PISTOL IN BRISTOL.

Jealousy Leads to Shooting—Outwitted Them.
BRISTOL, TENN., January 17.—(Special.)—Samuel Lamson, a furnace employee, fired five shots at William Kestner, in West Bristol this morning, only one of which took effect. Both men are said to have been drinking, but the cause of the shooting was Lamson's jealousy. Kestner had been on intimate terms with Lamson's wife, it is alleged, and was found in her company when the shooting occurred. Mr. Kestner had not been arrested. Kestner is not fatally wounded, the ball having struck him on the head and glanced off, cutting a flesh wound to the skull.

Frank Brownlow and Miss Anna M. McPherson, a popular young couple of Abingdon, Va., came to Bristol early this morning, and were married by Rev. A. H. Burroughs, the noted marrying parson. There was a determined effort on the part of the young lady's parents to prevent the marriage, and Mrs. Mears, the bride's sister, came to Bristol last night and joined the bride in an effort to intercept the couple. Mr. Brownlow and his groomsmen were to be shot for their efforts, and instead of going to the Mecca, went to the home of a friend, where the marriage occurred. The groom is a nephew of Congressman Brownlow of Tennessee.

A marriage ceremony was performed here this afternoon, in which not a word was spoken. Mr. Basil Duke Scott and Miss Mollie D. Pendleton were the contracting parties, and Rev. Job Turner, of Staunton, Va., was the officiating minister. All are deaf mutes. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Ira N. Pendleton, a wealthy citizen here, and the bridegroom is a prosperous farmer residing in the mountains of Kentucky. The couple received many handsome presents.

AT MARRIAGE ALTAR A BEAUTIFUL CHURCH WEDDING IN SUFFOLK.

THE TABB-SAUNDERS NUPHTALS.
Elaborate and Artistic Decorations—Flowers and Brilliant Lights—An Impressive Ceremony—The Attendance—Other Virginia Weddings.

SUFFOLK, VA., January 17.—(Special.) This afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, in the presence of a vast audience, the Suffolk Christian church, was the scene of one of the most elegant marriages ever witnessed within its sacred precincts. The pulpit platform was exquisitely decorated with large and handsome palms and ferns, while smaller palms on pedestals were arranged in different parts of the auditorium. In front of the platform was a beautiful arch of evergreens, from the centre of which was suspended a true lover's knot of white roses and carnations. The church was brilliantly lighted with electricity, and the scene was one of rare beauty.

The high contracting parties were Mr. George Augustine Tabb, of Portsmouth, and Miss Mary Christian Saunders, daughter of Mrs. Diana Ophelia and the late Major James R. Saunders, of Norfolk, field butt, of Portsmouth, was best man, and Miss Diana J. Tabb, a sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. The ushers were as follows: Dr. A. L. Billorey, Mr. Harry C. Crink, Mr. H. A. Totty, of Portsmouth, and Messrs. Frank A. Holliday, R. J. Norfleet, and E. L. Woodward, of Suffolk.

The wedding party, headed by the organist, rendered a selection from Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bridal party entered in the following order: Two of the ushers, singly, down the two main aisles, and the other four ushers, in pairs; the bridegroom, escorted by his best man, entered through the east door, and proceeded to the altar, where he met the bride, who came in through the west door, and the two, hand in hand, descended the aisle, and down the first of the principal aisles, leaning on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. Hersey Woodward, who gave her away.

As the bride and bridegroom stood beneath the floral lovers' knot, with their attendants in semicircle around them, Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., conducted the solemn ceremony, the desired amount of wine and water being poured into the chalice, while Professor Miller played in low, sweet tones an andante, by Edwin M. Lott.

The bride's regal-looking in a tailor-made travelling dress of blue broadcloth, with hat to match, and gray gloves, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The maid of honor was very attractive in a white organza, with white lace and diamonds, and carried La France roses.

