

BODY LAID TO REST WITH MILITARY HONORS

Tribute Paid William W. Renfro by His Former Neighbors and Friends.

(Special to The News.) Harriman, July 15.—The funeral of William W. Renfro, aged 28 years, who was accidentally killed by an aeroplane near Lake Charles, La., Wednesday, was held here Saturday. The body was accompanied by a military escort Friday and taken to the home of his parents, the casket being wrapped in the American flag. The services were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. E. Wiley, former pastor, assisted by Rev. D. S. Heaton, present pastor, of the M. E. church, south, of which the young man was a member. Several hundred people were in attendance, including the high eastern in which the deceased was held, as well as a tribute of honor to one who died for the rights and liberty of others and in defense of his nation, and as a manifestation of the universal sympathy for the bereaved family. The burial followed in the Willard Park cemetery, under military rites. A squad of soldiers came from Knoxville to perform the mission. Young Renfro is survived by his parents, Patrolman and Mrs. Joe A. Baker; two brothers, Joe and Garry Renfro, of this city, and one sister. This is the first death of a Harriman boy to occur in the army, navy or aviation corps.

PART OF GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND IN LAKE

Evidence Indicates She Was Victim of Illegal Surgical Treatment.

Fall River, Mass., July 15.—The lower half of a girl's body, undoubtedly part of the corpse whose head and legs were found in Mount Hope bay last week, was discovered early today floating on the water at the foot of Davol street on the Fall River side of the bay. The condition of the part discovered today indicates that the girl had been a victim of illegal surgical treatment and that her body had been dismembered and cast into the water to cover up the crime. The piece of discovery is about one mile from where the head and lower arms and upper trunk are still missing.

PREFERRED DEATH TO SERVICE IN THE ARMY

Thomas Walling, a Deserter, Shot and Killed in Mountain Home Sunday.

Pikeville, July 15.—Thomas Walling, who lived in a mountain cabin fifteen miles from Pikeville, was shot and instantly killed early Sunday morning by a detail of soldiers sent from Columbia, S. C., to arrest and take him back to camp as a deserter. The soldiers arrived here Saturday night and went at once to Walling's mountain home, accompanied by the sheriff of Van Buren county and two deputies. Arriving at Walling's home, the posse hid in the bushes until daylight, when two soldiers went to the cabin door and knocked. Walling answered the summons and when he saw the soldiers he shut the door and was seen to go in a trapdoor entrance to a hole he had made under the house. The posse surrounded the house and called to Walling to come out. His answer was to lift his head above the hiding place with an automatic pistol presented at the group of soldiers. The soldiers opened fire and Walling dropped back into the hole again. The posse notified the neighbors of Walling's death and they left on their return to Columbia. Walling had been at camp only a few months and had come home on furlough. He overstayed his time and though warned several times by his captain to come back he refused. The hole under Walling's cabin was recently dug, showing that he evidently had determined to resist arrest. He leaves a wife and child.

SPECIAL TRAINS OF DRAFT MEN ARRIVING HOURLY

(Associated Press.) Spartanburg, S. C., July 15.—Special trains are arriving every hour at Camp Wadsworth today, bringing 10,000 drafted men from the South Carolina and 4,000 from the South Carolina for military duty in the national army. Six thousand men from Pennsylvania are also due to arrive during the month, and a statement issued at the camp today says that August will bring another 10,000 soldiers to camp, although it has not yet been determined what state they will come from. With this number of troops arriving in July and August, military officials think that Camp Wadsworth will be the largest military camp in the United States.

GLOBE TONIC SELLS LIKE WILD FIRE

Enthusiastic People Clamoring for the GLOBE TONIC.

The demonstration of the Globe Tonic which is now in progress at 1225 Market street is meeting with wonderful success, and there is now great demand for this wonderful medicine. One of the demonstrators who was seen last night by a newspaper representative stated that the increasing demand for the medicine was due to the fact that the people had at last that Globe Tonic is a merited preparation and that the great demand for it is not a surprise to him, as it is just the same everywhere the medicine is introduced, and from the fact that it is now sold at reduced price the people seem to think the supply is going to run out and they want to be sure they will get their share before it is all gone. He said he wished it to become known that they were prepared to supply them and that the company had notified the druggist to sell the $1 bottles for 65 cents during the demonstration. We give free samples every day from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Call at 1225 Market street and give it a trial.—(Adv.)

WAR REVIEW TERSELY GIVEN BY THE TWO LEADING NEWS SERVICES

(Associated Press.) After a wait of thirty-three days since they were halted in their plunge toward Compiègne, along the west bank of the Oise, the Germans at dawn today launched a new phase of their mighty offensive by attacking from Chateau-Thierry to Maison de Champagne, north of Massiges and far east of Rheims over a front about sixty-five miles in length. Latest reports from the battlefield state that the Germans have crossed the Marne at several places. This probably refers to the reaches of the Marne between Chateau-Thierry and Dormans. American troops are engaged in the battle in this particular region and reports say they are holding the enemy well. They broke up the German drive in the Vaux region, west of Chateau-Thierry, by a dashing counter attack. Reports state that so far as the length of line is concerned, the present drive is the greatest of the year. At first it was believed from the French war office statement that the line was about 100 miles long, but apparently the report from Paris told simply of the length of the French-held lines under attack. Measurements of the line where fighting is known to be going on, however, show that it is 195 meters, or 65.1 miles long. The attack against the Cambrai front on March 21 was over a front of fifty-five miles.

