

SOCIETY

Society is anywhere rather than in the city during July. It disperses itself beside the "sad sea waves" and transforms Virginia Beach, Ocean View, Willoughby, Buckroe and Old Point into scenes of gaiety, life and movement. Society, in the shape of the seaside girl, is most alluring to the masculine element, which is never so happy when complying with the demand made, by sauntering on the white sands, buffeting the briny surf, promenading in the moonlight or dancing with the waves outside, making a throbbing undertone to the strains of music within.

The Virginia mountains are claiming society, too. In the many mountain resort hotels, on the golf grounds and tennis courts, on the porches and in the hall-rooms, riding, driving and walking, the smart set find each hour some new diversion for the long, bright mid-summer days that are passing in the passionate glow of July.

Camping parties are quite the fad this year. They have always been popular during July and August on the Eastern Shore. This year they are inaugurated at Virginia Beach and Buckroe and at many places on the upper James, and in the mountains of Virginia and West Virginia. Given a number of congenial friends and acquaintances, there is no more charming way to take an outing than that afforded by the hunting, fishing and boating, which makes the variety of a camping party.

House parties there are without number, all over Virginia, now and later on in the summer. The pleasantness of house parties in Gloucester and all through the lower Virginia counties are only equaled by the delights of those given in the Piedmont region and throughout the counties of Clarke, Loudoun and Fairfax. All the delights of Old Dominion hospitality are reflected in the bright faces gathered around well filled boards; in the echo of musical voices, in the patter of merry feet with which the rambling old Virginia mansions will be filled during the 1908 house party season.

So much for the migratory society element that each year, when the time comes around, hies to seashore hotel and cottage, seeks the cooling breezes and healing waters of the mountains, or retreats to the lower Virginia lands, creates itself by travel to other lands. There is another large number who do not care for the annual summer outing, or who are obliged, from the force of circumstances, to give it but little thought or consideration. These make up the part of society, who, despite the sympathy that is lavished upon them, often have more compensations than they are generally accredited with. The stay-at-home girl, special, has her innings, at-home girl special, in the evenings, clad in filmy white, fresh, dainty and piquant, to hold her little court on porches or within dim, cool parlors.

The stay-at-home girl is a wonderfully good companion and whatever may be the pleasures of others who wonder far afield to find them, there is no doubt but that her rewards are tangible and that the summer is never past without her harvest being gathered in.

Mrs. John W. Richardson, of this city, the wife of Colonel Richardson, of the Land Registry Office, who is spending the summer in Southwest Virginia, was a guest at a complimentary excursion given July 6th in a special car by Mrs. John M. Ferguson, of Seven Mile Ford, to the natural tunnel in Wise county, Va.

The scenery over the Norfolk and Western and Virginia Southwestern Railway in approaching the tunnel was unrivaled. The car party numbered about twenty, including Captain and Mrs. Preston, daughter, Miss Margaret Preston, Major John W. Daniels, Colonel Robert E. Lee, Jr., Hon. W. W. George, Senator J. Cloyd Byars, Miss Hallie Fell, Mrs. Hal Edmondson, Mr. R. L. Williams, Mrs. R. B. Grever, Mrs. Richardson, and others.

One of the party, on approaching the tunnel, exclaimed: "How grandly sublime the scenery about the tunnel, and how much it reminds one of Dante's description of the Inferno!" Delicious refreshments were served on the car and the trip was enjoyed to the fullest by every one of the party.

The wonderful natural tunnel opening through the mountain ridge, is located two miles beyond Clinchport. At this point the ridge is pierced by a cavern which extends through the cliff for about nine hundred and sixty feet, forms a natural tunnel, with a width of about sixty to eighty feet, and a height varying from fifty to sixty feet. Stock Creek, a small water course, flows through the opening, and the tunnel bids fair to become in time as famous as the Natural Bridge or the Luray Caverns. Wise county is noted for its rich productiveness, and its beautiful homes, among them that of General R. A. Ayers, at Big Stone Gap.

Noel-Valentine.
Miss Jennie May Valentine and Mr. Euel Noel were married in Washington July 9th.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Valentine, of Church Hill, and is a very charming young lady with a host of friends. She was gowned in a

MISS BESSIE LAMB.
Miss Lamb is the only daughter of Hon. John Lamb, Congressman from the Third District. She has recently returned from Mrs. Rayson's School in New York city, where she acquitted herself with much distinction, having previously graduated from Richmond Female Seminary, where she received a scholarship as a special mark of excellence.

