Mr. Carlisle and What He Teaches.

Mr. Carlisle has made for himself in a short time a great reputation as a financier, or, in other words, as a statesman. He speaks as if the subject of the finances had been the study of his life.

Mr. Carlisle made a speech in Kentucky at the opening of the canvass there which increased his national reputation, as well as his local. In fact, he has made a number of speeches at different places in the country, and in them so ably argued the questions which he undertook to discuss that he may be said to be "ready to the first" of the sound-money partisans of the country.

In his Boston speech Mr. Carlisle maintained that there was no injustice in requiring payments to be made in the kind of money recognized by law at the date of the contract.

Mr. Carlisle was thinking of payments in gold by the government. The silverites will hold that if this doctrine is sound it is applicable to the payment of debts in silver, as well as in gold.

Mr. Carlisle also maintained that the laboring people of this country are receiving as high wages as they ever received at any period of our history, and that the money in which they are paid will purchase in the market more of the comforts of life than ever before.

The Norfolk Landmark says: "There is only one way to stop lynching, and that is to make the punishment for certain crimes certain and swift. The reason for the violation of the law is that its processes are often so slow and subject to so many appeals that an innocent and guilty community cannot wait for their completion."

The Legislature of Massachusetts appropriated $80,000 for roads at its last session. Under the system in vogue there the State undertakes the work, and a part of the cost is paid back by the county.

The Washington Post questioned the members of Congress as to how they stand upon the third-term question, and out of the answers from 100 of them seventeen have expressed themselves as not opposed to it—Lynchburg News.

Secretary Carlisle has declined to take part in the Kentucky campaign. No doubt he would like to help his friends out of the frightful scrape that they have gotten themselves into, but he finds that he cannot conscientiously endorse the course of General Hardin, and so believes that the best thing that he can do is to keep out of the fight.

There are rumors that something is being done with Cuba's captain-general—that Campos indeed, may be insane. It is possible that Macco, Gomez, and the rest of the fierce fighters for Cuba's freedom might give a different explanation.

They do say Mr. Teddy Roosevelt is being Tammany right much these days.

State and making free-silver speeches. Many good Democrats fear that not only will Hardin be defeated, but that the Democrats will lose the Legislature, which would mean a Republican United States Senator in the place of Mr. Blackburn. All of our trouble in Kentucky comes from the division of our party there on the currency question.

The Democratic speakers could not do better service to their party and the State than by carefully studying the "honest-elections" bill adopted by the Petersburg Mahone-Hobson conference, and exposing its true inwardness on the stump. An analysis of the bill must convince an intelligent man that its real purpose is to place the people under a Republican yoke, that they would not be able to shake off in years.

This is the internal evidence presented by the bill itself. But, aside from that, the Petersburg conference was a conference that did not confer. It was for the most part an assemblage of Republicans, sore-heads, and disappointed office-seekers, who did the dummy act, so far as deliberation was concerned, and adopted a cut-and-dried measure emanating from a source bitterly partisan, and thoroughly hostile to the Democratic party.

The difference between the ostensible object and the real object of the "honest-elections" movement is manifest, whether we simply recall the history of the Petersburg conference, or dissect the Republican offering for which that conference stands sponsor.

Mixed Situation in New York.

People who take any interest in New York politics must have been greatly troubled recently to understand what the Evening Post styles "the mixed situation." That paper throws light upon the subject as follows:

"The political situation in this city is probably the most 'mixed' ever seen. There is scarcely an element of it which is not subdivided one way or another. The Republicans are divided between Goo and Fusion. The Goo Goo are themselves divided, two of their clubs having formally refused to support the ticket, and a large element in the membership of other clubs declining to do the same thing. The Fusionists are scarcely more harmonious, especially the Republican wing of them. The Platt section is at war with the anti-Platt for bringing Warner Miller here to make a speech. The Tribune sustains Miller and charges Platt with treachery to a portion of the Republican ticket. The Germans are divided into two sections, one, under Ribber, going over to Tammany Hall, and the other, under all the most reputable leaders they ever had, supporting the Fusion ticket. Tammany itself is rent with dissensions and jealousies and hatreds, and has a ticket in the field which many of its members declare openly that they will not support. Circling around this general confusion appear Thurlow Wood's Barnes and a considerable host of other political thinkers of like calibre."

