THE WATCHWORD.

"They shall not pass" the messenger goes. Across the masses of the foe Who, driven to the slaughter pen Like cattle, fore the allied men, Fall down in windows, lying still Wasted by Kultur's despot will: Their own and others coming on A red and white bannered host The rock of manhood bending slow Before the near-realist foe.

"They shall not pass" Each coin you lend Men, women, babies to defend Shall cry aloud to Heaven's Throne Till all the earth, though lying prone In rapt contrition for its sin— And God shall begin: Where wars shall cease and Mars shall turn And all the rack of carnage burn And man, grown wiser by his pain His heritage of joy attain. M'CALLIE GRID TEAM KEEPS ON WINNING DEFEATS CITY HIGH BY 20-0 SCORE.

Both Teams Show Offensive Dash, but Are Weak on Defense. With both teams strong on the offense and practically nil on protecting their own line, McCallie continued its unbroken record of victories Friday by defeating Chattanooga High school by a score of 20 to 0.

High school won the toss and a fair kick was received by the Blue and White eleven and rushed down the field to a touchdown. Cullis was the player who carried the pigskin over the chalk mark for the initial counter. The score seemed to give an added courage to the scoreless team, however, and for the next few minutes it looked as if nothing would prevent a score against the ridge team.

Then high school desperately attempted another pass. This time the aerial work was successful. By consistent ground gaining the ball was soon at McCallie's feet, but the Red and White aggregation failed by an ace of making fourth down on their opponents' 1-foot line. McCallie kicked, but gained little. Before high school could approach the Blue and White goal, which she gave every indication of doing, the whistle blew for the first half and the advantage was lost.

McCallie kicked the second half, but high school did not gain after receiving. From then on the game was McCallie's although the Red and White fought gamely. The game was probably lost because of poor headwork in the first half. Although demoralization, which usually follows this, did not result Friday, the effects of it could be seen in the lack of teamwork of the Red and White.

NEED FOOD C. B. Russell Finds Family in Dire Distress.

Several lawyers have signalled their desire to apply for a commission in the judge-advocate-general's department, but the local commission is not authorized to accept them. There are but 174 positions of this kind in the army, and 8,000 or 4,000 applications are on file in Washington now.

Dr. C. P. Knight and Dr. Ben Brown, of the health service, met in conference Friday afternoon to talk over the situation relative to the druggists and soft drink stands in Chattanooga. Dr. Knight agreed with Dr. Brown that the only safe and sure way for drinks to be served the public was out of the sanitary paper cups, done away entirely with the sterilizers.

This matter will be looked into at once by the officials and some rules relative to this will probably be put into effect at once.

C. B. Russell, family probation officer, issued an urgent appeal for clothing and provisions Saturday morning. He said he had found a family living near Chickamauga, who are in dire distress, needing both clothing and food. The mother has been sick in bed for more than a month. There are six small children in rags and lacking proper food.

The father, who is the big family's only means of support, is employed on a nearby farm working for only $1 a day. Those who would do a real act of kindness, according to the probation officer, can do so by giving old clothing or food. They are requested to call up the Associated Charities and leave word for him to call for the goods.
