GALVESTON'S CALAMITY.

The magnitude of the calamity, which overtook Galveston, Tex., last Saturday, is hard to realize. We can get only a faint conception of it in hearing of the number of the dead and the aggregate loss of property.

No tragic dramatist nor gruesome artist could wish for a more calamitous scene to portray than that which has made Galveston's name chief among the hapless cities of this century.

The woods are certainly full of presidential timber. Some weeks ago we counted off eight or nine good citizens who were willing to spend four years at the White House, but since that time the list has gone up to a dozen, and we must reproduce it to keep things straight.

It will thus be seen that they have recently been coming in at the rate of two a day. Possibly by November there may be enough of these ambitious men to form a caucus.

Charles Richardson, prominent in Philadelphia financial circles, vice-president of the National Municipal League, an active member of the Civil-Service Reform Association, and hitherto a Republican on national issues, has come out for Bryan. Writing to "City and State," according to the Philadelphia North American, from which we quote, he says, with respect to the paramount issue now before the people:

"I think you have taken the right course in urging the people to vote for Bryan as the only means for making a clear and effective protest against the forcible subjugation of the Philippines. With your views and your known fidelity to conscience and principle, you have no other alternative."

The argument advanced to show that the Philippines will ultimately be a profitable investment to the United States seem to me to be unsound and deficient in a business-like grasp of the essential facts and conditions; but, were it otherwise, I should still feel that no gain of power or wealth could excuse or atone for a gross violation of the most vital and fundamental principles of republican government, and a cruel and wholly unnecessary war against a people struggling for independence."

Philadelphia is remarking that the destruction of the big grain elevators at Galveston, Sabine Pass, and Port Arthur will prove a serious check to the prominence which those cities have in late years assumed in the grain export business, and that that trade will probably be turned again to the North, but we are not so sure about it. There isn't anything the matter, we believe, with Newport News or New Orleans, for example.

A monument to Stephen C. Foster, the author of the song, "Old Folks at Home," was to be unveiled in Pittsburgh yesterday. It represents the composer writing, and seated at his feet, a ducky of the old school, picking a banjo and singing. Foster, it seems, was also the author of "Old Black Joe" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

was taken in on the night of the fistie contest, but Corbett and McCoy are said to have made vast sums by outside bets. Friends of the pugilists vigorously deny that there was any fraud in the fight, but at least one New York paper openly charges underhand tricks, and ably argues its point. But whether the recent fight, which was a fitting finale for the last hours of the notorious Horton law, was a genuine contest or not, the divorce proceedings instituted by Mesdames Corbett and McCoy reveal beyond the shadow of a doubt the brutality of their celebrated husbands. Both women were shamefully treated at times by their consorts, and the public shod at last abandon the idea—if it ever had it—that any prize fighter can be a gentleman. For our part we rather hope the statements of the injured wives are true. Pugilism needs a black eye, and it cannot get more easily than by having it shown that some of the most prominent men in the "profession" have been guilty of acts of downright dishonesty.

THE LEES AS ORATORS. The Dispatch correspondent at Louisa Courthouse, after hearing the speech made by R. E. Lee, Jr., on Monday, says: "Lee is a good stumpster."

This is a son of General W. H. F. ("Rooney") Lee, and a nephew of General Custis Lee, and also of "Young Bob," the immortal General R. E. Lee's son, of the same initials. Oratory is by no means rare in the Lee family. It was a Lee, the father of the great General (and himself a military officer of renown), who, as the eulogist of Washington, termed him "the first in war, the first in peace, and the first in the hearts of his countrymen." Later on another Lee, and another cavalryman—Fitzhugh Lee—distinguished himself as a speaker; as a stumpster particularly. In the campaign which Fitz Lee made and won for the gubernatorial office in 1885, he "surprised the natives" by his gifts of speech, and earned a reputation he has ever since maintained. Whether his young cousin may hope to equal him or not, we cannot say; but, at any rate, we hope to hear him in Richmond during the pending campaign.

THOSE FLAGS. Please inform your readers by what authority the flags are nailed on the electric-light poles in the city and strung across on business streets. Have you owners of these poles and wire the right to use for billboards and advertising purposes their poles and wires? The flags now on our business streets are certainly no advertisement for our city.