The voter must be hard to suit who cannot find in the above list of factions one which he can support.

Can any one explain why it is that our street-cars are not provided with "bridges" to enable them to cross those that are stretched upon the tracks whilst fires are in progress? It seems to us that a very simple bridge would suffice, and we have been told that our Fire Commissioners have offered to carry these bridges upon the engines and trucks, so that they would always be at hand when needed.

Justice White, of the United States Supreme Court, has taken to riding a bicycle. He is probably the heaviest member of the court, with the exception of Justice Gray and Justice Harlan. He is over 6 feet in height, broad-shouldered, and with a round, capacious girth. His weight is 220 pounds. His attire on his recent trips consisted of light trousers, fastened with clasps around his ankles, a negligee shirt, such as Mr. Reed wore three summers ago, and light yellow shoes. A soft slouch hat covered his head.

The Norfolk Landmark says: "There is only one way to stop lynching, and that is to make the punishment for certain crimes certain and swift. The reason for the violation of the law is that its processes are often so slow and subject to so many appeals that an innocent and guilty community cannot wait for their completion."

The Legislature of Massachusetts appropriated $80,000 for roads at its last session. Under the system in vogue there the State undertakes the work, and a part of the cost is paid back by the county.

No doubt he would like to help his friends out of the frightful scrape that they have gotten themselves into, but he finds that he cannot conscientiously endorse the course of General Hardin, and so believes that the best thing that he can do is to keep out of the fight.

They do say Mr. Teddy Roosevelt is being Tammany right much these days.

The Proposed Roush Museum.

Both the Lynchburg Advance and the Norfolk Virginian are antagonizing vigorously the suggestion that Washington, D. C., be selected as the site of the Confederate museum to which Mr. Charles Broadway Roush proposes, under certain conditions, contributing $100,000. And with equal vigor they maintain that the museum should be at Richmond, the former capital of the Confederacy.

The committee which the United Confederate Veterans at their reunion in Houston, Tex., authorized to be appointed to consider this whole matter will meet at Atlanta Saturday. At that meeting Richmond will, we think, be able to demonstrate that aside from the questions of sentiment and the eternal fitness of things—which ought in themselves to constitute a controlling influence—our city has made expenditures in the direction of the contemplated museum, which practically meet the conditions of Mr. Roush's proposition.

We hope for such a report from the committee to the meeting here in May next of the United Confederate Veterans as will result in the latter organization's deciding that the museum should be located here.

Worth Nothing.

That was a proposition that will attract attention which was introduced on Thursday into the House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in session in Minneapolis—we mean Mr. Malory's proposition for a new canon, making it the duty of every parish to provide a font of sufficient size to permit of the dipping or baptism of adults.

Of foreign cities of note the palm for healthiness lies between the cities of England and those of Switzerland. London's mortality-rate for April, May, and June was only 18.7, while Birmingham's was 18.6, Leeds' 17.4, Sheffield's 17.2, Bristol's 16.4, Nottingham's 15.2, Bradford's 15.1, Portsmouth's 14.4, etc. Crossing over to Switzerland, we find that the mortality-rate of Berne, the capital, was 19.5, of Basle 15.9, of Geneva 18.9, of Lausanne 15.3, of Zurich 15.7, etc.

Germany has also a number of cities with a small death-rate, such as Berlin, with 16.8; Stuttgart, with 17.7; Crefeld, with 13.7. But, on the other hand, a majority of its cities have large mortality-rates, as Munich, with 23.1; Breslau, with 28.3; Dusseldorf, with 22.2; Chemnitz, with 23.3; Stettin, with 29.5.

Paris during the three months had a mortality-rate of 29.3, Lyons 18.8; but in Lille the rate rose to 23.5, in Nantes to 22.1, in Havre to 26.8, in Rheims to 23, and in Nancy to 24.7.

But when we want dirt and death we have to go to Egypt, and in that direction Cairo has a death-rate of 45.2 per 1,000, Alexandria 36.2, Suez 42.6, Port Said 51.6.

The first sugar received in New Orleans from this season's grinding, and classified as prime yellow clarified, was sold Thursday at 4 5/8 cents a pound. The first sugar received last year was of a more grade, and sold for 3 3/4 cents a pound, showing an improvement of 9/16, or a little more than half a cent a pound, or 15 per cent, on 1894.

