SPECIALS CRASH; 7 PEOPLE KILLED

Train Carrying Ohl Engineers to Inauguration Is Wrecked.

CAPTAIN KILLED; MAJOR MAY DIE

First Train Stopped for Hot Box and Second Ploughed Into It—Six Men and One Woman Met Death. Many Badly Hurt.

(By Associated Press.)
PITTSBURG, Pa., Mar. 3.—In a rear-end collision to-night between two special passenger trains from Cleveland on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railway en route to Washington, six men and one woman were killed and twenty others injured. The accident happened at Clifton Station, eight miles west of here and was caused by the first special's stopping for a hot box and the second's following so closely that the flagman had not time to get back far enough to prevent the collision.

Six Identified.

Six bodies have been identified, including:

CAPTAIN WILLIAM R. HENDRY, battalion surgeon and a prominent Cleveland physician; LEUTENANT DONALD C. SCHOFIELD, of Company D, a Cleveland architect.

Entire Train Burned.

The first train carried a battalion of the Ohio Engineers. It was made up of six coaches and a baggage car. The second train with the same number of coaches carried the Tippecanoe Club, of Cleveland, with a band of twenty-five or thirty women.

When the crash came the passengers in the rear car of the first train were the principal sufferers and all of the fatalities were in that car. The wreck took fire from the engine and the entire first train and three cars of the second were burned. New trains were made up and sent to the scene to bring the dead and injured here.

Officers Injured.

Major J. H. McQuigg, who was in command of the engineers' battalion, had both legs broken at the thigh and will probably be unable to walk for some time. Captain Charles E. Pope was the only officer of the engineers' battalion to escape, and he will be in command of the battalion which will return to Cleveland as soon as a train can be made up for them. The Tippecanoe Club will continue their journey to Washington.

Was Southern Woman.

When roll-call was made of the Tippecanoe Club, only two men were missing. They may be among the injured who were taken to the hospital at Rochester, Pa.

Body Found on Mountain Side Is Identified.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, March 3.—It has been found that the woman who was frozen to death while fleeing from the torture of the "Canal Gang" at Paterson, was Mrs. Lillian Austin, a Southern woman, who had lived with Mrs. Eva Green, of No. 249 West Forty-second Street. Mrs. Green said that Mrs. Austin was born in New Orleans twenty-eight years ago. Her maiden name was Lillian Salters. Her father owned a sugar mill and a large plantation in Louisiana. She was a young girl when she was married to a man named Austin, from whom she separated. She then went to St. Louis and later came to New York. Last July Mrs. Austin was arrested for intoxication and sent to Blackwell Island. Five weeks ago she suddenly disappeared from her friends' home and it was through reading a newspaper description of the murdered woman that her identification was finally brought about.

QUADRUPLETS BORN TO MRS. TONEY SPERRY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINCHESTER, Va., March 3.—That the Roosevelt theory of race suicide is not prevalent, at least in this section, was demonstrated last night at Middletown, Frederick county, when Mrs. Toney Sperry gave birth to three boys and one girl. This is the first known instance in this section where quadruplets were born, since last night three of the babies have died, but the doctor thinks the other will live.

DRAMATIC SCENE DURING COUNCIL

Emperor Delivered Impassioned Speech, Saying "I Am Willing to Shed My Blood for the Good of My People"—Imperial Rescript.

(By Associated Press.)
ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 3.—A general strike was proclaimed at sectional meetings of workmen here to-day.

(By Associated Press.)
ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 3.—In the Alexandra Palace at Tsarskoje Solo, surrounded by the ministers and a few members of the court, and with the Empress at his side Emperor Nicholas this afternoon affixed his signature to a rescript containing His Majesty's decree to give elected representatives of the people an opportunity to express their views in the preparation of the laws of the empire.

Dramatic Scene.

The signing of the document came at the end of a dramatic scene, the climax of which was an impassioned speech by Emperor Nicholas to his ministers, in which he declared that he sought only the welfare of his subjects.

