

Miller & Rhoads.

Miller & Rhoads.

WEATHER FORECAST—Wednesday, cloudy.

The Whole Store Breathes a Spirit of Easter this Morning

"Eugenie" Gloves

For Easter, $1.50

Way back one hundred years ago, Fowkes, the English Glove-maker, laid the foundation of a glove business that has gone steadily forward ever since. It was started right and it has kept right, and to-day the best $1.50 glove in the world is the "Eugenie," made by this famous house, in their French establishment, and named for the beautiful Empress of the French.

There never has—and we almost said—never will be a $1.50 glove made that can even equal it. All the spring shades. You'll see them in the window display.

Silk Scarfs and Shawls For Easter.

Either would make a beautiful Easter gift. The scarfs are exquisite creations for a light spring and summer wear. They come in cream, black and white and lavender—$1.00 to $5.50.

We can't begin to describe the beauties of the Silk Shawls—you know their utility of a cool evening. You'll have to see them to appreciate their value.

We'll just say they are all pure silk, in cream, white and all black, with fringe—$2.75 to $6.00.

(Second floor, opposite the Corset Department.)

Miller & Rhoads

Social and Personal

The lower hall of the Masonic Temple presented a busy appearance yesterday morning. Workmen were busily occupied in putting up the different tables and the draperies were being adjusted on some of those which were more advanced.

Mississippi's magnolia leaves, blossoms and buds showed well in the open work beneath the counter. The hat-shaped canopy with its pink lining and its short canopy at each of four corners, had been put in place. Mississippi's chairman and several members of the committee were busy in arranging for the adjustment of lights at the table and in setting all minor points of detail.

Virginia's crimson canopy stood out handsomely to the right as one entered with the gilded spears which are to serve as supports. The golden and the purple, which served to illustrate the title had not arrived, but Virginia's interests were being well looked after.

Mrs. John Moseley Walker was directing the adjustment of the oriole colors, with which the Maryland table will be draped. Some of Baltimore's most attractive young ladies will assist the Maryland chairman and help to render her chairman one of the pleasantest lingering places at the bazaar.

Other chairmen were scattered through the hall and grouped around the different table spaces. From present indications, it would appear that the work will be finished and the tables ready for their furnishings by Saturday.

All persons who have promised to serve on the Virginia table are earnestly requested to be present at the opening of the bazaar on Wednesday, April 15th, at the time of opening.

An Easter egg-hunt will be given by the Virginia and Mississippi tables, 3:30 P. M. Easter Monday, at the corner of Franklin and First Streets. Mrs. E. L. Bessie having kindly given the use of her yard for the hunt. Prizes will be offered, and children are invited to attend.

The committee for the Virginia table includes Mrs. Archer Anderson, chairman; Mrs. C. E. Bolling, alternate; Miss Jennie Munford, treasurer; Miss Etta Munford and Miss Sallie Deane, alternates to the treasurer; Mrs. B. Thorne McCullough, president of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association; Mrs. G. B. Williams, Mrs. Pittsburg Lee, Mrs. J. Taylor Elyson, Mrs. Hugh Taylor, Mrs. Edgar Taylor, Mrs. Winn, Mrs. Pleasant, Mrs. Thomas Bolling, Mrs. W. L. Royall, Mrs. James B. Bagby, Mrs. C. G. McCormack, Mrs. H. L. Valentine, Mrs. E. P. Valentine, Mrs. B. B. Valentine, Mrs. J. C. Farland, Mrs. Dabney Carr, Mrs. Levin Jones, Mrs. James B. Bagby, Mrs. Robert Remond, Mrs. B. Han Wolford, Mrs. A. von N. Rosenberg, Miss L. Temple, Mrs. A. J. Montague, Mrs. E. M. Habbott, Mrs. Beverly Seiden, Mrs. Henry Taylor, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Rent, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Joseph Willard, Mrs. Theodora Elyson, Mrs. F. D. Crump, Mrs. P. D. Williams, Mrs. St. George M. Anderson, Mrs. W. L. Sheppard, Mrs. George L. Christian, Mrs. Thomas J. Starke, Miss Sallie Archer Anderson, Kathleen Graham Anderson, Sally Reik Anderson, Edith Bagby, Kate Talley, Bessie Elyson, Misses Gibson, McGuire, Whitlock, Meredith, Coleman, Miss Blankenship, Miss Katie Blankenship, Miss Stevens, Miss von N. Rosenberg, Ashley Miller, Bertha Jeffery, Mary Cameron, Berta Welford, May Morrison, Octavia Cranshaw, Emile Pegram, Misses Worth and Archer.