A CITIZEN. We have felt like "speaking out in meeting" on this subject for several days. We suspect that the privilege in question was thoughtlessly granted without due reference to the terms of the company's franchise. But, if that sort of thing is to pass unchallenged, where will it end? Certainly, such advertising methods do not tend to beautify the city, or to give it anything of a metropolitan appearance. We hope that the example set in this case will hereafter be more honored in the breach than in the observance.

The woods are certainly full of presidential timber. Some weeks ago we counted off eight or nine good citizens who were willing to spend four years at the White House, but since that time the list has gone up to a dozen, and we must reproduce it to keep things straight. Observe the following and the dates of their nomination:

Socialist Labor; January 27th; Job F. Harrison, of California. Sons of Democracy; March 6th; Eugene V. Debs, of Indiana. United Christian; May 1st; Rev. S. C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania. People's party; May 9th; William J. Bryan, of Nebraska. Middle of the Road; May 9th; Wharton Barker, of Pennsylvania. Republican; June 19th; William McKinley, of Ohio. Prohibition; June 28th; John G. Woolley, of Nebraska. Democratic; July 4th; William J. Bryan, of Nebraska. National party; September 5th; Donelson Caffery. Union Reform party; September 5th; Seth Ellis.

It will thus be seen that they have recently been coming in at the rate of two a day. Possibly by November there may be enough of these ambitious men to form a caucus. At any rate, it seems that the Chicago Times Herald, when speaking of the voters, is justified in using the following language: "He has an opportunity to gratify every possible political whim or caprice. He can easily accommodate any political crank notion that may have taken possession of his mental faculties. Such a bargain-counter array of presidential offerings was never presented in any national campaign in the history of the country."

Charles Richardson, prominent in Philadelphia financial circles, vice-president of the National Municipal League, an active member of the Civil-Service Reform Association, and hitherto a Republican on national issues, has come out for Bryan. Writing to "City and State," according to the Philadelphia North American, from which we quote, he says, with respect to the paramount issue now before the people:

"I think you have taken the right course in urging the people to vote for Bryan as the only means for making a clear and effective protest against the forcible subjugation of the Philippines. With your views and your known fidelity to conscience and principle, you have no other alternative."

The argument advanced to show that the Philippines will ultimately be a profitable investment to the United States seem to me to be unsound and deficient in a business-like grasp of the essential facts and conditions; but, were it otherwise, I should still feel that no gain of power or wealth could excuse or atone for a gross violation of the most vital and fundamental principles of republican government, and a cruel and wholly unnecessary war against a people struggling for independence."

Philadelphia is remarking that the destruction of the big grain elevators at Galveston, Sabine Pass, and Port Arthur will prove a serious check to the prominence which those cities have in late years assumed in the grain export business, and that that trade will probably be turned again to the North, but we are not so sure about it. There isn't anything the matter, we believe, with Newport News or New Orleans, for example.

DEATH OF DR. HARRISON. The death of Dr. Benjamin Harrison, surgeon of the penitentiary, occurred at the residence of his sister, in Clarke county, night before last. He went away from here a few weeks ago burning with fever, and well night convinced that he would never recover. He had exhausted his vitality in constant and laborious work in the discharge of his official duties, and though he had been wonderfully successful in keeping typhoid fever out of the prison, somehow he was one of the few who contracted it. That seems a strange thing! However, he did not lodge or take his meals in the prison, and he had some private practice in the city, so in searching for the source of his disease it probably would be proper to look for it elsewhere than in the penitentiary. There the inmates live a most unsanitary life (according to the present acceptance of that term), and they have no water to drink but James-river water, and that without ice, yet the prison population has been singularly fortunate with respect to typhoid fever.

Dr. Harrison was a man of sterling character and of much skill in his profession. He was very attentive to and painstaking in the discharge of his responsible duties, and the health of the convicts was remarkably well preserved under his administration. He was sympathetic, too, and though little given to fine speeches, he was a real friend of every prisoner who honestly tried to reform. The penitentiary probably never had a better surgeon than he was; one more conscientious in the execution of his trust, or more capable in the line of his profession, or more sincerely desirous to be helpful to well-behaved convicts. His death follows hard upon that of Assistant-Superintendent W. T. White, whose yoke-fellow he was, so to speak, in carrying burdens of official responsibility, and that, too, often under most exasperating circumstances.