The Staunton Vindicator sizes up the "Honest Elections" bill, fathered by the Mahone-Hobson cut-and-dried conference, when it says that the measure puts the whip back into the hands of the Republican party.

The Bedford Democrat says the "honest-elections" movement is an old Republican trap rebaited. A happy hit, that.

The Time-Bell.

When day is spent, and I hear the bell toll my hour, And when I hear the time-bell toll my hour away, And wonder if when comes the morning light, I may still live and hear the time-bell toll my hour.

What Shall I Do?

In the earnest, almost agonizing cry of weak, tired, nervous women, and crowded, overworked, struggling men. Slight difficulties, ordinary cares, household work or daily labor, magnify themselves into seemingly impassable mountains. This is simply because the nerves are weak, the bodily organs debilitated, and they do not.

WILL BE A WHITE WEDDING.

Mrs. Vanderhill Completes Details of Marriage of Her Daughter.

Many of the details of the approaching marriage of Miss Consuelo Vanderhill to the Duke of Marlborough are now arranged. It is to be a white wedding throughout. Delicate white blossoms will be massed in the church of St. Thomas's church, Wednesday noon, November 6th. Big nosegays of orange blossoms, white roses and lilies of the valley, tied with white ribbons to form a wreath, will be placed in the new of the altar. One of the undecided points is whether the youthful bride shall simply be preceded by her bridesmaids, the Misses Marie Winthrop, Evelyn Hudson, Eliza Grosvenor, Daisy May Godee, Katherine Duer, and Evelyn Jay, or by them, with the ushers in advance. If the former is decided, the ushers will line the aisle, as is done in London sometimes. The gowns of both bride and bridesmaids are being furnished by the most fashionable mantuamakers in New York.

The bridesmaids are to be arrayed in white satin. This is to be of the most superb quality. The skirts will be in the latest flaring fashion, trimmed with the finest idea of white chiffon. The corset is to be of the new jacket style, with short, full skirts and large sleeves. With the white dress, the bridesmaids will wear lace. The jackets will be secured with large jeweled buttons.

Yesterday the lace curtains were put up on the drawing-room floor, and this, as well as the lower floor, is pretty well in order. The third and upper floors are being finished by Mrs. Vanderhill, who apparently regards Friday as her lucky day, will move from the Savoy Hotel, London, to her new home, with the future Duchess of Marlborough and others of her household. All the members of the British Embassy at Washington have received wedding-cards. Sir Julian Pauncefote and his family, and the Hon. Mrs. Pauncefote, are expected to be among the guests, and, though it is not yet certain, it is expected that Mr. Paget, Lord Westmoreland, H. O. Mack-Francis, and R. T. Wilson, Jr. will be of the list of ushers.

The S. and M. Loan.

The $200,000 loan effected to carry out the reorganization of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery railroad, in whose securities Baltimore investors are largely interested, has been paid off. The money was borrowed from the Baltimore Trust and Guarantee Company last May. It was employed in the payment of all obligations of the railroad company, in paying the callings of underlying securities, and the expenses of reorganization. Assessments paid in by subscribers to the issue of $100,000 of preferred bonds, provided for in the reorganization of the property as the Georgia and Alabama railroad, supplied the funds for paying off this loan. Two calls, amounting to 40 per cent, were made, and in some instances subscribers took advantage of the privilege to pay in a larger proportion, giving the new company a large surplus for carrying out the reorganization plan. These include the extension of the road from Lyons to Savannah, final surveys for which are now being made, and a number of betterments, embracing the lowering of grades and other works.

YOU ARE A WOMAN

and for that very reason you must suffer. Why should woman suffer from weakness, pains, bearing down sensations, loss of appetite, energy, despondency, and the thousand ills so common? It is all wrong. The Almighty never intended it to be so. Woman was created for happiness and joy, not for sickness and misery.

If You Stop to Think you will realize that there is one great cause for all these troubles, which is summed up in the word weakness. You will also admit, if you stop to think, that there is one great way by which it can all be avoided or cured. That way is by the use of the only one great known remedy for all such troubles, which is Warner's Safe Cure. Ask any physician, male or female, or professional nurse, any scientific man or woman of standing and research, any druggist who is worthy, and you will find that this is true. Why then, will women suffer when the best of modern and scientific relief is at hand?
