

TWO RING ACCIDENTS

Excited Thousands of Spectators, But Were Not Serious.

THE LARGEST CROWD YET.

Enthusiasm Over the Horse Show Grows as It Approaches a Climax.

A STEEL STRUCTURE TO BE BUILT.

Authoritatively Stated That Question of an Annual Exhibition

Will be Provided—The Events Last Night Particularly Interesting.

It is said that there has never before been so many people in the Auditorium as in the great building last night to witness the third night's exhibition of the horse show.

The people, anticipating the rush which would be made for the cars, began to start for the show early, and long before a quarter past 8 o'clock—the time for the first event—there were thousands in the building, and they kept coming until after 9 o'clock.

The events of last night's programme were more enjoyed than any of the week. Everything moved with even more of the snap and precision which have characterized the events of previous nights.

There is but one desire on the part of the people who are attending the show. That is, that the exhibition be made permanent, and that Richmond be the city to have a horse show which will be patterned after this one, and which is certain, in the opinion of the knowing ones, to become in a few years the leading exhibition of the kind in the United States.

It was stated authoritatively last night that the owners of the Auditorium had agreed to demolish the present frame building and erect on the site a steel structure especially adapted to the uses to which it is now being put.

The boxes were occupied last night, as follows: No. 1—Mr. Sam Cohen and party of five; No. 2—Mr. E. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ruffin, Mr. and Mrs. Mann S. Quarles, and Miss Isabel Hill.

No. 3 and 4—Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Tallantfero; Mrs. F. C. Galt; Miss Helen James Daniels; Miss K. Fontaine; Mr. J. Potter Clark, Hazleton, Pa.; Mr. S. B. Peice, Hazleton, Pa.; Miss Maria Mosely; Miss Alex. Mosely; Miss Lou Atkins; Miss Lizzie Brainerd; Miss M. Drummond; Norfolk; Mr. Roger Walker, Mr. Lewis Brander, Mr. W. L. Zimmer, Jr., Petersburg, and Mr. S. J. Hurt, Jr., Petersburg.

THE PICTURE PRESENTS SOME OF THE PROMINENT SOCIETY WOMEN WHO ARE ABSORBED IN THE HORSE SHOW.

It is a most remarkable fact that there cannot be found one single order. It is the unanimous verdict that the show is the most thoroughly successful enterprise of the kind in which the city has ever engaged.

The Madison-Square Garden show is no sense superior to the Richmond show, save in the superiority of surroundings, said one of the best known horsemen in the State last night.

The Virginians from out of the city who were at the show last night were again a great feature. Some of the known names in the State were present.

A slight to inspire the most ardent horsemen to do as well as they did in the opening class. It was Class 5—horses in harness.

The military functions announced for yesterday had long been looked forward to and regarded as prime features of Carnival week.

SAMPSON TRIES AGAIN

Asks a Second Time for Representation Before Schley Court.

SAYS HIS HONOR IS ASSAILED

That Schley's Counsel Propose to Ruin His Reputation.

COURT AGAIN REFUSES CONSENT.

Says if at Any Time Defence of Sampson Should be Needed, That Officer Will be Notified—A Department Contention Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 10.—William H. Statten, the New York attorney who some time ago asked to be allowed to represent Rear-Admiral Sampson before the Schley Court of Inquiry, and whose request was denied by the court, to-day presented the following letter to the court:

"Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., October 10, 1901: "To Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N., President Naval Court of Inquiry, Washington, D. C.:

The Newport News contingent, and Company C, of the Seventy-first Regiment, presented a very soldierly appearance, and if their uniforms were not as ornate as those of some others in the line, the men themselves looked in very fine organization.

POISONING CASE.

State Chemist Dr. W. H. Taylor on the Stand.

SMITHFIELD, VA., October 10.—(Special.)—The trial of Mrs. Susan Sadler has been so far very poorly attended, the reason being that the people throughout the country are busy digging their peanuts.

Dr. Gault, the attendant physician, also saw her the night before she died. He considered her entirely out of danger, and for that reason did not go to see her again.

Dr. Eley, who performed the autopsy, was never called. He recited the way in which he performed the operation, emphasizing the fact of being particular to exclude all foreign matter from the stomach and intestines, which he sealed in glass jars.

Dr. Edwards testified that he received the sealed glass jars from Dr. Eley, and took them to Dr. William H. Taylor, at Richmond.

Dr. Taylor put through the Sprouts by Lawyers. NORFOLK, VA., October 10.—(Special.)—State-Chief Taylor, star witness in the murder trial of Mrs. Susan Sadler, at Isle of Wight, Va., was on the stand for several hours to-day.

He told of having examined the contents of the murdered woman's stomach which was found by the coroner's jury, and of having given a positive opinion that she had died of strychnine.

Dr. Taylor deduced from the symptoms described that it was very probable that the death was caused by strychnine, but could not make an absolutely positive declaration.

THE DOCTOR HELD HIS OWN. During the night examination, there were some nice exchanges of repartee between Mr. Holland and Dr. Taylor.

Dr. L. L. Ely told of the removal of the murdered woman's stomach, and of the way in which it was examined.

GAME WAS A BEAUTY.

Randolph-Macon Defeats Richmond College on the Gridiron.

BY CLOSE SCORE OF 6 TO 0.

Four Thousand Enthusiastic Spectators Watched the Contest.

VISITORS WON IN THE FIRST HALF.

Richmond Boys Braced Up in the Latter Half, But Without Avail.

How the Battle Waged—Grand Stand Scene of Great Enthusiasm.

Randolph-Macon, 6. Richmond College, 0.

In this brief is the story of yesterday's football game between the teams representing the two colleges. It was played at the Broad-Street Park in the presence of a crowd estimated at nearly 1,500 people.

The game was a clean, scientific exhibition of the great collegiate sport. The lighter team won on its merits through better team play and clever headwork.

Richmond rallied in the second half and played a strong game, but the goal of the Ashland boys was never seriously menaced.

While Randolph-Macon has the glory of victory, the Richmond College team has a snug nest-egg in the treasury, for the Ashland team played on a $5 guarantee, and all the rest of the receipts over and above expenses went to the home team.

The grandstand and bleachers presented a beautiful scene. It was a kaleidoscope of color, and a cauldron of enthusiasm.

The Richmond boys had the greater number of adherents, and their red and blue was everywhere in evidence, but the visitors were not without the encouragement of abundant applause and devoted admirers.

A great cluster of Ashland's beauty had come down to cheer the boys in the black and yellow sweaters. This levy of girls with Carnival caps upped with sweeping bows of their colors waved them vigorously, and added their shrill applause to the bass of the Randolph-Macon male contingent.

Alternately the grandstand was a fluttering mass of red and blue and of black and yellow.

CHERISHED THE HOME BOYS. While the visitors had more frequent occasion to vent their enthusiasm, the Richmond girls and boys had many opportunities to go wild, and they did not fail to avail themselves of every provocation.

Whenever the red and blue line held the agile visitors for no gain or hurried back their terrific rushes for a loss, Richmond enthusiasm knew no bounds.

Many of the Richmond girls carried pretty banners of the college colors, and others were profusely decorated with ribbons.

The only score of the game was made in the first half, in ten minutes of play. The Ashland boys captured the