Miss Lamb is a pliant, attractive brunette, with decided musical ability. Her talent in this line has been cultivated under Professor Fred Fahr, of this city, and Miss Amy Fay, of New York. Miss Bessie is now in Danville visiting her cousins, the Misses Douthat, and is the recipient of many flattering attentions in the social world.

blue cloth traveling costume. The groom is an engineer on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and is very popular. The bridegroom is a handsome young man, and the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Landrum and Miss V. Noel, left for Hanover county, the residence of the groom's mother, where a handsome reception was given. Among those present were Mrs. Valentine, the bride's mother, and Miss Ruth Valentine, her sister.

After visiting friends in Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Noel will take their future home in Somerset, Ky., taking with them the good wishes of many friends.

Many of Richmond's educationally inclined people are attending the School of Methods in Charlottesville. Twenty-five thousand teachers, including representatives from every State and territory, gathered at the National Education Association in Boston last week. Many of the leading educators of the United States were there, the greatest courtesy and hospitality were extended to visitors, and the Virginia representatives especially enjoyed every moment of their stay.

Among the delightful Virginia camping parties is one chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson Brown, of "Ivy Cliff," Bedford City. The camp is located near Big Island, and the name of the host and hostess carries assurance of unlimited fun for all who are their guests. When the camp breaks a house party at Ivy Cliff will follow, so that nothing will be lacking in the sum of pleasure at Mr. and Mrs. Brown's command.

Among those who are camping with them are: Miss Minor, Miss Mary Lathrop, Miss Louise Atkins, Miss Elsie Palmer, and Miss Nora Houston, of this city; Miss Elsie Ingram, of Manchester; Miss Patton, of Blacksburg; Miss Fiesher, of Erie, Pa.; Miss Fannie Miller, of Staunton, Va.; Miss Tyler, of Williamsburg; Miss Rosa Tucker, of Lexington; Miss Eleanor Brown, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson Brown, children and servants; Messrs. J. Thompson Brown, P. D. Brown, J. L. Campbell, Bowyer Campbell and Judge Tucker, of Bedford; Mr. Julian Corbett, of Albemarle; Mr. W. P. A. Moncre, of Williamsburg; Mr. J. Randolph Tucker, of Lexington; Messrs. W. B. Tams and W. F. Tams, of Staunton.

Prominent among the social events of next week, in which Richmond people are interested, is the performance of "Alabama" next Tuesday evening in the Jefferson auditorium at the University of Virginia by the Richmond College Dramatic Club.

Those who will take part in the play are Mrs. J. A. C. Chandler, Miss Madge Brown, Miss Rosa Smith, Messrs. J. T. Winfree, Abner S. Pope, Allen Welr, Hiram M. Smith and Douglas S. Freeman, all of Richmond; Miss Lesley Jeffrey, of Norfolk, and Mr. J. M. Hughes, of Culpeper.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blackwell Cobb, of Stamford, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Howard, to William Pegram Gilmour, of Richmond.

Invitations have been issued in Richmond for a moonlight hop, to be given near Panacea Lithia Spring, Friday, July 17th, at 8 o'clock.

The chaperones of the occasion will be Mrs. M. E. Hards, Mrs. George Gibson, Mrs. H. E. Edwards, Mrs. L. T. Wallace and Mrs. A. B. Finch. The committee of invitation includes Messrs. C. C. Brantley, G. K. Gilmore, Milton Walker and L. W. Farris.

Personal Mention.
Miss Estelle had as her guests from Washington, D. C., last week Mrs. Raymond Pison and son. On Wednesday of this week Miss Pizani, accompanied by her maid, will go for the summer to the Bel Air Hotel, at Fincastle, Va., to join her sister, Mrs. J. Percy Evans, of New York city.

Miss Susie Woolfolk, of this city; Miss Johnston, of Staunton, and Mr. Warren Johnston, of New York, will leave this week to visit friends in and near Charleston, W. Va.

Miss Anna Siegling, of New York, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. Z. Ebel, of West Main Street.

Misses Maude Gilbert, Gertrude and
