

SERVICE LEAGUE LUNCHEON TODAY

Program Committee Arranges a Get-Together Meeting After a Year's Work.

FORT OFFICERS TO SPEAK

Army Y. M. C. A. People Co-Operate in Suggestions for Arousing Enthusiasm.

The program committee of the National League for Women's Service gave a get-together luncheon today at the Hotel Patten.

Vases of flowers adorned the table at intervals. Mrs. C. E. Bueck sent a collection of flowers from her garden on Missionary ridge, and the others were contributed by Mrs. John Lanar Meek and Mrs. Temple.

Col. Munson spoke for the army post on the duty of the entertainers over the soldiers. He was most generous in his expression of appreciation of what the committee had done at the fort.

Mrs. Morris Temple told of the table and Mrs. Morris Temple, chairman of the committee, at the other.

Members of the committee expressed the desire to hear from the Fort Oglethorpe staff in reference to the value or necessity of these programs and suggestions for making improvements.

Lieut. Col. Krantz spoke encouragingly of the work, and Dr. Mitchell, and O. R. Stapleton, from the army Y. M. C. A. at the post, made some very helpful suggestions.

The gathering was arranged for the purpose of promoting interest among the entertainers. This committee has been doing faithful work for more than a year, and it desired to know the status of the army people concerning these programs.

Mrs. F. C. McCleary, assistant chairman, told of how some fourteen or fifteen programs had been given at the fort every Sunday afternoon, and of the entertainments every Tuesday night, which she had personally directed ever since last October.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN SCHOOL OPENS SEPT. 16

Prof. Jones, of Murfreesboro, Principal—Many Features Added for Fall Term.

Citizens of Lookout Mountain are congratulating themselves over the prospects of the ensuing grammar school term. The school opens Sept. 16, and for the first time in its history it will be supplied with more than two teachers.

Prof. Horace Jones, of Murfreesboro, has been appointed principal. He will be assisted by Miss Mary Wann, of Jackson; Miss Mary Jackson, of Selmer; and Miss Lucy Milburn, of St. Elmo.

The plan of County Superintendent J. W. Abel to have strengthened all departments of the school, such as music, art and domestic science.

"WOMEN OF LEISURE" NEEDED ON BIG FARMS

New York State Industrial Board Appeals for Aid in Harvesting Crops.

New York, Aug. 15.—An appeal to "women of leisure" of New York state to save the harvest by volunteering for farm work at good pay, was made here today by the industrial commission of the state department of labor.

The appeal says that several hundred women between the ages of 18 and 35 are needed this week. Women not employed in essential industries are preferred. The scarcity of farm labor has been increased because of the return to the cities of hundreds of students and school teachers who have spent their vacations working on farms.

"The farm situation is acute," the statement asserts, "and unless the women of leisure enlist at once and return to help harvest the crops, much of the work already done will have been done in vain."

"BUSY DODGING GERMAN PILLS," SAYS "CHICK" ELLIS IN INTERESTING LETTER

Former Y. M. C. A. Secretary Tells of Interesting Experiences in the Trenches Over in France.

LIEUT. GLENN ELLIS.

Former Chattanooga Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Who is Now in the Service in France.

Glenn Ellis, better known as "Chick," who was formerly a secretary at the local Y. M. C. A., is now in France, where he has already seen active service. "Chick" Ellis left Chattanooga at the same time as Walter Heasty and a number of other boys, who were among the first selectmen to leave this city.

In writing to his mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Ellis, of North Chattanooga, young Ellis says that his company has been holding a section at the front lines for their initial training in trench warfare. He writes that they had a very interesting time among the mud and water, because his company has been holding a section at the front lines for their initial training in trench warfare.

"We get about three weeks' rest before we go 'up the line.' I began my rest by a general clean-up today. I washed clothes and also myself this afternoon while the hot sun beamed down. I mentioned to my mother that I had to sit around in nature's clothes while my own hung out to dry, and I knew the sun was hot. It did feel good to be clean again, because I hadn't been out of my clothes for nearly two weeks. We had a clean place up the line, so I didn't gather any boarders, otherwise known as 'cooties.'"

"I am in the best of condition despite the fact that I am working night and day, and I can sleep whenever I lay my head down."

RED CROSS FINDS ARDENT SUPPORT IN RICHMOND HOSIERY MILL EMPLOYEES

Red Cross enthusiasm has reached to every nook and corner of the city, among the energetic and loyal supporters are those at the Richmond Hosiery mill. A branch of the Red Cross was organized there during the drive last winter, and now has a membership of twenty ladies of the knitting, spinning and weaving departments. The officers of the organization are connected with the inspecting department.

The meetings are held weekly at the Y. M. C. A. in Rossville. Most of the time has been spent in making hospital garments. Plans are under way for a picnic to be given in the near future at Lake Lookout. The proceeds will be used in purchasing equipment for the work room.

During the first liberty loan campaign $30,000 worth of bonds were bought by the employees, and $2,750 was subscribed to the Red Cross fund by the employees of the Richmond and four branch mills.

