

THE TRIAL OF GAUL

The Testimony in His Case Almost Gotten Through With Yesterday.

McNAMEE AGAIN ON THE STAND.

Says He Thought Atwell Had a Coupling Pin in His Hand—Evidence of Engineer Hankins.

Excellent progress was made yesterday in the trial of William T. Gaul, the alleged accomplice of Thomas N. McNamee in the murder of Robert Lee Atwell.

The Commonwealth finished its direct testimony, and the defense counsel in the case will go into cross-examination of the witness today.

At the attendance upon the trial yesterday morning was quite slim, such was not the case in the afternoon. The mother and sister of the accused and the lady with whom he boarded occupied seats near the prisoner.

At the close of the day was the evidence of McNamee and the long and rigid cross-examination that he underwent at the hands of the counsel for the prosecution.

THE CORONER'S STATEMENT. When court assembled Coroner Taylor was placed on the witness stand, and he again went over the result of the autopsy upon the body of Atwell.

The doctor explained the course taken by the bullet, and illustrated the attitude McNamee and Atwell must have borne toward each other when the shots were fired.

He referred to the slight abrasions upon the brow and nose of the deceased, which he said could have been produced by falling upon the ground.

He also mentioned the fact that the clothing worn by the deceased was not soiled to any extent.

He also mentioned the fact that the clothing worn by the deceased was not soiled to any extent.

HELD BY GAUL. The second witness to testify was William H. Hankins, who operated the electric light in the building where the shooting occurred.

He identified the prisoner as the man who called for Atwell, and said that he saw the defendant enter the building at about 10 o'clock.

He also mentioned the fact that the clothing worn by the deceased was not soiled to any extent.

HELPING THE NEEDY

The Richmond Industrial Home and What It Is Doing.

Sketch of the New Superintendent Captain T. Watkins Lindsay—List of Recent Contributions.

The Richmond Industrial Home, of which Hon. James Lyons is president, John F. Mayer, vice-president, Judge D. B. Clifford, Jr., Rev. P. H. Nugent, D. S. Morrison, C. E. Martin, Joseph H. Shepherd, Julius A. Hobson, Charles L. Winston, Charles H. Smith, Charles L. Brown, et al., are directors, was chartered in the Hastings Court the 31st of May last.

Its purposes are purely benevolent—namely, to provide an industrial home as a temporary refuge for the unemployed who are destitute and without friends and means of support, and to secure employment as soon as possible for all who are found worthy.

Since its institution homes have been provided for fifty-two males and two females. There are at present in the home fifteen persons, every day of whom are expecting means every day to be sent them to pay their way to places where they have obtained employment.

Everything is conducted on a business plan, the strictest economy is observed, and cleanliness is maintained.

THE NEW SUPERINTENDENT. The superintendent, Captain T. Watkins Lindsay, an excellent man and Christian gentleman, was born in Prince Edward county, Va., October 1, 1854, of Scotch and Irish ancestry.

He was educated at the common schools of his native county, and at the University of Virginia, where he graduated in 1878.

He served in the Confederate army, and was wounded at the battle of the Cowpens and at the battle of Gettysburg.

THE SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Mrs. Baker Is Doing Well and Her Nephew Will Not Be Prosecuted.

It transpires that the shooting of Mrs. Katie Baker by her nephew, Peter Jones, on the Exposition-Grounds Tuesday afternoon, was entirely accidental, and no action will be taken against the boy.

The boy, who is only 15 years of age, was in the act of shooting a target when he fired the shot which struck Mrs. Baker.

The boy's father, Mr. Jones, is a well-known resident of the city, and is a member of the Exposition-Grounds committee.

OLD CITY AND NEW.

Richmond of To-Day Contrasted With Twenty-Nine Years Ago.

Evidence on Every Hand Why the People of the Confederacy's Capital Should Be Grateful.

(Written for the Dispatch.) Twenty-nine years ago, situated on a narrow strip of land between the old and new Richmond, the old city was a place of desolation and ruin.

The old city was a place of desolation and ruin, and the new city was a place of progress and prosperity.
