THE BUILDING INSPECTED.

Number of People Had a Look at the Amphitheatre Yesterday—Entries in the Various Classes—List of the Judges Chosen—Good Seats Left.

The new amphitheatre of the Horse Show Association, at Reservoir Park, was open yesterday afternoon for inspection by the public, and a number of people visited the building.

The building will be open to-day, and if the weather be fair, it will receive a large number of guests, although without the animation of thousands of spectators the autumn horse-fest, and the brilliant scenes incidental to a horse show, the building will be chiefly interesting at present to those who want to see its spaciousness.

Secretary Warthen announced a list of about 400 entries, not including the championship classes. They come from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, chiefly, and represent some of the best horse show material that has been exhibited.

IN THE VARIOUS CLASSES. The jumping and hunting classes will be exceptionally strong, although the classes contain more than thirty entries. The autumn classes will be unusually attractive and well-filled, as there are ten or twelve entries in each class. Most of the horses will reach here next Saturday.

The twenty-four additional stalls will be completed next Tuesday, to provide ample accommodation for the animals. The ornamental touches will be added to the building this week, and within ten days the second annual horse show of Richmond will be at the high tide of its success.

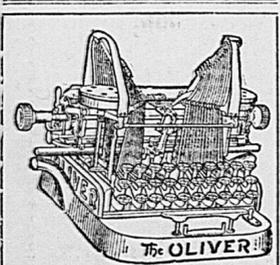

HIG ADVANCE SALES. The advance sales, including boxes, amount to $12,000. Commencing to-morrow the ticket office at No. 100 Main street, will be kept open until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and desirable seats can be obtained during the week. The general public will be admitted to the building only at the ticket office, but exhibitors and groups can secure entrance by card at any of the twelve exits. The sale will be under the management of the Horse Show Association, and will be well equipped with all the good things. Special officers from the city fire department will have supervision of the building during the progress of the show, and every precaution has been taken for the well-being of the visitors. The passenger and power cars will furnish the best possible service by the three lines that reach the building from the city.

Easy to Repair.

Is worth considering when you buy a typewriter. You must have a machine that means a yearly expense to more than interest on its cost to keep it in repair. This! Besides being easy to repair, the Oliver has the proud distinction of being a typewriter on which there are NO REPAIRS NEEDED except in rare cases. Because it will get out of order occasionally, but never. You'd be surprised at our record on Oliver's. They never would make a cent for the repair man. They last too well. That's the only trouble a man never needs a second one, for he can't wear out the first. Give us the chance and we'll tell you all about Oliver's.

In memory of E. G. DRAKE, who was killed September 24, 1902, by a Southern train running over him at Amelia Court-house. Farewell, father and mother, near and dear; I know you loved me so, and wanted me to stay with you much longer. But, ah! mother, the heart feels most, When the lips move not and The eyes speak the gentle "good-bye," In the dark and gloomy night Without your hand clasped in mine. Weep not for me my brothers and sister, Near and dear; though you'd love to keep me here; you know how I suffered here. You know that I endured much pain, And that your loss is my great gain. 'Tis true I left you here to mourn, And never shall you return; But if you are faithful to the end, The God of love will be your friend. Farewell to my uncles, so dear to me, And loving cousins, so kind and true, Good-bye to my friends, one and all. Written by Mother.

BOWS TO JUDGE CUPID'S EDICT.

FATHER, WHOSE ANTI-NUPITAL INJUNCTION WAS SCORNED FORGIVES DAUGHTER. SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 4.—Supreme Court Justice Cupid's decision that "injunctions don't go here" has been gracefully submitted to by Clarence DeLong, whose daughter, Helena, defied him and the court's edict by going to Brooklyn and marrying the man of her choice, De Witt Tewkesbury, of this city. He said to-day:

"Although I should have beaten my daughter and her husband in the courts, yet they have beaten me out of court, and as my daughter is very dear to me, I shall do nothing more. When she returns I shall freely forgive her, but I do not feel very sweet toward her husband. My daughter is a handsome, high-spirited girl, and my objection to the marriage was the fact that I wanted for her husband who would make his mark in the world. I also objected because Tewkesbury is a divorced man, and because he is over twice her age. "I believe my daughter has made a mistake, but as it is too late to rectify it, I shall simply wait till time has taught her that I was doing what I thought was best for her welfare."
