

NEW YEAR USHERED IN AMID MOURNING

The first sympathy with citizens mourning.
Telegrams of condolence were also received from Mayor Low, of New York; Mayor Collins, of Boston, and from dozens of the chief cities of the United States.

LOOKING FOR FRIENDS.

Crowds Besiege the Undertaking Rooms and Hospitals.
CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—From early in the morning until late at night crowds besieged the undertaking rooms and hospitals, looking for the dead and injured.

In all the undertaking rooms, the bodies were placed as far as possible on cots, and when these were exhausted, stretchers in long lines were used. A constant succession of pale faced men and women passed slowly between the bodies, lifting the covering from the charred and bruised faces, and searching in vain for the features of their loved ones.

SEARCHING INQUIRY.
Coroner's Jury Trying to Fix Responsibility for Catastrophe.
CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—With the announcement that one jury of representative citizens would listen to all the evidence regarding the Iroquois Theatre fire and return a single verdict for all the victims, the coroner's jury to-day promptly installed its jury.
'If any persons are responsible for the fire,' said Coroner Traeger, 'they will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. The investigation of the fire will be thorough. We will leave no stone unturned in our efforts to fix the responsibility.'
The coroner's jury is as follows:
L. H. Meyer, secretary of the Kennedy Furniture Company.
Dr. Walter Byrnes, salesman for Lyon and Hart.
Fletcher Clingman, salesman for the Tobey Furniture Company.
Joseph A. Cummings, manager of Browning, King and Company.
George W. Atkins, credit man for Marshall Field and Company.
John W. Flinn, salesman for A. H. Reall and Company.
Continued sight of dead bodies lying huddled on the floors and tables of the various city morgues proved too much for the members of the jury. Several of the jury objected to being forced to view the bodies and one juror, Joseph Cummings, practically collapsed at Rolston's morgue, where the jury was forced to sleep over the dead bodies in their tour of inspection.

Coroner Traeger to-night conducted an informal inquiry into the cause of the fire. His first witness was William C. Sellers, the fireman employed at the theatre. Sellers did not know just how the fire began, but said he saw it shortly after it broke out. He threw extinguishers on the blaze, but without effect. He tried to pull down the drop curtain or to tear loose that portion of it which was blazing, but without success. The fire then spread with such great rapidity that he was unable to do more.
Other witnesses were examined, and after they had been heard, Assistant State's Attorney A. A. Hoer, who was present, said:
'It seems agreed that the asbestos curtain was dropped, but that it went to the stage floor. People on the stage opened the door leading from the stage into the street on the west side of the theatre, and this created a strong draft. The draft blew the curtain out toward the audience. This held the curtain so tight that all attempts to lower it further were fruitless.'
This evening, the coroner's jury, which had spent the day in visiting the various morgues, was taken by Coroner Traeger to the theatre. The jury first went to the spot where the fire was discovered. The seats in the first ten rows on the first floor were burned, but back of that the orchestra chairs were in good condition.

The members of the jury, while engaged in inspecting the stage, frequently remarked that the protection against fire seemed to them to have been inadequate.
The jury then climbed the stairway leading to the first balcony. The door opening of the seats was found to be burned on every seat from wall to wall, and from the front row of the balcony to the last. An inspection was made of the exits, leading to the fire escapes at the north end of the balcony. The exits were found to be much too small; they should have been three times as large,' said Juror Flinn.
The iron doors were closed and locked and it was then seen that the inner doors were so close to the steel shutters that they could not be opened with the ladders fastened. This exit is not sufficiently high for an ordinary sized man to walk through without stooping and when the jurors learned this fact they expressed their indignation. The ladders were taken to the gallery, where the greatest loss of life occurred.
In both balconies there were hundreds of greasy spots, relics of the catastrophe scattered between the seats where they had been dropped by the terrified victims. There were a score or more of rubber shoes, muffs, handkerchiefs, gloves, and other articles scattered about. Underneath the seats was found a toy doll, which had evidently been taken to the theatre by a little girl. The jurors were deeply affected by the sight as they sorted over the relics of the disaster.
At the conclusion of the inspection of the theatre it was decided to hold the inquest until next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

EMPLOYEES ARRESTED.
Are Charged With Being Accessory to Manslaughter.
CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Seven employees of the Iroquois Theatre were arrested to-night on orders issued by Chief of Police O'Neil. The charge against them is that they were accessory to the manslaughter. They will be held pending the verdict of the coroner's jury. The men arrested are:
William Carlton stage manager.
Edward Cummings stage carpenter.
Frank J. Jandrow.
R. M. Cummings, stage carpenter.
E. Engle.
Thomas McQueen.
B. J. Mazoni.
The last five are stage hands and scene shifters. After being taken into custody by the police four of the men told O'Neil that they had been requested by Sullivan, a young girl who was with the company. When asked who advised them to do this they at first refused to say but later admitted that the advice was given by Assistant Stage Manager Plunkett.