Parker—Talcott.

Colonel and Mrs. T. M. R. Talcott have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Augusta McKivikar Talcott, to Dr. Truman Alfred Parker. The ceremony will take place at 3 P. M. in St. Albans' Church, April 24.

Bass—Kinsey.

Cards have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kinsey, of No. 127-1/2 South Cherry Street, for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Annie Rachel Kinsey, to Mr. D. Edward Bass, in Epworth Church, Tuesday evening, April 21, at 5:30 o'clock.

Hankins—Ware.

The wedding of Miss Daisy Scott, the daughter of Mrs. Mary Coleman Ware, and Mr. Albert Winthrop Hankins will be celebrated this evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Third Christian Church by the Rev. Preston A. Cava.

Bazaar Meetings.

The general meeting of the Confederate Bazaar Association will be held at Lee Camp Hall Monday, April 13th, instead of Thursday next. The officers, chairman of tables, chairmen of entertainments, and all members of the association, are requested to attend. This will be the last meeting.

Levy—Miller.

Invitations have been received in Richmond from Mr. and Mrs. B. Miller for the marriage of their daughter, Bessie, to Mr. Sam. Levy Sunday evening, April 26th, at 6:30 o'clock, at No. 415 North Pine Street, N. C.

Virginia Day, April 17th.

The Virginia table of the Confederate Bazaar has been given the 17th of April, the anniversary of Virginia's secession from the Union, as Virginia Day at the Bazaar. Mrs. William L. Royall, chairman of the Bazaar Entertainment Committee, has arranged a very attractive programme for the evening of the 17th. The entertainment that evening will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

The programme will be as follows: Major Charles Smith has arranged to have some of the city's volunteer soldiers march into the hall in Confederate uniforms and take their stand on either side of the platform. Then the reveille will be sounded and the curtain will go up showing a camp fire with Lee and Pickett Camp, in uniform, around it. Tents and trees will surround the camp. On the stage will be the speakers of the evening, Senator John W. Daniel, General Fitzhugh Lee, Governor A. J. Montague, Mr. William L. Royall, Captain Cussens, Mr. Joseph Bryan and Colonel W. Gordon McCabe.

The programme will open with the singing of "Dixie," both camps joining in the chorus. Two speakers will follow, then "The Brightest of the South" will be given by a quartette of five voices, trained by Major Smith. Two speeches come next and then "The Bonnie Blue Flag" will arouse the enthusiasm of all present. Then Pickett Camp, leading the ringing chorus. Other speeches will be made and "Lorena," a song full to the brim of the fragrance of bygone associations, will be heard from the lips of the quartette. The last two speakers will be succeeded by more Confederate airs. Then the soldiers will march out and the curtain will fall at the sounding of taps.

Society Women Sell Tickets.

In spite of the guarantee of one thousand dollars, which the directors of the Virginia Hospital and the Virginia booth of the Confederate Fair are to pay to the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania for its appearance on April 1st, the funds of those worthy charities bid fair to benefit very considerably by the entertainment.

Energetic and industrious ladies who are prominent in social circles are selling tickets which carry with them the first choice of seats when the box-office opens for the regular sale.

The "wiggens" are old favorites here, and are sure of a very cordial reception at the hands of those who witnessed their excellent performance last year.

Personal Mention.

Mr. James Branch Cabell's novelette will appear in the June number of "The Smart Set." It is the most ambitious attempt which Mr. Cabell has yet made; it is written in his happiest style and in the very fine English of which his author is a master.

Pope says: "True ease in writing comes from art, not chance; As those move easiest who have learned to dance."

All who contrast Mr. Cabell's clearly cut and clearly expressed sentences and note his nice choice of words will, perhaps, formulate a wish that there were more adepts in the "art" which is so distinguishing a characteristic of everything that comes from his pen.

Many friends will be interested in the announcement of the approaching marriage of Mr. Charles P. Sargent, of No. 64 East Grace Street, to Miss Annie Lamar Griffin, of Lee Camp Hall. A full account of the date of the marriage has been given for April 23d, and Mr. Sargent will leave for Galveston early next week.

