

People's Indicator. OFFICIAL Paper of the Parish and City of New Orleans. Published every Monday and Wednesday. Vol. 11, No. 11,000. NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 19, 1890.

The Outlook at this Moment. The Democratic party, which has had our services and love during all the days of our manhood, is one time more in a position to secure victory in a National contest. The grand old party has the advantage again. The Republican party in its platform and candidates palled, rather than invoked that enthusiasm necessary for victory, and it remains to be determined whether the Democracy will blunder (as it has done in every canvass since 1860.) the opposition into power.

CORRESPONDENCE. THE STATES, NO. 90 CAMP STREET, New Orleans, June 4, 1890. Hon. J. H. Cosgrove, New Orleans: Sir—You are now, no doubt, aware that the charge contained in a telegram of yours from Natchitoches to the New Orleans DEMOCRAT, relative to an editorial headed "Murder Will Out," which recently appeared in THE STATES, are without foundation. I, therefore, hope that you will not hesitate to retract the abusive epithets you applied to me in that dispatch. This note will be handed you by my friends, Col. James Langan and Respectfully, etc., H. J. HEARSEY.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3, 1890. Capt. R. Francis, City: Dear Sir—Will you be kind enough to state whether or not the following is a correct report of the statement dictated by Capt. R. M. Wilson, a member of the staff of the Editor, in your presence, relative to an interview on the last night of the late session of the Legislature, between Capt. W. H. Brooks and Hon. Jas. H. Cosgrove, at the Germ saloon? The following is the report I refer to: "On the last day of the session Mr. Cosgrove told Mr. W. H. Brooks, that he and his associates had made a compromise with the Republican friends, the terms of which prevented them from bringing up the money question, and in full accord with the material interests of the nation. The platform must be as free and open as the man. With so little required, and so much material to select from, we are buoyed with sanguine hope that there will be no failure this time, either in the selection of the man, the enunciation of principles, or the conduct of the canvass."

NEW ORLEANS, June 7, 1890. Col. F. O. Zacharie and Mr. Henry Guy Carleton, Present: Gentlemen—Major H. J. Hearsey's note to Gen. J. H. Cosgrove of even date has been handed to me. Through courtesy I reply, and beg to state that on the evening of the fifth instant, the controversy between Major Hearsey and Gen. Cosgrove were fully discussed and amicably adjusted by Col. J. Langan, Mr. J. A. Quintero and Dr. W. Stone, properly accredited representatives of Major H. J. Hearsey, on the one hand, and myself, representing Gen. J. H. Cosgrove, on the other. The terms of adjustment agreed upon had been signed by the representatives of both gentlemen respectively, and delivered to my principal, Major Hearsey's dissatisfaction therewith.

KILLING AT MARSHALL. Mr. Bart Jennings, Proprietor of the Messenger Shoots and Kills Hon. W. S. Coleman. The particulars, as we learned them, says the Shreveport Standard, are about as follows: After reading the article Mr. Coleman armed himself and went in search of the editor, and finding him demanded to know if he was responsible for the article. The editor disclaimed any responsibility, stating that Mr. Jennings was the responsible party. Mr. Coleman turned and walked away and when opposite Teyman & Womack's store he met Mr. Jennings and accosted him thus: "But, are you responsible for the article which appeared in the Messenger this morning?" He replied that it was an infamous lie. At this juncture both gentlemen drew their pistols, and began firing upon each other. Some eight or ten shots were fired, three of which struck Mr. Coleman, one in the left breast, near the heart, another in the abdomen and the third in the thigh. The parties were some eight or ten feet apart when the shooting began. After the shooting Mr. Coleman walked off, staggered, a few feet and fell dead. Mr. Jennings surrendered himself to the authorities. A bystander, and a stranger in Marshall, was severely wounded in the knee from a stray shot, and a boy is reported to have been shot in the arm.

New Orleans Advertisers. A. FLANNAN & CO., COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS. No 198 Gravier St., New Orleans, La. We append a few prices: THE AMERICAN CHINA DINNER, BREAKFAST AND TEA SETS, comprising 160 pieces, for $15. A REAL FRENCH CHINA DINNER SETS, 124 pieces, for $12. ENGLISH STONE CHINA DINNER SETS, 124 pieces, for $12. ENGLISH STONE CHINA CHAMBER SETS, comprising 10 pieces, for $12. DECORATED CHAMBER SETS, with different colored bands, 10 pieces, for $4.50. GLASS COBLETs, from 60 cents to 10 per dozen. Particular attention given to House-furnishing Department. Orders promptly attended to. Call and examine before purchasing. W. C. SHEPARD & CO. April 24, 1890.—12m.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.

Our thanks are due the officers of the James K. Bell for favors.