

CITY OF PETERSBURG

TOBACCO MARKET WILL BE OPENED ON TUESDAY.

MAYOR'S POWERS ENLARGED.

Everybody Satisfied With the Business Prospects For This Year—Number of Marriage Licenses Issued—Bank Clearances.

PETERSBURG, VA., January 3.—(Special.)—The business of the city is being gradually resumed after holiday suspension, but some days will elapse before it regains its normal activity.

Rev. D. K. Walthall, of Richmond, will assist in the conduct of religious services at Tabernacle Presbyterian church all next week.

GRiffin ORGAIN'S FUNERAL. The funeral of the late Griffin Orgain, whose death, at the age of 23, occurred Friday afternoon, will take place at Dinwiddie Courthouse, at 12 o'clock on Sunday.

Under the new Constitution, the Mayor of Petersburg, for the first time in the history of the city, is given the veto power.

So well satisfied are they with the business prospects of last year, that they expect the hope that the same may be duplicated this year.

GENERAL NEWS. The clerk of the court in this city issued 211 marriage licenses during the last year.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, is advertised to be held in Petersburg at 12 o'clock on Monday, January 5th.

It is said that Grand Chancellor Gordon, of the Virginia Knights of Pythias, in his report to the next Grand Lodge, will recommend the appointment of a State organizer, with the view of arousing greater activity and interest in the order.

The record of the bank clearances in Petersburg have never been kept, and no estimate can be made as to what these clearances would show.

January 19th, the anniversary of General Lee's birth, will be celebrated by A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans, with a parade and banquet.

While accurate records of marriages and deaths are kept in Petersburg, there is no record of births. It was formerly the duty of commissionaires to make records of all births, but this provision of law has been abolished.

LEWIS HAYES, a worthy negro, died very suddenly on Market street. It is supposed that heart disease was the cause.

CONFORT FOR SMOKERS. There is great consolation for the smoker in the assurance that tobacco confers upon him comparative immunity from pulmonary diseases.

THE CAT AND HER PET. (Correspondence Edinburgh Scotsman.) Tabby, our old cat, lived in the barn with her family of kittens.

ONE DAY I noticed a young rat, about the size of a full-grown mouse, running about the stall with the kittens.

WE again beg to thank our friends for their most liberal patronage the past year, and to wish them a very happy New Year, coupled with success full and plenty.

Notwithstanding our enormous holiday sales, the largest by far in our history, our stock, owing to daily arrivals of goods, is in splendid condition.

One shipment of BABY CARRIAGES and GO-CARTS for 1903 are on sale and another larger shipment will follow in a few days.

One day I noticed a young rat, about the size of a full-grown mouse, running about the stall with the kittens.

ONE MORNING, perhaps a week later, I found Tabby and her family established on a flower bed near the kitchen door.

The Emperor has received the parting visit of Mr. McCormick, whom he distinguished by bidding him a particularly warm good-bye and by presenting to him his photograph in a beautiful frame and with an autograph dedication.

DIVORCE BROKE HIS HEART.

Capt. Carstairs' Grief at Loss of His American Wife.

(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World, Special Cable to the Dispatch.)

LONDON, January 3.—Captain Carstairs, who last week divorced his wealthy American wife, formerly Miss Eastwick, is now in London, and makes no secret of his grief. He is so deeply in love with his wife that up to the trial he would have preferred to be persuaded to get her to renounce Mr. Francis.

He begged for reconciliation, offering to forget the past, and asking for a fresh start, provided she would dismiss Francis from her mind forever.

Through eleven years of married happiness there never was the slightest cloud until the gallant captain went to the South African war.

THE WORK OF WOMEN. Compilation By a Frenchwoman Is Attracting Attention.

(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World, Special Cable to the Dispatch.)

PARIS, January 3.—Mrs. Marie Pegard, a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and one of the most remarkable women in France, has lately finished a monumental record of the work done at the historic Women's Congress, held in Paris during the last exposition.

When the Dispatch correspondent asked her which camp (there are two feminist camps in France) she belongs to, she replied:

"The reasonable one. We have already made it impossible for a man to take his wife's money and spend it with another woman, and gradually, if not immediately, women will obtain all their rights.

SWAB'S STATUES. His Splendid Ornaments For New York Mansion.