His fiancée is said to be a charming young lady in every respect. Mr. Sargent is connected in business with the Western Union-Telegraph Company and is very popular.

Miss Corn Richardson, of New Orleans, has arrived in Richmond, and will be here during the bazaar.

All persons who have promised contributions to the Tennessee table are requested to send the same to the chairman as soon as possible. A full and complete list of the Tennessee Committee is asked for the meeting at Lee Camp Hall at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Mrs. Ernest Smallman has returned from Orlando, Fla., where she was in the company of Colonel J. R. McIntosh, is now in St. Augustine, Fla., and is steadily improving in health.

Miss Minnie Baughman, the chairman of the Solid South table of the Confederate Bazaar, has received a most beautiful Louisiana silk Confederate flag from the daughters of Virginia's Bazaar. This flag will be displayed at the Solid South table, and will be voted to the most popular of the veteran camps.

R. E. Lee, A. P. Hill and Pickett Camps will open the contest, and it is hoped that many others will come in.

Miss Bessie and Miss Jessie Jacob will be with the Louisiana table at the Confederate Bazaar.

The Alabama committee will meet this afternoon at 4:30 in the home of Mrs. J. H. Dray, No. 1029 Third Avenue. All members are asked to be present.

Miss Evelyn Lee Fitzhugh, of Lexington, Ky., is the guest of Miss Mary Wallace Conway, at No. 2801 East Marshall Street.

Mrs. Charles L. Siegel, who is visiting relatives at No. 811 East Grace Street, will leave for Mathews county tomorrow.

Miss Sally Woolfolk, of Hanover, will be the guest of Miss Vera Palmer, of South Third Street, during Easter week.

Miss Evelyn Lee Fitzhugh, of Lexington, Ky., is the guest of Miss Mary Wallace Conway, at No. 2801 East Marshall Street.

Mrs. Charles L. Siegel, who is visiting relatives at No. 811 East Grace Street, will leave for Mathews county tomorrow.

Miss Sally Woolfolk, of Hanover, will be the guest of Miss Vera Palmer, of South Third Street, during Easter week.

Miss Evelyn Lee Fitzhugh, of Lexington, Ky., is the guest of Miss Mary Wallace Conway, at No. 2801 East Marshall Street.

Mrs. Charles L. Siegel, who is visiting relatives at No. 811 East Grace Street, will leave for Mathews county tomorrow.

Miss Sally Woolfolk, of Hanover, will be the guest of Miss Vera Palmer, of South Third Street, during Easter week.

Miss Evelyn Lee Fitzhugh, of Lexington, Ky., is the guest of Miss Mary Wallace Conway, at No. 2801 East Marshall Street.

Mrs. Charles L. Siegel, who is visiting relatives at No. 811 East Grace Street, will leave for Mathews county tomorrow.

BRENT, OF THE BADGER

Romance of the Kidnapping of a Governor-General.

Copyright, by PHILIP LITTLE.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"They now moved away from the old ship on the water, returning. Soon after he landed and reported that everything was ready for the firing."

"Very well," said Brent, "he turned to the Badger and waved his hand. A most magnificent salute was then given, followed by the bursting of the shell and the splintering of wood. They could see from where they stood that the door and some of its surroundings had been knocked to pieces."

"It was more than would do in several hours," cried the captain. "Now we can see whether there is anything of any value on board. Have you a lantern there, sir?"

"Yes, sir," I thought that it might prove of use if we were going down to the hold, and one of the hands here brought a watch tackle to hoist anything out that might be too heavy for us to lift."

"Good idea, that. I am sure that I hope we shall have a chance to use it." They now made their way back on to the galloon, and found plenty of daylight streaming through the hole in the bulkhead where the door had been. Brent, who was leading, paused involuntarily, and gazed into the interior.

"Do you see anything?" asked Madeleine, anxiously.

"No," he replied, with a half laugh; "no, I can see nothing as yet, except that there is old furniture and all that, just as it was, barring what has been knocked about a bit by the shell."

"So it is very much as it was," said the others, including the foremost hand, with his watch tackle, and carrying, beside the lantern that Brent had turned over to his care.

"This is the state cabin, or stateroom. The original table, which is used on board vessels for private use of individuals, is directly contrary to the ancient usage."

