maude L. Guthrie, emergency home demonstration agent, will give the following canning demonstrations this week:

Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., Avenue unit at Avenue school, Wednesday, 3 p.m., Junior High school, Thursday, 3 p.m., Oak Grove school, at 7:30 p.m., Main Street school, Friday, 3 p.m., Lookout Mountain school.

This week peaches will be canned, using syrup as a sugar saver. Drying fruits and vegetables in the home will also be demonstrated. This section of the state has a big supply of peaches this year and it is hoped that not one will be wasted. However, the white sugar must be used sparingly because several shipments of sugar have recently been sunk due to the submarine warfare. Use syrup and save sugar is the slogan.

The Highland Park section of the King's Daughters will hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Andrew Smith.

PILGRIM GUILD PLANNING FOR LAWN PARTY SHORTLY

Plans for a lawn party, to be held before long, at the home of Dr. C. H. Myers, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational church, on Missionary ridge, engaged the discussion of members of Pilgrim guild in regular session assembled at the church Monday afternoon.

Additional plans for summer war work were discussed. However, the white sugar must be used sparingly because several shipments of sugar have recently been sunk due to the submarine warfare. Use syrup and save sugar is the slogan.

Mrs. G. Q. Adams, president, was in charge of the session. There was a good attendance.

Lively reconnoitering activity and strong enemy attacks near Merris and south of the Lys broke down.

"West of Chateau-Thierry spirited artillery duels continued. Enemy attacks west of Rheims were repulsed."

"The official report from headquarters says: "Partial attacks by the British on both sides of La Bassée canal failed with heavy losses."

SLACKER CAGE ERECTED IN GADSDEN SQUARE

Ku Klux Klan Places Warning to All Slackers in Front of Courthouse.

Gadsden, Ala., July 9.—Gadsden has a slacker cage, which the Ku Klux Klan warns will be used. The cage was placed on the square in front of the courthouse shortly before midnight Saturday. Several persons in the garb of the Ku Klux Klan drove up in a camouflaged Ford truck and unloaded the cage. The truck appeared suddenly and no one followed it to ascertain where it went. The cage is made of heavy timbers and barbed wire and the sign on it says it is big enough for all slackers.

A warning printed on stationery on which appears the words "Ku Klux Klan" and a skull and crossbones on each corner printed in red ink, was placed on the cage. It states that every slacker is warned to go to work. Support of the administration, Red Cross, Liberty loans, Y. M. C. A. and other war work is demanded. It closes with the words, "Fair warning to all. Ku Klux Klan."

Numerous signs which warn slackers are tacked to the cage. It is believed that it was placed on the courthouse square by the same persons who paraded the streets of Gadsden several weeks ago in the garb of the Civil war Ku Klux Klan. For obvious reasons no attempts have been made to remove the cage.

ATTACK ON VALIDITY OF REDISTRICTING ACT

Chancellor Garvin Takes Mandamus Case of Squires Under Advisement.

Within the bosom of Chancellor W. B. Garvin lies the fate of the redistricting act governing the representation in the Hamilton county court. After listening to argument for and against the act, which was caused by mandamus proceedings filed by Squires H. H. Eagar and Fred R. Foster and W. I. Stoner, the chancellor said that he realized the importance of the case and stated he would take it under advisement for a few days. The suit was appointed J. B. F. Lowry, Theo King and McKinley Hays, election commissioners, but none of the three was in court. Lawrence Spears, one of counsel for the squires seeking to continue their justices' toga, made the opening argument and viciously attacked the new law. Frank Spurlock, one of counsel for the election commission, made the principal address for his side, insisting that the bill which his opponents were attacking was constitutional. Felix D. Lynch followed Mr. Spurlock, after which John A. Chambliss spoke. The argument concluded with the speech of C. W. K. Meacham.

After the argument Judge Garvin stated that he would get the case before the supreme court at the earliest possible moment. It was stated Monday afternoon that the supreme court would be asked to set a special date some time before the election to hear the case. It will be remembered that recently Squires Eagar and Foster and Mr. Stoner filed mandamus proceedings in an effort to have their names placed on the official ballot. The three contestants insist their respective districts are entitled to direct representation in the court and the redistricting act cutting down the representation in the county court is unconstitutional.
