SATURDAY, --- OCT. 30, 1890.

FOR PRESIDENT,
Gen. W. S. HANCOCK,
OF Pennsylvania.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
WM. H. ENGLISH,
OF Indiana.

FOR CONGRESS, FOURTH DISTRICT,
N. C. BLANCHARD,
OF Idaho.

Cold rains set in on Wednesday last.

Florida is to be flooded with Republican repeaters on Tuesday next.

To-day we are to have that grand Democratic rally. Let us have a good turnout.

The cotton yield of Tennessee, this season, is put down at two-thirds of an average crop.

Tuesday tells the story. The solid South will then be potent for good, or there will be a deluge or something else.

E. B. BOWMAN, Esq., retires from editorial charge of the Alexandria Democrat, and J. R. WATERS assumes the tripod.

AKELIN has withdrawn from the Congressional race in the 3d District, and Geo. BILLY has only the Republican nominee, Dr. DARRILL, to contend against.

Our city brethren of the press do not dwell together in that serene unity which is desirable. Some run with the "ring," others with the "sensitive," and again there are those who are in the air, as it were.

As we go to press we learn that Carroll's Mill, at the mouth of Old river, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday night. Losses $500 to $700. No insurance. The fire was supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

The handsome Jewell made her regular trip last Tuesday, and her officers paid the Vindicator their respects. When Truett, Hamilton or Dick Blanton fail to navigate Old Red, it would be sheer nonsense for any other Captain to make the attempt.

On the 4th instant, the Catholic community of Vicksburg, Miss., as well as of our own State, were called upon to mourn the demise of that distinguished young clergyman, Rev. Father QUELARD. His missionary labor was commenced in Monroe, La., in 1871, where he remains were taken for interment.

DAILY SERVICE.—The authorities have at last turned an ear to the pleadings of our section, and we are now having a daily mail from Shreveport to the mouth of Red River. Our New Orleans papers are yet 72 hours out, when they should not be over 48, if that. Let us have the Vermilionville route instead of the Mississippi river.

DAN'L W. McCauley, cousin to our esteemed fellow-citizen H. B. WALMSLEY, C. L. WALMSLEY and H. A. WALMSLEY, writes a stirring letter to the New York World denouncing the Medicals for traducing the South and the Southern people. We regret that want of space prevents us from publishing his patriotic utterances in full.

Approves of improvements, the carpenters of our place are many, but from what we see and can learn there has not been an idle one all the year, and the cry is more work. Residences, stables, gin-houses, mills and houses are being constructed throughout our parish and so substantially that we are convinced our population has at last determined to stay.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.—The University for the use of the colored youth of our State was organized on 25th inst., by the election of Dr. A. B. GUMMIS as president of the faculty. He, also, was selected to fill the Chair of Natural Science. Prof. A. CULLEN was elected to the Chair of ancient and modern languages. Messrs. PATTERSON, ALLAN and the President were appointed the Executive Committee. The school will open at once.

The widow of Lt. Col. CHARLES D. DUNN, who was killed in a skirmish at Newport News, Va., July 24, 1861, is now an actress under the stage name of DONA STUART, playing at last accounts with the Geo. Williams "Our German Senator" Combination. She was before marriage a Miss MARY ANNE DUNN, daughter of State Auditor STEPHEN HAYNES, of that Polkiana. After Col. DUNN's death she married Capt. OTIS BRADFORD, and moved to California.

The Governor has assigned as follows, under the law, the terms of the members of the Board of Supervisors of the Louisiana University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, viz: George Mason Graham, four years; Leon Jasterowski, four years; Wm. A. Hanna, four years; A. A. Gentry, three years; John Delahoussaye, three years; Geo. L. Walton, three years; W. H. Ryan, two years; R. E. Thompson, two years; F. W. Ryan, one year; J. R. Ryan, one year; R. E. Ryan, one year.

Assessments.
We have several times referred to the action of a majority of the General Assembly upon the assessment law enacted by that body, but the press of our State seem to dodge this vital subject with fear and trembling, while they—some of them, at least—howl with becoming gravity and a frothiness of mouth worthy of a better cause, about "rings and monopolies."

A careful study of the proceedings of that body will convince the public that no effort to secure a just assessment of property, and an equal adjustment of its value for taxation, was left untried by a few.

After the revenue law was reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, it was subjected to the action of an extraordinary and unheard of caucus of Democrats, Independents and Greenbackers, which assembled nightly at the office of a city member of the lower House, and from that fact, became known as the Camp street caucus. This caucus formed the only combination or ring, known of during that Session! We say this with all seriousness, and can prove what we say. This caucus made combinations on the following bills, The Revenue, City Charter and Capitol appropriation. Enough members were drawn into this alliance to control the action of the House, and a perusal of the bill as it passed that body will convince all reasoning men that a more monstrous measure never was enacted.

