THE NEW BIJOU THEATRE ALMOST READY FOR THE OPENING NIGHT.

The above illustration represents the new Bijou Theatre now being rapidly finished on Broad Street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets.

The building is a thoroughly up-to-date theatre in every respect, and will contain all modern conveniences for the comfort of the public. The seating capacity will be about 1,400. The stage is separated from the auditorium by a brick wall which extends through the roof, and this, with the fire proof curtains, effectively separates the stage from the auditorium. The columns supporting the galleries are of iron and all wood work will be covered with ornamental plastering. The means of egress from the building are exceptionally good, the wide stairways on both sides of the house carrying the crowds into the street and not into the vestibule as in many other theatres. The entire front is taken up by wide doors opening immediately on the street, so there will be no impediment to the exit, which will require but a few moments. There is a space on the eastern side of the building in which an iron staircase with iron balustrades, from each floor, will render descent safe and easy in case of emergency.

The chairs will be of the most excellent design and make. The auditorium will be heated by steam and decorated in the most artistic manner.

The stage appointments will be as perfect as can be made, with all the necessary dressing rooms, and toilet rooms for the comfort and convenience of the actors.

The general scheme of color inside will be given and white with gold with an elaborate system of electric lighting, both inside and outside.

The plans of this building were prepared by Mr. Fuller Chaffin, architect, New York, and Captain M. J. Dimmock, architect, of this city, is supervising the entire construction, after making some changes in reference to the additional strength of walls and gallery.

The inside decorations is being pushed rapidly, and the house will be ready for occupancy before the first of the year.

Manager Wells said yesterday that the policy of the house would be the same as that of the present Bijou, and the prices would be the same. The upper gallery will probably be set aside exclusively for colored people.

Had the Wrong Transfer.

In the Police Court yesterday morning Mr. C. C. Crump was fined $10 on the grounds that he refused to pay an additional fare on a street car, claiming that he asked for a transfer at Seventh and Main Streets, and was using that. He got on a Traction car, and the conductor declined to accept the transfer, as it was to a Passenger and Power car. Mr. Crump refused to pay another fare and declined to get off the car, and was arrested on the technical charge of disorderly conduct. The fine was remitted.

A TOWN HALL FOR ASHLAND

The County Board Lays the Levy for the Taxes.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ASHLAND, Va., November 5.—At the last meeting of the Town Council on Thursday night two important matters were taken up and acted upon. The privilege of erecting a proposed public hall on the town lot was granted. The matter was urged by the Ladies' Musical Association and the Business Men's Association, who will engineer the project jointly, and will raise the necessary funds to complete the work. The building is to cost about $3,000, and to be commenced within twelve months from the first of January, 1905. The contract provides that the town is to allow the privilege of using the lot for the building subject to removal at any time on notice from the town by giving two years' notice. The building is to be used chiefly as a hall suitable for public entertainments, and is to be equipped with stage platform and several small rooms. The Council also acted upon the matter of using the Hanover Bank as a town depository, referring the matter favorable to the Finance Committee.

The first meeting of the Ashland Auxiliary of the Richmond Wednesday Club was held in the college chapel last Wednesday night with a large attendance. Nearly forty persons interested in music and the spring festival of 1905 have associated themselves with the organization, and immediate work of rehearsal will be commenced on Hayden's "Seasons." Rehearsals are to be held regularly every Wednesday night in the chapel for the next six months.

Through the enterprising efforts of Mr. J. Scott, the election returns from all sections of the United States will be announced publicly from his office next Tuesday night until a late hour.

A very important meeting of the County Board of Supervisors of Hanover was held this week. The county levy was laid at 30 cents, county road levy 10 cents and district road levy 20 cents. The