(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World, Special Cable to the Dispatch.)

PARIS, January 3.—The two bronze statues ordered by Charles M. Schwab for his new mansion in Riverside Drive, New York, were shown in their clay model form to the correspondent of the Dispatch to-day by Jean Leon Gerome, the celebrated French sculptor.

One statue represents Labor and is a splendid figure of a workman in a leathery tunic, brawny and muscular.

THE OTHER figure symbolizes the science of metallurgy, and is a graceful female figure, draped, and wearing a laurel wreath.

It is understood that Mr. Schwab proposes to eat his next Christmas dinner in his new house.

FORMER ENLISTED MAN IS SECOND IN COMMAND OF LIFE GUARD.

(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World, Special Cable to the Dispatch.)

LONDON, January 3.—Lieutenant Gordon Carter, of the First Life Guards, the "swellest" regiment in the British army, has risen from the ranks to the post of second in command of the corps.

Colonel Carter is the son of a farmer. He served in the ranks seven years. In 1880 he received a commission as riding master, was made a lieutenant in 1881; from that time until 1894 he served as adjutant, being made a captain in 1887.

HE CAPTURED HIS HEART. An American Woman Catches A Distinguished British Husband.

(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World, Special Cable to the Dispatch.)

LONDON, January 3.—Mrs. Blake, of Boston, wedded yesterday Sir Seymour Blanc, a distinguished bachelor soldier, who has always boasted that he had never had a love affair and never met a girl who could entice him from single blessedness.

At Mrs. Blake's wish the wedding will be very quiet. It will take place at Holy Trinity, Sloan street, at a very early hour.

Dueber-Hampden Watches.

The Dueber-Hampden Watch factories at Canton, Ohio, the twin factories, built side by side; in combination it is immeasurably the largest and most complete concern of its kind in the world.

In all respects the most perfect. Every dealer knows how victorious the Dueber-Hampden Companies have been, when movement manufacturers, watch-case manufacturers, and Jobbers in watches combined to prevent the Dueber-Hampden Companies from marketing their watches and drive them out of business.

Can we offer any better evidence of the superiority of the Dueber-Hampden watches than the fact—

The combined efforts of the entire watch trade could not destroy their popularity?

The days of the inquisition in the watch business are over. Dealers are now at liberty to buy what watches they prefer.

But in spite of all this opposition, the output of the great Dueber-Hampden Watch factories has steadily and constantly increased until at present they employ thousands of the most skilled work-people, producing a complete watch movement and watch case.

The matchless reputation obtained by the Dueber-Hampden watches is nothing less than marvelous. The same minute and the same exact care is given in every detail to any size or grade from the ladies' small size, the No. 400—the smallest moderate-priced and accurate timekeeper made in America—to the gentlemen's watch, 12, 16, and 18 size.

The latest and greatest production of these factories is the 1902 thin model 16 size watch, cased in 18 and 14 Kt. gold and gold-filled, to which we especially call the attention of those who want the best. Write for "Guide to Watch Buyers."

San Francisco instrument for nines consecutive hours yesterday. When the cable was given over to the contractor last night, to test its qualities and instruments, no less than 3,000 words had passed between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Every word so far sent has been without pay. About 500 congratulatory messages went through, averaging ten words to the message. These were from the public officials of Hawaii and the public bodies of the islands, from the different chambers of commerce and boards of trade of the Pacific slope, from several large commercial houses and from private individuals at both ends of the wire.

To-day and to-morrow the cable will be open for complimentary messages to pass. Monday morning the line will be regularly opened for paid messages at the rate of 50 cents a word for private persons, and 20 cents a word for press messages.

OPPOSE PRIMARY PLAN. Expense Imposed on Candidates Makes It Unpopular.

The outlook for the repeal or material amendment of the Democratic primary plan for nomination and the proposal to become a live issue during the year. As recently shown by the Dispatch, there is cordial opposition to the plan, chiefly on account of the expense imposed on candidates thereby.

There are many others besides the members of the Legislature who favor the repeal of the plan, and in fact, nearly every man who is now, or anticipates being a candidate, an aspirant for office is against it.

Colonel Robert Callet, of Lexington, has been heard of in conversation on business, last night in conversation with a Dispatch reporter expressed the belief that the plan would be repealed, and that it should be replaced by a prohibitory on men of small means.