The points made by its framers in this caucus were: 1st, to circumvent and annul the debt ordinance, in the face of the fact that a majority had adopted it; 2d, to allow the property owners to assess their own property at their own figures, and to completely control assessments and Assessors, and, 3d, to allow the taxpayer to pay his taxes when he saw fit. And strange as it may seem, the bill passed the House with all these points bristling in it; what modifications were made is due to the Senate.

We are led to give this brief inside history of the Revenue bill from reading an article in a late number of the Baton Rouge Advocate, relative to assessments. As to such suggestions as it asks of the press, we are ready and willing to add our appeals to his, but we must first take out of the mouths of demagogues the false cry that Louisiana is poverty-stricken and ruined. And further, we must insist that the discussion be confined to that known principle of political economy—that nothing pays taxes but labor.

Good Enough for Us.

We reproduce the editorial in the Sparta Times, commenting on the Resolutions of BUTLER's mass meeting. We call it BUTLER's mass meeting, from the fact that several gentlemen in our parish have learned from influential citizens of Blenville, that the meeting was composed of BUTLER's personal friends, and that the citizens of that parish generally condemn Mr. BUTLER. The Resolution condemnatory of dueling is one which is particularly double-cutting. If BUTLER did not propose to stand responsible for what he uttered, he should keep his mouth shut. Col. OGDEN has never yet said anything about a duel, and Mr. BUTLER and his friends had better wait until they are spurred, when they can kick.

Here is the Times' comment: Mr. Butler well and faithfully represented our parish. He returned from legislative duties with clean hands, and with honor to his constituency and credit to himself. What he saw in New Orleans has a right to expose. We all have a right to criticize the public acts of officials, or their acts as officials. Personal matters belong to the individual charged and the one charging. The constituency of Mr. Butler will sustain him in his efforts to expose corruption in high places, but as to that which only affects the private life of Mr. OGDEN it seems to us that Mr. Butler must charge and sustain, in such case, whatever they be, which we presume he is, of course, willing to do. The law proposes to punish for violations thereof. Then, if Mr. OGDEN violated any law of Louisiana, either during the sitting of the Legislature, before or since, let us charge the grand jury, the officers, the courts of New Orleans. That Mr. Butler is resented with a vengeance that indicates the necessity of his attacks on officials we affirm. But to compound private life and special criminal offenses with official career is more than we honestly think a parish can shoulder in order to sustain her representative in his onslaught against rings, monopolies and corruption in high places. To our duty to do. But as to the former our Representative is personally the "Cesar for business." When newspapers assail our Representative in critique of irony, obliquity and Billingsgate he has the sympathy, moral support and universal suffrage of a candid constituency to resent such insult. Beyond these premises we, as a parish, are not warranted to go, neither by a zeal for the public good, nor by personal defense of a favored representative. The resolutions are duplicated with personal matters that should have been omitted. And we place the Rural Times on definitive ground by saying it is the friend of Mr. Butler. He ought to attack corruption with a boldness and intrepidity of Roman nerve. In this we are his advocates. The people have no cause to complain of our Representative. They should congratulate their public existence with the fact that Mr. Butler is fearless and honest. But the resolutions go upon Mr. OGDEN from every stand point. Private life is laid up, penal offenses are charged with special criminality. As to these matters, original judicial tribunals are competent. As to the personal, Mr. Butler has said he is the one to accommodate emergencies. And so say we. Let us be just to all men. Let us honor Mr. Butler for his fidelity to his high trust as our Representative. At the same time let us give Mr. OGDEN the benefit of common sense. Then truth and reason will render their verdicts.

Don't fail to read our new advertisements.

Special Notice.
With the determination to bring the VINDICATOR, with its circulation and influence, to bear upon the emigrant, whom, we opine, wants but to know that they will not only be welcome but that cheap and desirable lands are ready for sale on easy terms, we will advertise all lands, FOR SALE TO ACTUAL SETTLERS, and exact pay therefor only when the lands are sold! Accompanying each advertisement must be a description of the soil, whether hill or alluvial; what amount is open, if any; improvements, water, wood, convenience to churches and their denomination, and public or private schools.

As a guarantee of good faith on the part of the advertiser, we must be furnished with a responsible recommendation. Our citizens will realize the expense which must be borne on our part in this undertaking, which we gladly assume, and all we ask in return is a generous support, that we may effect the settlement of our native section with a thrifty, energetic and intelligent population.