Interest in the work is effectively maintained by the articles that appear in the monthly magazine, the Arrowhead, published by the mill. The editor is J. M. Crumley, of the efficiency department. The paper is devoted exclusively to notes about the mill.

CLEVER COMEDY IS FEATURE AT RIALTO

"Little Miss Up-to-Date" Full of Snappy Songs and Dances.

"Little Miss Up-to-Date," a miniature musical comedy, with snappy songs and dances, featured a good bit of vaudeville which opened at Ketha Rialto Thursday evening for a three-days showing. The leading lady of the act is good to look at and is quite graceful in her dances. The act carries with it some of the best soft shodancers that has appeared here in some time. The chorus is well costumed and all of the girls appear to advantage.

Al Abbott, billed as "The Village Songster," has a good comedy singing act and it made a hit with the audiences yesterday. Mr. Abbott is one of the best impersonators that has appeared here in some time.

Sammy Duncan, in an act of travesties with a bit of Scotch, has a novel act. Mr. Duncan shows the Scotchman when he is sad, when he is glad and when he is indifferent.

Stimmons and Brantley have a clever skating act.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Bales are spending the month of August with relatives in Greeneville, Tenn.

Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Watson have returned from a three weeks' motor trip to Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Washington. Mrs. D. E. Watson and Mrs. Francis Hagan, of Washington, accompanied them home for a visit.

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles O. King and little daughter Douglas, of Athens, Ala., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert King at the apartment in the Albarmerie. Lieut. King is a student at the medical officers' training camp.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Martin entertained Thursday evening at their home in St. Elmo, honoring their guest, Miss Anna Hamp, of Detroit, Mich.

Various games and music were enjoyed and an ice supper was served.

Those present were: Misses—Anna Hamp, Edna Pennington, Margaret Watson, Bessie Jenkins, Laura Johnson, Lella Goode.

Messrs.—George Watson, Ralph Hall, Raymond Cooper, Raum Daugherty, Robert Peace, Jr., Raymond Clifford.

THE THREE FATES

Three of us, making our way out of the terrified village, Three trudged side by side under the frosty dawn. Mere Garnier and I, and Claire, her orphaned servant. Mere Garnier and I grumbled and shivered, crunched over the frozen mud, I vexed about my grandsire's mirror, she for her heifer tied to the loaded wagon. Anxious irritation possessed us, save that I thought of my daughter's family Separated and ruined, and she of her son at the Front. Only Claire was tranquil, and at moments almost merry. She had no cow, nor any mirror for her curls, nor a home to cling to. Being without kindred, she had no anxieties.

Like the three Fates I have heard of, in whose hands the thread of life is carried, Under an evil spell we seemed, urged along a road interminable, timeless,— I burdened with the mid-web of woes, of regrets and fears and longings; She hearkening ever with her heart's ear for the final severing of death; Claire, so tragic and fair and young, spinning a tentative silken strand.

Faint from the hungry days and the nights without sleep, we stumbled away from the sunrise, Being without kindred, she had no anxieties. At the end of her taut rope lowed the heifer, and tossed her horns protesting.

A bucket slipped off the head, and my crockery in it was broken. Mother Garnier broke into exasperated stammering vituperation. A solitary German appeared, crossing from a barn to a wayside well-curb.

Three hearts stopped. Would he cry "Halt!" Would he seize the heifer? No, he but looked at the curls that were touched by the first red sunbeams.

Safe for the moment we passed, but two of us fell silent, Thinking of war and youth, of the orphaned girl who had nothing, Thinking of Claire, who had so much to lose.

STOP! What kind of oil are you using in your motor? It's a very important question— A question that should have your most serious consideration, if you have any regard for the life of your motor, and its satisfactory running qualities. Motor Oil is one of two vitals that make for trouble or satisfaction. The other vital is gas. You can not control the gas situation. You have to buy what is offered you. There's no choice. The lower the gravity of gas, the more carbonization. Same way with oil. "GREEN FLAG" IS A HIGHLY SUPERIOR OIL, as free from carbon as it is possible to produce; is therefore a high grade of oil, whose carbon deposits are practically negligible; and the use of which practically eliminates the common run of engine troubles due to inferior oil. We urge you to use "GREEN FLAG MOTOR OIL, because it is a thing guaranteed; a quality that has to stand up and protect an established name; and a product we could not hope to be able to continue to sell, and have called for by name, if that name did not everlastingly qualify the product. Anything advertised and sold by trade name is a constant protection to the consumer; because manufacturers are not spending money on experiments, or something that will not live up to their guarantee. It costs thousands of dollars to establish and advertise a name. That's what we are doing with "GREEN FLAG" OIL. That's why you should buy it in preference to any other motor oil. There is but one dealer in your city who is authorized to distribute "GREEN FLAG" MOTOR OIL. He does not sell any other kind. You're sure of getting what you ask for when you patronize him. D. S. ETHERIDGE CO., Inc. EXCLUSIVE AGENTS TWO PLANTS—401-403 Broad Street; 267-269 East Main St.