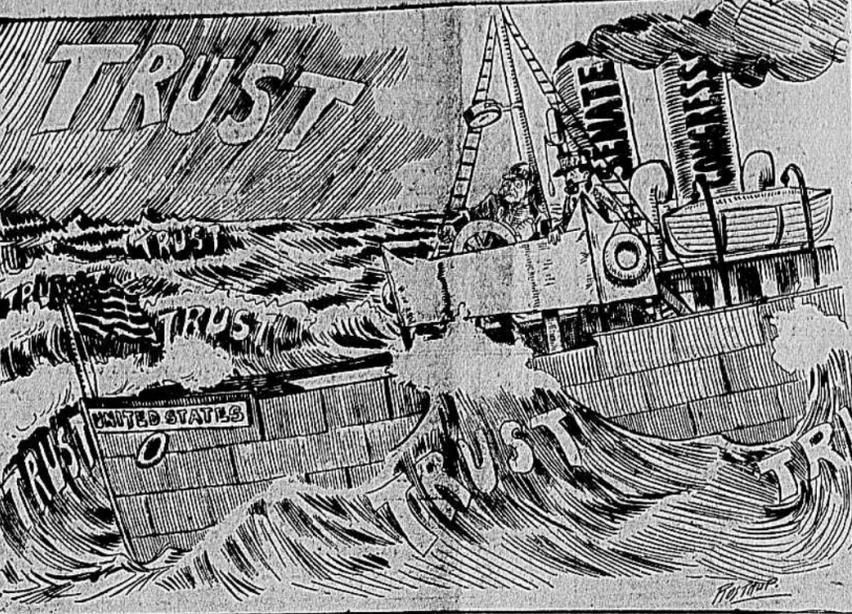

The rescript is directed to the Minister of the Interior, and says:

"My desire is to attain the fulfillment of my intentions for the welfare of my people by means of the cooperation of the government with experienced forces of the community, and continuing the work of my crowned ancestors, to retain the practice of the Russian nation undiminished and to maintain order therein; I am resolved, henceforth, with the help of God, to convene the wisest men, possessing the confidence of the people."

CLARKSVILLE, Va., March 3.—A large meeting of the citizens of Clarksville held last night to discuss the establishment of a $50,000 manufacturing tobacco plant of 600,000 pounds capacity here by the Interstate Tobacco Growers' Association.

WILL IT STEM THE TIDE?

DID CLUVERIUS MAKE A CONFESSION?

Many people throughout Virginia still doubt that Thomas Judson Cluverius was really guilty of the murder of Fannie Lillian Madison, for which he was hanged in this city eighteen years ago. To the minds of these the mystery of the Reservoir tragedy has never been solved.

GIRL DRUGGED, ROBBED OF FUNDS

Said She Lived in Old Point Comfort, Where She Was Employed.

NOT KNOWN IN THAT PLACE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 3.—Katie Morrell, nineteen years old, who said she lived at Old Point Comfort, was arraigned to-day in the Coney Island Court on a charge of intoxication. The young woman declared she had been drugged by a well-dressed man and asked him to direct her to a respectable hotel, and she declared the man took her to a place which she later learned was in Fort Hamilton. She said the man, who appeared to be the proprietor of the place, peered to be the proprietor of the place, peered to be the proprietor of the place, peered to be the proprietor of the place.