The Last Call.
The people of Natchitoches parish must be dead to all sense of honor if they do not rally en masse to the polls on Tuesday next, and vote for Constitutional government and Hancock.

This is the last appeal of the Vindicator to its thousand and more readers in this parish. We warn them that every effort will be made to carry this State, and their votes are needed to make up a majority worthy of presentation to that gallant Federal Soldier who stood by us when friends were sorely needed. Come to the polls, citizens of Natchitoches, and let us give the Democratic ticket a rousing majority.

A Suggestive Letter.

TESSIER'S LANDING, October 25, 1890.

Editor Vindicator:
We were much surprised to find out the condition of navigation between this point and Grand Ecour. Falling in to be in time to take the boat at Grand Ecour, yesterday at noon we started for this point, and arrived here 24 hours ago, the boat, however, though over 24 hours after the left Grand Ecour, has not yet reached this place, now 28 hours; the bars above here being nearly dry. I find this point has great advantages as a shipping point for our town, and I think it would be well for our people to look into this matter. There is a Warehouse at this place, kept by our friend E. V. Tessier, who proposes to open a road direct to our town through the swamp—distance very little over 3 miles.

The subject is one which deserves the attention of our town, and knowing the interest which your paper takes in its welfare, I hope you will give the matter some attention. Your Reporter would find it a pleasant trip to this place, and I have no doubt learn more on the subject than I could pen you. The Behan has been in sight all day, and will probably reach here after awhile. At the rate boats travel I will probably reach New Orleans next month. Yours truly, J. C. TRICHEL.

River News.

The Cornie Brandon struck a snag at Stacy's wood yard about 12 miles below Shreveport on Wednesday 20th, and sunk. She will be saved.

The river rose three inches at Shreveport last Saturday. Water from Sulphur and Old rivers. The rise at Fulton was 30 inches in all. The Behan could go no higher than Coushatta, and it is quite likely that navigation will be closed within two weeks.

The Alexandria stuck in Tucker's reach for twenty-four hours, as did the Behan for forty-eight. Navigation, except for the smallest boats, is almost suspended.

The following letter from Capt. Joe. A. AIKEN to his Excellency Gov. WILTZ will be read with interest: NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22, 1890. His Excellency Louis A. WILTZ, Governor of the State of Louisiana.

Sir—Supplementing my communication of the second instant, and in compliance with your expressed desire to be fully informed in all things pertaining to our inland commerce, I take the liberty of again addressing you concerning Red river. The government observer at Shreveport yesterday reports 4 feet 9 inches of water mark at that place. There is fully the depth of water in the channel from there down to Tones bayou, thirty miles below; there the river divides a large bayou of its waters, leaving it via the bayou. The result of this diversion is that below the navigation is practically suspended. Yesterday the master of the steamboat Alexandria, one of the lightest and smallest of boats, telegraphed from Coushatta, 100 miles below this bayou: "I have been three days coming here from Shreveport; only 30 inches on the bars." To-day he repeats the report of but 30 inches from Camp, he having been twenty-four hours in getting from Coushatta to that place, a distance of sixty miles. On such scant water as this boats must charge seemingly exorbitant rates of freight to pay running expenses.

With the improvements enumerated in my former communication, the channel from Tones bayou to the Mississippi would be as good as it is from Shreveport to the bayou. The best class of boats could run, and freights would be at the lowest rate. The river has been navigable later into this year than for many previous years, the result of which is that the cotton of North Louisiana and Texas, that usually goes to St. Louis, has been brought here, and our merchants have sold largely in that direction. The receipts of cotton in St. Louis this year from the section of country in question are less by more than half than in the year. But the business tide that flowed our way will now, because of the interruption to our navigation, change. Cotton afloat starts to St. Louis, and her merchants will return its equivalent in their wares. We should not relax our efforts for the improvement of Red river because we are soon to have railway connection with Shreveport. There are large sections of the Red river valley that, because of their remoteness from the railway, must always depend upon the river. To-day I received information of the loss by sinking of another boat (the Cornie Brandon, just off the docks,) in Red river. The frequency of disasters show the urgent necessity for having the river improved with as little delay as possible. Very respectfully, JOSEPH A. AIKEN.

Personal.
Our friend C. L. WALMSLEY, Esq., and his son H. A. WALMSLEY, of the firm of C. L. WALMSLEY & SON, returned from New Orleans last Saturday.

NATHAN MYER, our genial and whole-souled young citizen, who is the lightning St. Louis drummer of these woods, returned home from a six weeks tour on Monday and will remain for the circus.

