THE PARADE.

The parade of the various tradeslone, which preceded the pic-nic at the proton-Grounds, was a highly creditaaffair. It attracted the admiration and night.

As the Carpenters Union passed the Dis-patch building, they gave a cheer, and the Typographical Union conferred a similar compliment upon all the Richmond papers.

THE SECUNDS.

The procession reached the ExpositionGrounds about noon and entered by the Broad-street gate, and marching to the open space beyond the old main building, disbanded. Then each individual sought accusate ment and recreation and a veritable "pic-nic" followed, in which the men were not the sole participants, for the wives and sweethearts of the sons of toil had by this time reached the grounds, home sought anuscement at the shootinggallery, others clustered around the everpresent fakir with the rings and cames, while the majority were attracted by the music and were soon whirling in the mazy wallz.

The day passed of with perfect harmony, every one thoroughly enjoying firmself. In the afternoon there was a match game of tall between a picked nine and the nine of the Iron-Moulders' Union, and though but three maines were played the game was nighty interesting. The score resulted 11 to 6 in favor of the picked nine.

GREUTINGS FROM NORFOLK. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon Chief-Marshal Doberty received the following telegram from Norfolk, where Labor-day was likewise being colebrated:
The organized labor of Norfolk sends greetings to brother wage-workers and with them success in their first celebration of Labor-day. "Saying D. How.

Immediately following the Typographical Union in the parade was a carriage containing four of the oldest and most respected members of the craft—Mossrs. John H. Baptist, Charles Ellis, R. D. Grantland, and Vincent Goodson. Mr. R. L. B. East was also expected to ride with these guitlemen, but has been confined to his hone for some weeks past by sickness, which provented his being present, though he had looked forward to the occasion with bright anticipation. In order that our readers may form some idea of these veterans of the "stick and rule" a short biography of each is appended: biography of each is appended:

Mr. R. D. Grantland, who is known to every member of the craft in this city as "Uncle Dick," is sixty-eight years old. He first began his career as a disciple of Faust and Guttenberg in the office of John S. Gallaher, Sr., in this city. This establishment was subsequently purchased by Messrs, Cowardin & Davis, with whom "Uncle Dick" finished his apprenticeship. He was afterward employed in the office of Shepherd & Pollard, the State's printers, for about five years; then on the Times and Compiler for three or four years as assistant foreman. About the year 1850 he became an attache of the composing-room of the Dispatch, where he has remained, with a brief interval, to the present time. He is still lively, and promises to outlive some of the "boys." Mr. R. D. Grantland, who is known to

Mr. Ellis has served several terms as president of Richmond Union, and represented his union in two sessions of the International Union. He is a wise and safe counsellor and has the respect and confidence of every member of the craft

Mr. John H. Baptist was born in this city February 21, 1813, and consequently is in the seventy-eighth year of his age. He began his apprenticeship in the Compiler office Angust 1, 1827. In 1830 he went to work with Mr. T. W. White, and two years rater accepted a position with Mr. Samuel Shepherd, and continued with him until onest. Shepherd, and continued with him until his death in 1850. He then went to Nasiand ville, Tenn., where he remained until 1856, when he removed to St. Joseph, Mo., in the which city he lived until 1861. He then returned to his old home in Richmond. Two Old-Style Pictures. Mr. John J. Ganns, of this city, has recently had sent him from his old home in England two family pictures which in this day and generation may be regarded as curiosities. They were taken over forty years ago, when the photographic art was nothing to compare with what it now is, and are of the styles known as "black likenesses." One is of his father and the other of his mother, who died last spring. The impressions were made on a heavy pasteboard eard with something like black ink or an indelible pencil, and are remarkably well preserved. The gilding on the lady's dreas and hair is as bright as though it had just been applied.

Rejecting the petition of Warner Moore and associates for street privileges.

FINANCE REPORTS.

The Committee on Finance recommended the adoption of the resolution referred to them appropriating $4,000 to discount and interest; also the resolution appropriating $300 to the expense account of River-View Cemetery. Adopted.

The same committee recommended the appropriation of $750.05 to the expense account of the School Board to pay for taking the school census. Adopted.

When the ordinance granting permission to persons to erect frame buildings was read Mr. Courtney called attention to the fact that the house which Bettie Harris wanted to build at the corner of St. John and Coutts streets had already been partially constructed, and he moved that the privilege in this particular case be not granted. He said he had not heard any objection to this house, but he desired to see the Council enforce the law which prohibits persons from building frame houses until the Common Council and Board of Aldermen have granted permission. He wanted such persons to know that the privilege is not granted when the Fire Committee or its Chairman acts favorably upon the same. This communication, which is of interest

Adirondacks, where, with a party of Virginia people, he has been spending a part of his summer vacation.