Upon the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Tabb, accompanied by their attendants, were driven to Norfolk, and Western depot, where the happy couple boarded the "Ocean-Shore Limited" train for Richmond, whence they will extend their bridal trip to St. Augustine, Fla., and other points in Florida.

More than a hundred beautiful presents were received by the bride, embracing a large variety of very valuable and useful articles. The bride is endowed with a charming personality, and is one of the most universally popular young ladies of Suffolk, where she has lived for many years.

The groom is a well-known and highly-honored citizen of Portsmouth, being the City Treasurer.

OLIVER-ULLER.
A Brilliant Marriage and a Reception.
ALEXANDRIA, VA., January 17.—(Special.)—Miss Annie Hough Uller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyergus Uller, and Mr. Alfred Herbert Oliver, of Atlanta, Ga., were married this evening at the residence of Mr. Uller, No. 308 South Washington street. The ceremony took place at 6:30 o'clock, and was performed by Rev. Father McGee, of Washington, and assisted by Rev. J. B. Smith, of St. Mary's Catholic church, in this city. The parlor was handsomely decorated for the ceremony. The green of holly was used as a background for the bright lights of a Christmas tree, and the marriage was beautiful and impressive.

In the place of a maid of honor, Mrs. Isaac Gregg, of Washington, was matron of honor, and Mr. George Cox, also of Washington, acted as best man. The bride was attired in Duchess satin and carried bride's roses. The matron of honor wore a gown of brocade chiffon over taffeta, and held a bouquet of golden gowns.

A reception was held at 9 o'clock, and Mrs. Uller was assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Lanahan Unduch, Mrs. William Lanahan, and Miss M. Jennings. Carriages were called for by Rev. J. B. THE HILL CITY.
Officers Elected—Held for Murder of Murray.
LYNCHBURG, VA., January 17.—(Special.)—At a meeting to-day of the Bon-sack Machine Company, officers were elected as follows: Thomas N. Davis, president; P. A. Krise, secretary and treasurer; A. H. Burroughs, and J. T. B. White, directors. A dividend of 3 per cent. was declared, payable May 1st. A similar dividend was paid on January 1, 1901. The report of the United Cigarette Company of London, of which the Bon-sack Machine Company is half owner, showed that over $100,000 of net profits had been earned for the year ending September 30, 1900.

The verdict in the Coroner's jury to-day held J. W. Lindsay, for the murder of John Murray, the painter who died on last Tuesday from what was supposed to be an injury inflicted by a fall from a door in the city. Mr. Lindsay was arrested for the crime, was discharged from custody. The evidence showed that the blow inflicted on Murray was inflicted with a piece of iron. Both Lindsay and Murray were under the influence of liquor at the time of the tragedy.

CLAY-WARD DIVISION.
History of the Movement Which Failed Four Years Ago.
Increasing interest is manifested in the meeting of the Clay Ward Actives to-morrow night, on account of the expected ward-division discussion.
In view of the agitation, it is interesting to recall the history of a movement which very nearly succeeded in bringing about a division of the ward four years ago.
Anderman Snead, who died last week, introduced a resolution providing for division of the ward, and this was referred to a special committee, two members of which were from Clay Ward—Mr. Snead and Mr. Blanks. Members of the Clay Ward delegation, upon invitation, addressed the committee.

A motion was adopted, making the dividing line between Monroe and Clay wards down Adams to Byrd street, thence along Byrd to First, and thence southwardly to the corporate limits. The effect of this was to throw a part of Monroe into Clay.
Immediately thereafter, the committee adopted a resolution, dividing Clay Ward into two wards by a line up Laurel street north to Broad, thence east to Gilmer, thence north to Leigh, and thence west to the city limits. The sub-division east of Laurel street was designated Clay Ward, and that to the west Lee Ward.
When the resolutions came before the lower branch of the Council they were adopted, but in the Board of Aldermen the proposition was defeated by the closest possible vote, those antagonizing it winning by a majority of one.