William J. Bryan declines to discuss President McKinley's letter of acceptance, but Chairman Jones is quoted on the subject as follows: "We were advised a few days ago by the Republican press that the forthcoming letter of acceptance would produce a sensation. After reading it I was more struck with the absence of anything sensational than I was with any other feature of the letter."

"There's nothing in it. The President seems to shrink from an avowal of his imperialistic policy, while manifesting a great anxiety to explain and apologize for whatever has been done. The crucial points he doesn't touch."

That is a very fair description of the paper. It is an explanation and an apology, and scarcely anything more. It will have no influence on the intelligent voter.

COL. TONCARY DISSATISFIED. Politics Discussed in and About Bristol—An Historical Celebration. BRISTOL, VA., September 11.—(Special.) Colonel Charles P. Toncary, whose name was dropped from the Republican Executive Committee in the recent compromise between the Evans and Brounlow factions, is not highly pleased with the compromise.

Colonel Toncary is an Evans man, and strongly opposed to Brounlow. He was here the latter part of last week, and spoke out his sentiments boldly. He said if he failed to find any other man who would make an independent race against Brounlow for Congress this fall, he would make the race himself. According to the vote in presidential years heretofore in the First Tennessee District, Brounlow might lose 40,000 votes by an independent candidate, and still be elected. There is not much likelihood of his being defeated, although the Democrats of the district have nominated one of their strongest men—Colonel E. C. Reeves, of Johnson City to lose the race.

A HISTORICAL CELEBRATION. Preparations are being made for a celebration at Sycamore Shoals, Caster county, East Tennessee, which will be of general interest because of its historical significance. It will be the occasion of the 120th anniversary of the day on which Shelby, Sevier, and Campbell, with 800 Tennessee cavalrymen, left the Sycamore Shoals, on the Kings' Mountain, when the decisive fight of the war of the revolution was fought.

The natives are preparing to entertain the visitors with a big barbecue. It is expected that many of the descendants of the heroes of Kings' Mountain, from all over the State, will be in attendance. The Sycamore Shoals are within eight miles of Johnson City, Tenn., and on the line of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina railway.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS. Prominent among the speakers who are billed to participate in the celebration are Hon. Bob Taylor, ex-Governor of Tennessee, and his brother-in-law, both of whom were at the Shoals, and Dr. David Sullins, the veteran educator, who is at the head of Centenary College, Cleveland, Tenn.

Historically considered, no occasion is so fitting to inspire the patriotism of the people as the struggle of the revolution than this. The picturesque Watauga Valley, with its crystal rivers and its gorgeous mountain environments, is so endowed by nature as to foster sublime patriotism and love of country. It is upon the minds and hearts of that gallant band that rode up the mountains to one of the grandest and most far-reaching victories in the history of civil liberty.

DR. A. F. OSBORN DEAD. Was a Prosperous Lawrenceville Druggist—J. P. Keen Arrested. LAWRENCEVILLE, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—Dr. A. F. Osborn, a prosperous and well-known druggist of Lawrenceville, died Saturday morning. He was born in North Carolina in the year 1823, and about thirty-three years ago moved to this town and opened a drug store. Twice during his residence here fire destroyed his store, and in each instance the pecuniary loss was heavy, as there was no insurance on the stock or property. But by a strict attention to his business it grew and prospered, and he died, leaving a family in most comfortable circumstances.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church, of which he was a devout and conspicuous member. GONE AWAY. Sheriff T. T. Webb left Monday for New York City, where he has gone for J. P. Keen, who is held there on the charge of embezzlement. Keen, who for some time has been depot agent at Charles House station in this county, and who is the fatherly manager of the company for the month of August, and after disposing of what freight in the depot he could left for New York City, where he was arrested Saturday night, and was brought here by Sheriff Turnbull and tried at the September term of the County Court.