THRILLING ESCAPE.
Virginia Girl Was Borne Out of Theatre by Her Escort.
CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—One of the most thrilling escapes was that of Miss Millie Sullivan, a young girl who was with the company. When asked who advised them to do this they at first refused to say but later admitted that the advice was given by Assistant Stage Manager Plunkett.

COTTAGE HOME BURNED.
Destruction of One of the Handsomest Houses in Bedford.
MONTVALE, Va., Dec. 31.—'Cottage Home' caught fire Wednesday from fire curls rolling out on the floor and was burned to the ground. It was one of the most beautiful of the ante-bellum times, some homes of the present day. The late Albert G. Williams, for his bride, seventy years ago.
Since the war it was occupied by Captain Rives Hoffman, whose wife was a Miss Williams, and who kept a summer boarding-house, having entertained the elite and wealth of Richmond and Norfolk. The place was sold to a syndicate during the boom excitement in Williams town in town in 1862. The present owner, Mr. Sneed, of Lynchburg, who sold it to Mr. John Trout, the present owner, of Roanoke, Va., in 1880. Cottage Home was one of the handsomest homes in this section, the Norfolk and Western railroad running through a portion of the farm and one most of his furniture. Only a small insurance was on the house.

TRAGEDY IN PITTSYLVANIA
A Quarrel Over Ten Cents Results in the Death of a Veteran.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHATHAM, Va., Dec. 31.—Miss Davis was shot and killed by Eli Oliver, at Lolo, in Pittsylvania county, Wednesday. Oliver is a young merchant, and claimed Davis for ten cents, which he claimed was due him. Davis denied owing the money, and a row ensued, in which Davis was struck several times by friends of Oliver.
Davis took to his heels, followed by Oliver, and ran until exhausted. When he drew his knife and ordered his pursuer not to come nearer, whereupon Oliver sent a bullet through his breast, above the heart, killing him instantly.
The victim was a one-armed Confederate veteran, about sixty years old, and of peaceful disposition. Oliver has been in trouble several times before.
Two years ago a young son of Davis was killed at the battle of Gettysburg, not far from Lolo, in a fight with William Kennedy.

BRADLEY TO HANG.
Found Guilty of the Murder of W. P. Harris Last Fall.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LOVINGSTON, Va., December 31.—Frank Bradley, colored, was sentenced in Nelson County Court last night to hang January 9th for the murder of W. P. Harris, a bridge builder, on a freight train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, near Farmington, in Nelson county, September 11th. Harris was shot four times and died on top of the train. The circumstantial evidence against Bradley was conclusive, and his purpose was robbery.

ELEGANT WEDDING.
Miss Daisy Smith Becomes the Bride of Taylor Corbin Young.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
DUNN, N. C., Dec. 31.—Miss Daisy Young, daughter of Dr. Taylor Corbin Young, of Dunn, N. C., was married to Taylor Corbin Young, of Dunn, N. C., at the Methodist Church, last night at 8 o'clock. The church was filled with guests. The bride was escorted by her father. The wedding was a most beautiful affair. The bride wore a gown of white tulle and carried a bouquet of white roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Smith. The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and other relatives.

RAPID TRANSIT PEOPLE WILL BEGIN WORK TO-DAY.
The Committee on Street met last night and received and approved the plans of the Citizens Rapid Transit Company for the beginning of the work of the company on its proposed new trolley line and viaduct.
It is understood that the work will be begun to-day on Chimborazo Hill, and that no grading will be needed elsewhere. It is contemplated that the company will not only construct an up-to-date trolley line, but that a viaduct will be built on Marshall Street from Thirteenth to Twenty-second, carrying their cars over.
The company say they propose to go forward industriously with their work.