"Papa, dear, you are a compendium of useful knowledge, it seems to me. But would you like to see that in this old place and talk about it afterward?"

"I see that I am not appreciated," laughed the captain, "but it is all very interesting to a sailor, who studies the rise of shipbuilding and the changes that have taken place since vessels of the age of this one were commissioned."

"So it is very interesting, you old dear, but do reserve it till we have more leisure. You are keeping us all keyed up with expectation."

"They were all in the state cabin by this time, staring about them to see what they could find. The dining room, the saloon, and the galloon, and the cupboards, as well as the silver flagons and dishes, all highly ornamented, were to be found."

"Did you ever see such richness in a small space?" exclaimed Brent. "Those old ones must have lived in great state, though I doubt if they had much to eat, or if they were very happy."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

"I am sure that they were very happy, though they lacked in food," said Fitzmorris, who up to this time had remained a silent spectator. "Look at this great tankard! It is black from the action of the salt water, but it is a beauty. Just the same, and will do well to be put to its original use."

length, "there must be millions there!" "There is enough for us all," replied Brent, in a voice which betrayed the intensity of his feelings.

"Go to the ship and bring a dozen of the men back with you," he cried. "We must get that chest first. It is too heavy for us. Bring another tackle with you at the same time, and make haste. We must get this stuff out of here and into the ship as quick as possible."

"The man hastened away to do as he was bidden, and the other two followed him to the shore, carrying the wonderful news to his comrades."

CHAPTER XXXV.

In less than half an hour the heavy iron chest was resting on the deck outside of the cabin door, and the work of getting the precious metals out of the hold commenced. There seemed to be an endless number of them, and though the men worked busily, while Brent and Fitzmorris superintended the work, they seemed to make but little impression on the bars below deck.

"That's for?" asked the captain, "said the captain, 'There must be something of particular value in it. How to get it open I do not see. The only way will be to have one of our machinists bore through the hinges or destroy the lock. The door will be so closely fitted that you can hardly distinguish it from the body of the box.'"

"When they made chests of that kind I should say that they made them to stay shut. I wonder if they ever opened them. I wonder if they ever opened them when he bought it." Fitzmorris laughed as he stooped down and ran his eyes over the sides.

"For a day the crew of the Badger worked steadily, transferring the treasure from the galloon to the stateroom, and finally, with the aid of practically all hands, it was safely stowed below decks, with the exception of the chest, which remained on the after deck, waiting to be opened."

"At last every bit of metal was out of the old ship, and Brent began to think of getting away."

"It will be just as well to blow the old thing up," he said to Lord George, as on the morning of the following day, they walked up and down enjoying an after-breakfast smoke.

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

"That is true. But they do not care, and cannot begin to know what we have taken out. Hello, there is a dug-out coming down the harbor now. She is heading for this boat. I wonder who our visitor is. The others have never seen her before. She is a new boat, and she is very pretty. It is a pleasure to see her."

"So as to leave no trace of our proceedings," said the captain, "but the natives know that we have been at work here."

LARGEST CAPY to-date Method

OF ANY BANK OR TRUST

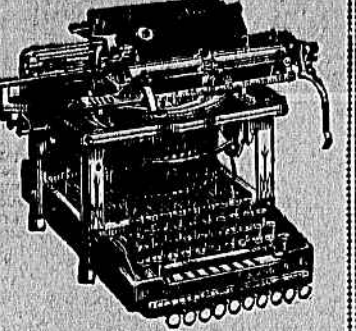

Richmond is to use

Low Remington

ing Typewriter

RESULT!

Neater, more compact and more legible bills, and time and labor saved in every kind of billing work. The ideal system of Bill and Charge. Bill and Salesbook charge both made at a single writing. Send for Illustrated Booklet, just issued, on this

New Remington Billing Typewriter

Remington Typewriter Company, 706 E. Main Street, Richmond, Va.

ANNUAL STATEMENT FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING THE 31ST DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902. OF THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA, ORGANIZED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY, MADE TO THE AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAWS OF VIRGINIA.

Name of the company in full—THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA; Location of home or principal office of said company—60 WALL STREET, NEWARK, N. J.; Name of the president—JOHN F. DRYDEN; Secretary—EDWARD GRAY; Organized and incorporated in the State of New Jersey; Name of the general agent in Virginia, BLACKFORD & WILMER, RICHMOND, VA.