Sheriff Turnbull and tried at the September term of the County Court. Mr. J. R. Rawlings, Clerk of the County Court, is critically ill. His physicians pronounce his case hopeless. The first bale of cotton was sold here Saturday. The cotton was raised by Mr. J. W. Wren and bought by Messrs. Peebles & Purdy at $8.50.

HANOVER TROOP'S REUNION. A Splendid Brunswick Stew—The Officers Elected. ASHLAND, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—The annual reunion of the Hanover Troop Association was held to-day at Ashland Park. Arrangements were made for the Brunswick stew by Mr. Luther R. Vaughan. Old Tobe Jackson, the colored veteran, officiated at the open fire, and his stew was pronounced very fine. Speeches were made by Churchill Cook, of King William; Captain John Lamb, and H. G. Buchanan, Esq. The officers elected are Churchill Cook, commander; Walter W. Winstead, T. F. Taylor, John J. Terry, Lieutenants, and Jesse A. Brown, secretary and treasurer.

Since the last meeting John L. Talley, J. H. Timberlake, E. G. Nuckolls, and A. C. Stone have died. Twenty-one members answered roll-call to-day.

Democratic Club Organized. (Correspondence of the Dispatch.) YANCEY MILLS, VA., September 10.—Pursuant to a call for a meeting of the Democratic voters of Hillsboro' Precinct, Albemarle county, on Saturday evening, September 8th, a large crowd assembled and organized the Democratic Club, and Hay Club, with W. P. Leake as president, and John W. Apperson secretary.

HAPPENINGS IN WOODSTOCK. S. D. Hawkins' House Destroyed by Fire—Personals. WOODSTOCK, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—Miss Margie Shumate, of Georgia, and Miss Sallie Shumate, of near Leesburg, are visiting Miss Ethel E. Stickle, at "Stickle Hall," in this place.

King Arthur Lodge, K. of P., of this place, will celebrate its ninth anniversary at its formation in Castle Hall on Friday evening. The program will be made up of speech-making. Past-Grand-Chancellor M. L. Walton will be one of the orators. King Arthur's is by far the largest and most influential secret lodge in this county.

Mr. N. M. Rhodes, chairman of the "Rhodes" Democrats, of this county, is quite ill at his home, at Saunsville. Mr. John Bayse, a well-known citizen, who lived near Orkney Springs, this county, aged 50 years, died on Friday night, after a brief illness with typhoid fever. It seems that the unoccupied dwelling of Mr. S. D. Hawkins, near Toms Brook, which was burned Sunday morning, first caught fire before midnight, and was destroyed by the flames. The building was watched closely for nearly three hours, after which the watchers left to retire. In a few minutes the building was afire a second time, and the flames gained such headway that they could not be controlled. It is thought that the building was fired both times.

J. W. CRUTE'S HOUSE BURNED. A Serious Fire in Cumberland—Runaway Accident in Farmville. FARMVILLE, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—Mr. J. W. Crute's country home, located in the county of Cumberland, ten miles north of Farmville, was destroyed this morning by fire. Mr. Crute was away from home, and Mrs. Crute only awoke in time to arouse her son and daughter, all of whom made good their escape. Nothing was saved, and the insurance is only $500. The house was a new and valuable one. Mr. Crute seems to have been pursued by fire, having lost in the recent past three dwellings and five barns.

An exciting race occurred on our street this afternoon. A horse, hitched to the carriage of Mr. W. A. Barrow, took fright at the dropping off of a wheel of the vehicle, and dashed away at full speed. In turning the corner of a street the carriage was upset, and the daughters of Mr. Barrow and a little granddaughter—were thrown to the ground. Strange to say their injuries are slight.

Atlanta & West Point R. R. Earnings. ATLANTA, GA., September 11.—The stockholders of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company met here to-day. The report of the president and directors shows for the year ended August 30, 1900: Gross earnings, $702,412.46; operating expenses, $394,676.33; taxes, $1,659.46; net earnings, $305,076.67; other income, $12,620.90. Owings to favorable traffic conditions, and activity in all commercial lines, the receipts of the year, both passenger and freight, were the largest in the history of the company.

