LANGUAGE BARRED IN "NO MAN'S LAND" PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Yankees Thought They Heard Voices, and Were About to Open Fire. (By Bert Ford.) With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 26.—(Night.)—(I. N. S.)—Loyal German-Americans from Pennsylvania, members of the 310th machine gun battalion of the 78th division, were nearly shot up by their comrades because they conversed in German in a front line trench.

The story was told today by Capt. John Miller Benbright, commander of B Company, machine gun battalion, a former managing editor of the Philadelphia North American. A heavy rain was falling, and a gale was blowing, when an American unit received orders to hasten to advanced positions in the woods on the Argonne meadow front. Owing to the storm and the pitch darkness, the men got lost and wandered out into No Man's Land, beyond our infantry lines.

Some of the German-Americans who were in the first line trenches began speaking to one another in German. The Yanks out in No Man's Land were just about to open fire, thinking that they were overhearing conversation in a boche trench, when Lieut. John Walters of Altoona, Pa., discovered the mistake. He advanced toward the trench but was held up by a sentry.

With the menacing muzzle of a sentry's rifle pointed at him, Walters explained the mistake and said that it was only the mention of Pennsylvania that had prevented the men from opening fire. "Oh, Hall, they are only Pennsylvania Dutch boys," drawled the disgusted sentry.

The Pennsylvanians had quite a laugh over the incident, but they are now very careful about using any German when they are on the firing line.

SOME JUST FORGOT Didn't Turn Clocks Back and Got in an Hour Ahead of Time. Notwithstanding warnings that an hour would turn backward one hour in its flight Sunday morning at 2 o'clock, several people came to the depot an hour ahead of time, and when they were asked on time, they complained that the trains were running an hour late. When 2 o'clock came Sunday morning all trains proceeded to the next station and there waited one hour for time to catch up with them, and really came in an hour later than usual.

ALL HER FRIENDS ARE ASTONISHED Mrs. Johnson Suffered for Eight Years. Gained Sixteen Pounds in Weight, She Says. Declares Her Rapid Recovery Since Taking Taniaac Has Surprised Everyone.

"My recovery and improvement since I started taking Taniaac has astonished all my friends," said Mrs. P. A. Johnson, 22 East Third street, El Paso, Texas. "I had suffered terribly for eight years with rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness," she continued, "my whole body ached so badly that it was torture for me to get about the house, and even then I had to walk with crutches. My stomach was in such a condition that I had to live on a liquid diet and even that would sour and form gas that swelled up around my heart until I could hardly breathe at times. My head ached all the time and my nerves were so torn up I could hardly ever get more than two hours sleep any one night."

ANOTHER CHANGE IN PLAN

Holston Conference of M. E. Church, South, Goes Back to Johnson City. Knoxville, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Holston conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will convene in Johnson City Wednesday. Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, presiding. The conference was scheduled to meet the first Wednesday in October, but was postponed on account of the influenza epidemic and the place changed to Knoxville for the coming Wednesday, but the influenza has caused another change back to Johnson City.

The Holston conference is composed of ten districts, each district being in charge of a presiding elder. The districts composing the Holston conference, with their presiding elders, are: The Abingdon district, Rev. I. P. Martin; Big Stone Gap district, Rev. M. P. Carico; Chattanooga district, Rev. E. A. Shugart; Chattanooga district, Rev. J. B. Ward; Cleveland district, Rev. W. S. Neighbors; Knoxville district, Rev. P. L. Cobb; Morristown district, Rev. J. W. Perry; Radford district, Rev. D. P. Hurley; Tazewell district, Rev. J. E. Wolf; Wytheville district, Rev. J. W. Hader.

During the time that has elapsed since the convening of the conference last year, at Putnam, Va., the conference has lost fifty of its members by death—Rev. J. A. Bolderbeck of Chattanooga; Rev. J. M. Wolf, Dryden, Va.; Rev. David Sullins, who died at Birmingham, Ala.; Rev. J. W. Smith, of Chattanooga; Rev. M. J. Malden, of Glenfrown, Va.; Rev. J. L. Prater, of Bristol, Va.; Rev. C. T. Carroll, of Knoxville; and Rev. J. H. Witt, of Powell's Station.

One special feature which will come to the attention of the conference this year will be the appointing of a secretary for the Holston conference to take charge of the work of the conference in the coming year. The passage of the M. E. church, south, the object of which is to raise the sum of $25,000,000 during the next four years for missions.

MENTH-ALBA MAY PREVENT AN ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Insert Little Pieces Up Nostrils Several Times a Day. Keep the Nose Open.

Influenza or gripe is contracted through the nose. The disease breeding germs are taken into the lungs with each breath you take. When you come in contact with a person suffering with influenza it's vitally important that the mucous lining of the nose should be in a healthy condition and something should be done to destroy the germs. You should also keep the nose open.

One of the best ways to prevent influenza is to insert little pieces of Menth-Alba up the nose several times daily. This snow-white antiseptic compound will open up the nose quickly and destroy any disease breeding germs which may be lurking there.