(International News Service.) The Germans are striking again for Paris. Following a cannonade so terrific that thunder of the guns could be heard many miles the Germans launched a series of assaults over a fifty-mile front from the sector of Chateau-Thierry on the Marne river to the mid-Champagne region. This was the fifth separate offensive that the Germans have launched on the western front this year and the early reports from the battle emphasized the fury of the struggle. Americans holding part of the Marne line to the east and west of Chateau-Thierry are treating the brunt of the fighting. This was the first time that the Americans have been called upon in force to help withstand a great German blow. Fighting with all their traditional gallantry the French met shock for shock and were sustaining their positions when the French war office reported upon the engagement at noon today. Rheims, which stands at the apex of the French salient on the eastern flank of the Marne front, is the enter of the fighting. The Germans are struggling hard to overwhelm the French defenders of Rheims and thus straiten their lines by overrunning the city. This last German blow fell at the point where the Teuton lines extend nearest to Paris. (Chateau-Thierry is only forty-eight miles from Paris.) The local objectives of the German army commander—taking into consideration their evident hope of advancing toward Paris—were evidently the following: 1. Capture Rheims and compel a retirement of the French lines in the western part of the Champagne region and between Rheims and the Marne. 2. Cross the Marne and seize the important Chalons-Paris railway. 3. Drive against the next lateral railway line of communication running eastward from Paris through Vitry.

(Associated Press.) The first German drive towards the Marne this year (of which the present offensive may be considered the twin) began on May 27 and fighting lasted nearly a fortnight. The Germans drove southward as far as the Marne and a few detachments got to the southern bank, but they were quickly annihilated. Then the Germans settled down to a long period of preparation, during which the allied military experts were kept guessing as to where the next drive might come. It was generally believed that it would be delivered in the north against Amiens and the channel ports. The Germans took up their positions along ten miles of heights on the northern bank of the Marne between Chateau-Thierry and Dormans. The southern bank was held by French and Americans. During the period of comparative quiet on the Aisne-Marne front the Germans inaugurated an offensive southeast of Montdidier and followed this up by their arrest by civil authorities to take Rheims by storm. Neither of these short-lived enterprises succeeded. The Germans are evidently employing mighty forces in the present operations and the magnitude of the preliminary bombardment made plain that a great mass of artillery had been concentrated to open up the way for the infantry assaults.

(Associated Press.) London, July 15.—A sharp indictment of their arrest by civil authorities, Maxmillian Harden says they are really carrying on Tradition of Sword. (Associated Press.) London, July 15.—A sharp indictment of their arrest by civil authorities, Maxmillian Harden is contained in a current number of Die Zukunft. The holders of high office, he is quoted as saying, by the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who seems useful to themselves, profess to favor a new world order of democracy and national peace but they really are only carrying on the tradition of the power of the sword. "No high personage in the German empire," he says, "wishes to see set up a league of nations, adhesion to which has been declared by the states of North and South America and representatives of England, France, Italy, Canada, Australia and India. The continuance of the endeavors to conceal this fact has become unnecessary since Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest treaties. "We know what the enemy wants and we know that we have a government, calling itself pan-German or whatever else it likes, only expects peace through the might of the army and few certain of obtaining it in a short time. "We may be certain that no words of theirs will ever gain belief anywhere."

(Associated Press.) Paris, July 15.—The Red Cross is preparing for the establishment of hospitals especially designed for skin grafting and gas cases. Five hospitals were enlarged in June and two additional navy hospitals were established. Five convalescent homes for both of these and men were established. Thirty canteens are now being operated on the French front and there are innumerable itinerant canteens operating on the American front and along the lines of communication. Some serve as many as 2,000 meals daily.

(Associated Press.) London, July 14.—Czecho-Slovak troops have captured the city of Kazan, 180 miles east of Moscow, Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen says it is reported from Moscow. The city was taken after the bolsheviks had put up violent resistance. Kazan is on the Kazanka river near where it joins the Volga. It is a manufacturing and commercial center.

(Associated Press.) Pekin, Saturday, July 13.—The British, French, and Japanese ministers to China have strongly protested for Gen. Horvath, the anti-bolshevik military commander, who has formed a temporary war cabinet for Siberia, asking him to withdraw his dictatorship proclamation. The protest of the ministers says it is calculated to cause a situation which may impede the movement of the Czecho-Slovaks, which movement at the present time is all important. Gen. Horvath is requested to reply to the diplomatic request.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, July 15.—Speaker Clark signed the wire control resolution at 12:13 o'clock, immediately after the prayer and the reading of the journal in the house this afternoon.

LAST ACTION REICHSTAG BY FAR MOST IMPORTANT

Taxation Bills Passed—People Called Upon to Face Coming Winter Bravely.

(Associated Press.) Amsterdam, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

LAST ACTION REICHSTAG BY FAR MOST IMPORTANT

Taxation Bills Passed—People Called Upon to Face Coming Winter Bravely.

(Associated Press.) Amsterdam, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch and faithful people will also be able to bear the hardships of the coming winter."

(Associated Press.) Berlin, July 15.—The reichstag, according to a dispatch from Berlin, has adjourned until Nov. 5. One of its last acts Saturday was to pass all taxation bills which the finance minister declared were more extensive and more important than any since the foundation of the empire. After the reichstag had voted the war credits, President Fehrenbach said the reichstag could look back with satisfaction on the past season and that the people could also regard the peace treaties in the east with satisfaction. He hoped the government would succeed in opening a way to the east, entering into friendly relations, bringing order where disorder reigns, and concluding economic agreements. "We cannot tell our constituents," he declared, "that the end of their sacrifices has come but it is hoped that it has as the trials of the last winter were borne better than the previous one and as heaven has preserved us from crop failures that our staunch