EIGHTEENTH WEEK OF THE COAL STRIKE.

Both Parties to the Controversy Say They Are Satisfied With the Situation.

WILKESBARRE, PA., September 6.—At the close of the seventeenth week of the miners' strike, both sides to the contest say that they are satisfied with the situation. The miners' strike has been in progress for a week since the strike began, and next week it promises to be still greater. The strikers, on the other hand, claim through their officers, that the efforts of the big companies to resume mining has been a signal failure, as they have been unable to get the miners to cut the coal.

THE TOBACCO CROP.

Virginia Will Produce 125,000,000 Pounds This Year. It was stated at the Tobacco Exchange yesterday that the tobacco crop was a splendid one, and that probably 125,000,000 or 150,000,000 pounds would be produced this year. About one-half of this is bright, or fine-cured tobacco, and the rest dark, heavy shipping tobacco. The prices this year will no doubt be good if the weed is cured properly. There is no old tobacco in the market, and there will continue to be dull times until the new crop comes in.

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD TO AID PROSECUTION Retained to Assist the Commonwealth's Attorney—Wyratt Again on Special Duty.

Mr. John Garland Pollard has been engaged to assist Commonwealth's Attorney Richardson in the prosecution of the gambling cases which will come before Justice Crutchfield on September 11th. Mr. Pollard was approached some time ago in connection with the matter, but only yesterday morning he was called to accept. He spent several hours yesterday at the City Hall in consultation with Commonwealth's Attorney Richardson, Chief of Police Howard, and Officer Wyratt. The evidence was carefully gone over and Mr. Pollard expressed the belief that the prosecution has a strong and excellent case.

It is not believed that there will be difficulty in the matter of securing willing and competent witnesses. The code of Virginia, which is broad and stringent in relation to gambling, provides that a person testifying in behalf of the Commonwealth in such cases is exempt from any prosecution for whatever part he may have played, and, furthermore, provide that a person refusing to testify may be fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

The statutes also debar the person prosecuted from testifying against any person who may appear against him. Complete satisfaction is manifested in the selection of Mr. Pollard to assist the prosecution. He is a member of the Constitutional Convention from this city and is regarded as one of the best-informed lawyers of the State. When called upon by a Dispatch reporter he said that he would be glad to study of the statutes covering the case in inquiry at the Second police station tonight developed the fact that Officer Wyratt had been on duty for special work and that he had not reported for patrol duty. The sergeant in charge was unable to give any information as to Wyratt whereabouts, but he said that he would be found by a Dispatch reporter last night.

STREET-CAR SMASHES WHEEL

Unavoidable Accident, No One Hurt and Damages Settled.

An accident, which was peculiar in itself, and remarkable that no one was hurt, occurred at the corner of Ninth and Main streets yesterday afternoon. Miss Holzheimer was driving up the street and had just reached the corner of Ninth when car No. 34, of the Passenger and Power Company, swung the curve, the rear wheel struck the front of the car, the wheel of the vehicle, smashing it to pieces.

The accident was the fault of neither the motorman nor conductor; in fact, it was due to the carelessness of the driver. No one was hurt, and the company readily paid the damages and the matter was dropped.

Mr. Harry Tucker, a well-known local newspaper man, has issued a small volume of vignettes, known as "The Man About Town." Mr. Tucker has a crisp, original style of his own, and his references to the familiar figures of Richmond add to the interest of his stories. For the most part, the book is humorous, but such sketches as the "War Story" show his capacity for serious work. The book is for sale at the news stands.

That Alexandria Clock. (Alexandria Gazette.) The New York Sun recently published a apocryphal history of the clock now in the steeple of the City Hall in Alexandria, and the same is now going the rounds of the newspapers. The substance of the story is to the effect that the clock in ante bellum days was the gift of a man who had lost $5,000 gambling, and who subsequently died in a madhouse, leaving his wife and five children. The clock was made by the late John B. Dingerfield. There are many interesting historical associations connected with Alexandria, and the Gazette's article cherished them, being one of its institutions, but we are forced to act the part of an iconoclast and smash the picture the Sun has painted.

Life as it is Lived. (Bristol Courier.) The fellow who is always asking riddles has been around again. He makes riddles and leaves a few hours lighter than when he makes a few lives lighter. This time he makes the statement that a certain brewing company has offered a large reward for the person bringing the greatest number of frogs. Then they sent him to the market to ask with so many frogs the jokes says, "I'll make beer," and somebody shouts "Kill make beer." He ought to be lynched. A man who will do a thing like that should not be allowed to do anything else.

Sam Jones to Reporters. (Baltimore Sun.) A prominent Baltimore physician tells the following anecdote about Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist: When several years ago, Mr. Jones was at Emory Grove camp, the newspaper reports of his sermons caused him to speak out every now and then in a way not at all pleasant to the reporters. Finally the last service of the camp service came, and after the sermon was over and the exercises were about to be closed Mr. Jones arose and made a farewell speech. He thanked the people for their attendance and courtesy, and for the association for its kindness to him, and looking down at the reporters, who sat at a table just in front of the pulpit, he said: "And I want to tell you fellows that I

England's Active Old Men. (St. James Gazette.) Dean Bradley, the oldest of the group of public men who have stepped down from their pedestals during the past few weeks, is 86, but many famous men in the church are older than he, and Lord Salisbury has a dozen years to live before he reaches the age at which Mr. Gladstone laid down the reins. Lord Halsbury is 77 next month, but he is still vigorous enough to be drawing one of the highest salaries in the Empire and presiding over the sittings of the House of Lords. Lord Roberts is 70, but nobody but Dame Rumor suggests that he is not active enough to command the British army, and Dame Rumor is likely to be a lying jade for some time longer. One finds much the same thing in the navy. Only one of the five admirals of the fleet is far off 70, and Sir Harry Keppel is the youngest of them all at 63—young enough to have paid a call the other day on the Sultan of Johore in his own name.

Got There by Mistake, But Enjoyed It Much. (Exchange.) I have just been sent to the hospital for twenty days. My physician did it. He did it with an analysis. Anybody who amounts to anything nowadays gets analyzed. I like it here very much. Sunday, I went to the theatre. To-day shows more casts, hbris, gelatin, and some zinc and copper. The chemist also discovers in me a little of an old tree and tore my pants in two places. Monday, I P. M.—Temperature two and a half degrees above normal. Regular, but sluggish. Have got all my business arranged, even to terms for shipment home.

Real English Lord Will Dance in Broadway Ballet. NEW YORK, September 6.—It is as an actor, that Lord Roslyn is coming to this country. Few peers of the British realm have had a more interesting career or one that has been characterized by more ups and downs. After losing over a million dollars on a nautical and a high-staked venture, he is now a successful actor in the Broadway ballet. He is a man who has been in the front of the British realm for many years, and he has been in the front of the British realm for many years, and he has been in the front of the British realm for many years.

Plans for William Fotheringham's coming season are unsettled, owing to the illness of Sir Gilbert Parker, who is expected to be the guest of the Duke of Devonshire, and of his other titled relatives, preferred to work for his living at every trade that came his way, occasionally finding himself penniless and hungry in the street. He acts under his family name of Fotheringham, and is infinitely superior on the boards to Lord Yarmouth, who was only an actor by courtesy, and a commoner in the eyes of the English law, whereas Roslyn is a full-fledged peer of the realm.