May Be Grateful to Bradley Johnson (Norfolk Ledger). General Bradley T. Johnson says it is his proposition that some of the former prominent Virginians be selected as members of the coming Constitutional Convention. He says "made more to suggest the importance of the Constitution than with any view of its being accepted by any rural constituency upon which we would remark that it has the effect he intended, and stirs the people of the State to the importance of sending to the convention the very ablest and purest men available."

Miss Quisenberry to Wed. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Quisenberry have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Leah, to the Rev. James David Gwatney, the ceremony will take place on Wednesday evening, September 26th, at 1:30 o'clock, at the home of the parents of the bride, No. 1000 east Clay street. The future home of the prospective bride and bridegroom will be Louisville, Ky.

Rare Philippine Jewels. The great corals in the world are to be found in the Philippines, and have now become American property. As precious as this jewel is, there is still a rarer one, and that is the pearl. It can only be possessed by any one, who will keep the digestion active and the bowels regular with Hostetter's Stomach and Bowel Remedy, for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, belching, heartburn, and sleeplessness. Try it.

He Owes His Life to the Forethought of a Companion. While on a camping trip in Webster county, Mr. S. I. Stump, of Norman-town, Va., had a severe attack of cholera. He says: "I firmly believe that I owe my life to the forethought of the companion, who had taken along a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Moral:—Procure a bottle of this remedy before leaving home. It can be obtained at drug stores, or sent by mail to the publisher, T. A. Miller, 519 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va. Price, 25 cents."

No. 4, A PERFECT MOUTH-WASH. A large bottle, small price. 25 cents. T. A. MILLER, 519 East Broad Street, (Ss, Sun & W)

CHAIRMAN ELLYSON'S DECISION. The Newport News Controversy—Case of William O'Boyle. NEWPORT NEWS, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—State-Chairman J. Taylor Elyson and the members of the District Democratic Committee, to whom was left the question as to which faction is right in ordering the election of a new City Democratic Executive Committee, have rendered a decision in favor of the re-organization forces. The City Committee, who swear that this verdict, notwithstanding that it is a victory for the other side, Ward meetings will be held here on the 19th to elect a new committee.

A TROPHY SHOOT. The Chesapeake Gun Club will, on October 9th, give a trophy shoot here, which will be participated in by gun clubs from Baltimore, Washington, Norfolk, Portsmouth and other cities. Colonel J. C. Baker, of this city, has just been named as one of the vice officers in the National Association of Spanish-American War Veterans. In a few weeks he will must in the local camp now forming.

CASE OF WILLIAM O'BOYLE. The case of William O'Boyle, the convicted murderer of his mistress, will be finally disposed of this week, as far as the motions for a new trial is concerned. Attorney Ruth, for the defence, expects who swear that they heard one of the jurors, before the trial, state publicly that it would not do for the authorities to put him on the O'Boyle jury, as he would hang the prisoner on general principles. On this ground Mr. Ruth expects to secure a new trial for the prisoner.

MRS. SCHRIVER CONVICTED. Mrs. Jennie Schriver, who came here some months ago, and was recently convicted of conducting a disorderly house on the principal business thoroughfare, appealed her case, secured bond, and "skipped" her way to-day in her absence by a Corporation Court jury, and fined $200 and costs, besides being given a jail term of twelve months. The police will make every effort to ascertain her whereabouts and bring her back to stand her punishment.

What This Tribunal Did Yesterday—Cases Continued. STAUNTON, VA., September 11.—(Special.)—The business in the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, at Staunton, to-day was as follows: By consent of counsel the case of Campbell against the Eastern Building and Loan Association, from the Circuit Court of Frederick county, was removed to Richmond.

The case of Reeves Catt, receiver, and others against W. L. Olivier and others, from the Hustings Court of the city of Staunton, was argued and submitted. Argued on behalf of the appellants by A. C. Braxton and on behalf of the appellees by Thomas Ranson. The case of Lasky vs. Pittman's Administrator, from the Circuit Court of Shenandoah county, was continued until the next term, the parties not having perfected the record before this court.

The case of Lovett's Administrator against Emma M. Perry, from the Circuit Court of Clarke county, was argued in part and continued till to-morrow morning for a further hearing.