CHARGE HERRMANN WITH DESTROYING RECORDS

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—Dingor Herrmann, member of Congress from Oregon, and former commissioner of the General Land office, to-day was indicted by the Federal grand jury here on the charge of destroying public records. The substance of the charge is that Mr. Herrmann, just previous to his resignation as commissioner of the General Land Office, which was on February 1, 1903, destroyed thirty-five notes-press copy books, containing copies of official communications written by him as Commissioner of the General Land Office and relating to the business of that bureau. Mr. Herrmann's attorney appeared in court immediately after the indictment had been found and on behalf of his client, waived the exemption due a member of Congress and bail was fixed at $5,000. Mr. Herrmann, in a statement, declared the charges untrue and without foundation.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
STAUNTON, Va., March 3.—The country residence of E. L. Stratton, of Fishersville, Augusta county, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. The inmates barely escaped from the flames and the entire residence and all the personal property within was consumed in a short while. When the fire was at its height, Mr. Stratton discovered that the youngest of his five children was not with them and at great risk of his life rushed into the burning building and rescued therefrom his baby, which was still in its cradle.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 3.—W. M. Moses and W. E. K. Adkins, of Pennsylvania, are at the Casualty Hospital, critically ill as the result of asphyxiation. The two men, who appear to be quite well to do, reached the city last night and finding that the room they had reserved had been taken, set out to find another. They located at No. 329 East Capitol Street. They did not rise early this morning, and the landlady did not wake them, thinking they were very tired. About noon the odor of gas was detected coming from the room, and the door was broken in. The men were found in an unconscious and apparently dying condition. Mr. Adkins was identified by means of a certificate of deposit given by a Chatham bank and Mr. Moses by a card of identification.

NO HITCH, SAYS HOADLEY.

Such a tremendous slump as this on such a small amount of stock, turned loose a flood of gossip in Wall Street, and the Sloss-Sheffield interests, and especially J. H. Hoadley were besieged with inquiries for information as to whether or not the Southern iron and steel merger, which Mr. Hoadley has been talking about and negotiating for had fallen through. The Sloss-Sheffield representatives could throw no light on the matter. Here is what Mr. Hoadley said:

Inauguration of President To-day Will Be Most Brilliant Affair.

OVER 30,000 TROOPS In GREAT PARADE

Streets Swarming With People From Every Section of Land.

THREAT OF RAIN ONLY UNTOWARD FEATURE

Ceremonies Will Begin in Morning and Conclude With Great Ball in Pension Building at Night—Visitors Anxious to Greet President.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—The inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as President of the United States for the first term, for which he was elected by people, will be marked by greater magnificence than that which attended the coronation of many of the most illustrious of the world's sovereigns. It seemed as if the limit of pomp and display possible in a republic had been reached when William McKinley was inducted into office in 1896, but that of 1900, following a successful foreign war, far eclipsed it in all that went for show and display of military power, and civic prosperity. Indications are that the inaugural ceremonies to-morrow will far surpass in magnificence the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Mr. McKinley four years ago.

Thronged With Sightseers.

Washington is crowded to-night as it has seldom been in the history of the capital of the nation. The railroads have scarcely been able to handle the enormous crowds which have been pouring into the city from all directions for three days. The railway stations are jammed and packed with humanity at all hours, and every one of the trains that steams in at intervals of but a few minutes, always late, adds to the crush and confusion. Hotel lobbies are little less crowded. The people, as they come to the city, find with visitors until the usually quiet thoroughfares of dignified Washington are as bustling and as crowded in appearance as lower Broadway. From every section of the United States, and that means from Porto Rico, Puerto Plata, and the Philippines, also, the visitors have come to attend the inauguration of the President chosen to the high office by the greatest popular majority ever given a man for every man.

The Decorations.

There has been scarcely an hour since daylight that the throb of martial music heralding the arrival of some delegation to take part in the parade has not enveloped the day, and tonight the troops and the marching clubs are arriving as fast as they were in the early morning. The scene at the Pennsylvania station is the most confusing that can be imagined. One who has never before been in sight of the capital can find his way to the place he is seeking. It is impossible to solve the problem in most cases by taking a cab, for the supply of this means of transportation is so limited as to be almost a fable.

No Politics in Inauguration.

There is little politics in an inauguration of a President. There is less in it, a one, and less of sectionalism than has been evident since the end of the war between the States. This fact is well attested by the other fact that every one of the States which border on the Atlantic front, Maine to Florida, will have military organizations in the parade. The governors of the sixteen States, in-