General Collis—Dear Sir: I wish to communicate through you to the Grant Monument Association. Some weeks ago Mr. Duncan, the architect, who is to build the monument for my husband, General Grant, suggested, whilst showing me the plans of said monument, that my remains should be placed in the same sarcophagus with those of General Grant, this, he said, would save space. I wish now to most earnestly protest against the plan. General Grant must have his own sarcophagus, and I my casket beside him.

General Grant's identity must remain distinct. Hereafter when persons visit this spot, they must be able to say, "Here rests General Grant."

"Yours most sincerely, JULIA D. GRANT."

Simply expressed, were respected in the arrangement of the final plan of the monument. Most people, we think, will be touched by her manifestation of a conscientious solicitude for the historic properties and a definite purpose perhaps at variance with the natural impulse of the wife.

This is why the chamber in which General Grant rests by the Hudson differs in one particular, so conspicuous that no visitor fails to observe it, from that other impressive tomb near the bank of the Seine.—New York Sun.

He reached Philadelphia at the close of Washington's administration, having ridden on horseback nearly eight hundred miles to his destination. Gallatin, himself a western man, describes Jackson as he entered the halls of Congress: "A tall, lank, uncouth looking personage, with locks of hair hanging over his face and a cue down his back tied in an eel skin, his dress singular; his manners those of a rough backwoodsman."

Jefferson testified: "When I was president of the Senate he was a senator, and he could never speak or account of the rashness of his feelings. I have seen him attempt it repeatedly and as often choke with rage."

At length the frontier in the person of its typical man had found a place in the government. This six-foot backwoodsman, with blue eyes that could blaze on occasion, this choleric, impetuous, self-willed Scotch-Irish leader of men, this expert, quelling, and ready fighter, this embodiment of the tenacious, vehement, personal West, was in politics to stay. The frontier democracy of that time had the instincts of the clansman in the days of Scotch border wars.

From the influence of European ideas and institutions. The men of the western world turned their backs upon the Atlantic ocean, and with grim energy and self-reliance began to build up a society free from the dominance of ancient forms.

His masterpiece sermon on the subject, "The Sun Do Move," and from the text, "So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hastened not to go down about a whole day." This type was a creature of childlike faith, and the power of his crude but intense preaching lay in the implicit belief in the Scriptures. He wouldn't swallow any of your modern half-diluted infidelity about its being Arabs instead of ravens that fed Elijah or about the authorship of "the two Testaments." He had a wonderful fund of knowledge, even outside of what he knew of the Bible, and where he got it is a mystery, for oftentimes he could not read.

The negro preacher that Mr. Adams discovered, the Rev. Moses Hester, often quoted from, or referred to, Blackstone, Spurgeon, Wesley, and others. This swift, passing relic of African slavery got a good deal of true religion out of his rambling exhortations, and always an amazing amount of originality. Some of the remarks of Brother Hester, as reported by Mr. Adams, in short hand, are not half bad:

"My bretherin, I has aspired to walk succumpeckly befo' God, I wants to git in de inner circle. Now, when de Injuns waked through de fores' dey waded succumpeckly." Has Uncle Moses ever read "The Deerslayer," or "The Pathfinder," do you think? Again:

"What will it profit a man ter gain de whole wurld an' lose his own soul? Now dat is a conjunctive disjunctive.

"God gave de angel a command. He said to de children of Israel ter sprinkle de blood on de doorposts. He done send ter de destroyer' angel. When you see dat cheerful sign don't you kill enybody dere. Some one said dat de elephant an' de houshey was in de ark. Was it dere faith that sated dem? No it wuz de ark. It sated dat great big elephant and dat little fly. Habin' de Sperrit an' not habin' de Sperrit determines our future destiny."

"The Observer is hospitable to the negro preacher of the days 'befo' de war."

Love's Miracle. (January Atlantic.) 'Tis not the touch of hands, 'tis not the light Shining from eyes that ardently do gaze On the beloved face, 'tis not the praise Of spoken words or sung, that may give us delight 'Rever' the spirit's worship; these give us light Of Love's fair flower and tender leafy ways; But Love's fruition must be found in prayer; More subtly sought, and moods more recollective.
