Debutantes and College Girls of Chattanooga Gracefully Sacrifice Pleasure for War Work

Debutantes in name only, is how one matron discouragingly describes the coterie of young girls who will make their bow in society this autumn.

Owing to war conditions, there will be no elaborate coming-out parties, and, indeed, the mothers are frowning strictly on any ambitious entertaining.

However, the debutantes themselves are looking forward to "their season" with vivacious enthusiasm and their joy is not to be repressed.

The debutantes included Miss Katharine Andrews, Miss Katharine Gager, Miss Susanne Loder, Miss Margaret Davenport, Miss Adele Lowry and Miss Elizabeth Jones.

They are as charming and pretty a group as ever were ready for their debut, and one can't help but regret that a brighter and gayer winter is not in prospect for them.

War overshadows all plans of parents and friends are engrossed in Red Cross and war work of various kinds and are promising little.

As yet not a single party is definitely scheduled, but the girls' high spirits are irrepressible. They are wholeheartedly interested in patriotic work.

All are members of the godmothers' association and will continue their share of duty for several years.

Another group of Chattanooga's prettiest and promising young misses is among the college set. This city is sending a few hundred boys and girls away to distant institutions this term.

About Chronic Catarrh. Chronic catarrh results from a neglected cold or from a succession of colds, that is, before you are over one cold you contract another. The inflammation, at first acute, becomes chronic. When the cold is properly treated and promptly cured there is no further trouble. Parents often neglect colds contracted by their children and chronic catarrh, from which they never fully recover, is the result. To get remedy, it is prompt and effectual. (Adv.)