Mr. Munford brings the good news that Honorable Basil B. Gordon, who is now a guest at Paul Smith's, on Lake St. Regis, has greatly improved in health since last spring, when, under the advice of his physician, he went to the Adirondacks.

Mr. Gord'h was the chairman of the Democractic State Committee in the last gubernatorial canvass, and directed the forces of the party in that great campaign which resulted in the complete overthrow of Mahone. The labors of that campaign in his then weak physicical condition proved too much for him; and so, after several attempts to discharge his duties as a State senator (to which position he had also been elected), he finally yielded to the advice of his physician and friends and sought rest and strength in the bracing atmosphere of the Adirondack mountains. It will probably be some time yet before Mr. Gordon can return home and resume his duties as a senator, but his present condition is such as to afferd his friends the assurance that his complete recovery can only be a matter of time.

The Dispatch knows of no announcement which will be more gratefully received by the people of Virginia than that of Mr. Gordon's improved health and the prospect of his complete recovery. The old Commonwealth has few more devoted sons, and there are few for whom her people entertain sincere sentiments of affection and regard.

The repairs to the dam over James river from the Danville shops, on the Manchester side, to Haxall's mills on the north side have just been completed.

This work was begun June 16th and completed August 29th. The dam has been so thoroughly repaired that it practically amounts to a new one. The work was done by Mr. B. T. Walton, an old and well-known resident, under the supervision of Engineer Isaacs.

Heretofore the dam has been in a very bad condition, and failed to fully perform the mission for which it was built, but now it is pronounced perfect.

This dam turns the current into the Manchester canal and gives the spiendid water-power which that city enjoys.

FOLK ATTACKS VANCE. He Claims Vance Is In Conflict with the Democratic Platform on the National Bank Question.

Correspondence of the Richmond Mapatch.1 RALEIGH, N. C., September I, 1839.

The Propressive Farmer is the official organ of the Farmer's Alliance in North Carolina as well as in Virginia. In its issue of tomorrow there will be an editoral written by Colonel Polk, which is sure to cause a great sensation. It is a demand that Senator Vance "show his position" on the alliance question. Last May the Senator, in his reply to an inquiry by Secretary Biddingfield of the State Alliance, relative to his position as to the abeliation of the national banks, said:

"To Inquiry I, I answer that I am not in favor of the abeliation of national banks and the issue of legal tender notes in place of their notes, in the present state of our financial policy."

THE DEMOCRATIC FLATFORM.

THE DEMOCRATIC FLATFORM.

The North Carolina Democratic Convention, held in Raleigh, August 20th, adopted as a part of its platform, the following:

Essoived, frather. That we favor the abolition of national banks, and the substitution of legal-tender treasury notes in lieu of national bank notes, issued in sufficient volume to do the business of the country on a cash system, regulating the amount needed on a per capita hasia as the business interests of the country expands, and that all money issued by the Government shall be legal tender in payment of all debts, both public and private.

A CONFLICT. THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

A CONFLICT.

The Progressive Former will say:

"The above shows a clean-cut conflict between the Democratic party of the State and Senator Vance—as clear and well-defined as it is possible for words to express it. But the great majority of the alliance men of the State are also deeply concerned as to this new and most important issue thus presented between the Senator and their order. This clause of the alliance platform endorsed by the Democratic convention, as every alliance man knows, has met the as every alliance man knows, has met the hearty and universal endorsement of the whole order throughout the United States.
They regard it as the most important, if possible, of all their demands. It strikes right at the heart and core of their troublesthe wicked and corrupt financial system of our Government. They will fight any and all men—my and all combinations—to relieve the country of this great iniquity.
They will never surrender their position on this say that we have reached the point now where pledges should be mutual and reciprocal. According to the dictum of the papers, a candidate must answer; How do you stand on Vance? Let us like men having rights ask: How does Vance stand on our principles? He has declared against the sub-Treasury bill and offers nothing in its place. He declares against us on the infamous system of national banks. Let the alliance call a half and take the bearing and learn where we are drifting. In this great struggle for the deliverance of the farmers from the house of bondage we must stand by and for our principles and trust only those who are true and loyal to those principles."