Rev. JACOB KILE was on our streets on Monday. He reports corn crops in his section excellent, but cotton short on account of the rains.

R. L. TANNEHILL, Esq., Sheriff of Winn parish, dropped in on the Vindicator on Monday last and added to the pleasure of the visit by subscribing to the best country paper in the South.

Our friend ALEX. BOMPATRIC visited our sanctum on Tuesday last, and impressed us with the pleasurable assurance that the VINDICATOR had warm friends, and many of them, in his section.

E. E. HAMMETT, Esq., of Ward 3, informs us that the cotton crop of his section will average about two-thirds of a fair yield, with an abundance of corn.

Our genial police juryman ABE DOWDER, of Ward 8, was in town last Wednesday.

J. B. PARKER, Esq., of Ward 6, was a pleasant visitor to the VINDICATOR office Wednesday week and renewed his subscription to the best country weekly in the South.

Mr. PETER L. CAMPBELL, an old friend whom we have not had the pleasure of meeting in a long time, dropped in upon us Wednesday last and informed us of very fair crops of cotton in his section and plenty of corn.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.—Harris' Hotel.—G. W. Morrison, Jas. Madison; Clem Davis, Sam Washister, Cirtus Gody, William Anderson, of Thornton's Show; Alfred Stoddard, Pleasant Hill; B. Burgeer, St. Louis; R. A. Forber, Fort Jessup.

Go to Haller's and inspect his Coal Oil Stoves.

Married.

PRUDHOMME—GRIFFIN.—At the residence of the bride's father, in Cloutierville, La., on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 19, 1890, Mr. J. ALEX. PRUDHOMME to Miss M. BLANCHE GRIFFIN. To our handsome young friends we wish a long and prosperous voyage o'er life's sea, and a happy landing at last on Eternity's golden shore.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS!

Served in Every Style.

THE undersigned begs leave to inform his friends and the citizens generally that he will open an Oyster Saloon (to-morrow) on St. Denis street, opposite the Vindicator Office, where he proposes to serve all with fresh and fat Oysters, according to their taste. He will make every effort to please, and hopes to receive a fair share of patronage. EDGAR FONTENOT.

Special Notice.

The Jury commission having failed to draw a jury in time for the December term, and the public interest requiring a jury term for the trial of both civil and criminal cases, as well as the impeachment of a Grand Jury. It is ordered that a special Jury Term of the 11th Judicial District Court in and for the Parish of Natchitoches, be called and held, commencing on the First Monday of December, 1890; and the Jury Commission composed of the Clerk of the District Court, Joseph Henry, J. Alphonse Prudhomme, Charles A. Bullard and James E. Keegan is hereby required forthwith to draw, and the Sheriff to summon a jury to attend upon the Court, according to law. And the Clerk of said Court is hereby directed to give public notice hereof according to Sec. 1932 of the Revised Statutes. Ordered this 26th October, 1890. (Signed) D. PIERSON, Dist. Judge, 11th Dist. of La.

I certify the above to be a true and correct copy of the original order filed and recorded in my office.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and official seal, this 30th [L.S.] day of Oct. 1890.

FOR SALE.

A certain tract or parcel of land, situated in the parish of Natchitoches, on the right bank of Cane river, above the town of Cloutierville, on the opposite side of the river, containing 127 arpents, more or less, bounded by lands of Ambrose Lecoute, above, and below by land of Luc Porche, and with a front on Cane River.

Another tract of land in same parish, containing 70 acres, and being the lower half the west half with east quarter and east fractional half of the north west fractional quarter of section 26, township seven north, range five west, containing in all 140 acres, as per Patent 11576, and being the same tract of land derived from Jas. B. Contry.

The V. J. RACHAL plantation, containing a hundred and sixty-six acres, good dwelling of five rooms, stables and corn cribs.

A tract adjoining the above, containing 66 acres, with buildings, dwelling house, gin house, large corn crib, over-seers house, three negro cabins and other buildings.

The DAY place, containing about a hundred acres or more, with all the buildings on same.

The WALLACE plantation, Cain river fronting both sides, and containing about 1400 acres, with all necessary buildings, etc.

LAKE JERICO plantation, about 4 miles from Natchitoches, containing about 1000 acres, with dwelling, gin house, stables and cabins.

The above property is valuable and will be more so, as there is now no doubt about the Railroad being completed. Will be sold on very reasonable terms, say 1/3 to 1/4 cash, balance in one, two, three and four years, with 8 per cent interest. Mr. Landry Charleville, at Cloutierville, will give full particulars of the land, and also Mr. John C. Trichel, at Natchitoches.
