

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Love of Eli. Methinks it is better that I should have pined away seven of my goldenest years...

Her image glides from page to page. A Presence, frail and fair. Scarce more than a shadow on the face...

His Alice! From the well worn past. That in the freightless train. Before me, child, I see with him...

What brought the later years, sweet child. We do not greatly care. Sure, 'twere enough to beattude...

What if thy gentle arms grow old. From Love's sweet burden free? List! these mating little ones...

Ye, Alice! gentlest love of Fame. Frail, favored child of Fate! While never faces wait...

Orange Meet and Ball. To-day promises to be a red letter day in the history of the Orange County Hunt...

The club proposes to make the most of its last meet for the spring, and in addition to the hunt that day, it expects to entertain its members and guests at a hunt ball in the evening.

The dog hounds will meet at Orange at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and will lead on about a mile north of town on the beautiful Boston estate.

The hunt ball will be held in the Masonic Hall, at Orange. The hall will be profusely decorated with flags and bunting on the ceiling and arches...

The men will wear their pink coats at the ball, and the ladies will powder their hair, and be surrounded by all the wealth that nature can offer of her beautiful bloom...

Music will be furnished by a portion of the Marine Band, which has made up an especially attractive programme for the occasion. Mr. J. P. Woodruff, Dr. L. S. Ricketts and Mr. H. T. Holladay, Jr., will receive the guests for the club.

Over two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out for the ball, and representatives from Cameron Run Hunt, the Keswick Hunt, and the Deep Run Hunt and other clubs are expected, as well as a large number of distinguished guests from a distance.

Those expected from Richmond are Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Willard, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beattie, Miss Gertrude Scollon, Mr. George Cole Scott, Mr. E. B. Synhor, and Mr. C. H. Hobson and others.

The Fairest Thing in Mortal Eyes.

By CHARLES, DUKE OF ORLEANS.

Charles, Duke of Orleans, was born May 23, 1394, and died January 4, 1445. He was a French poet, son of Louis, Duke of Orleans, and nephew of the French King Charles VI. He was taken prisoner by the English at Agincourt in 1415, and released in 1440. His poems were edited by D'Herbigny in 1871. After his father's death he held the position of a great feudal prince almost independent of royal control. It is not recorded that at this time he had produced any literary work. His long captivity in England was most fruitful, and during it he wrote both in French and in English. But the last five and twenty years of his life, when he lived quietly and kept court at Blois, when he brought many literary men about him, were the most productive. His undoubted work is not large, but the pieces which compose it are among the best of their kind. The verses given below were written in French and the translation is by Henry Francis Cary, born in England in 1772 and died in 1844. This poem was written in memory of the duke's wife, who died in childhood, at the age of twenty-two.

O make my lady's obsequies My love a minstrel wrought, And, in the chantry, service there Was sung by doleful thought; The tapers were of burning sighs, That light and odor gave; And sorrows, painted o'er with tears, Enlamin'd her grave; And round about, in quaintest guise, Was carved: "Within this tomb there lies The fairest thing in mortal eyes."

Above her lieth spread a tomb Of gold and sapphires blue; The gold doth show her blessedness, The sapphires mark her true; For blessedness and truth in her Were lively portrayed, When gracious God with both His hands Her goodly substance made. He framed her in such wondrous wise, She was, to speak without disguise, The fairest thing in mortal eyes.

No more, no more! my heart doth faint When I the life recall Of her who lived so free from taint, So virtuous deemed by all— That in herself was so complete, I think that she was ta'en By God to deck His paradise, And with His saints to reign; Whom, while on earth, each one did prize, The fairest thing in mortal eyes.

But naught our tears avail, or cries; All soon or late in death shall sleep; Nor living wight long time may keep, The fairest thing in mortal eyes.

This series began in the Times-Dispatch Sunday, October 11, 1903. One is published each day.

An attractive feature of this booth will be the presence of Madam D'Aubigne, gifted in the art of palmistry. On Wednesday evening Miss Edna Barbour, assisted by the Misses Home children, will give one of her usual charming entertainments.

Mr. Hancock's Party. Mr. John Hancock will take a party to Norfolk Wednesday morning in his private car to attend the wedding of Miss Patty Irving Gregory to Mr. Peter Chevalle Warwick, taking place at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

In Mr. Hancock's party will be Mrs. John Hancock, Misses Mary and Lena Warwick, the groom's sisters; Misses Lucy and Mollie Wallace, Misses Carrie and Rebe Newell, Miss Champe Wallace and other relatives and friends of the groom. Other Richmond guests will include Mrs. and Mr. Scott, Burks, Mr. and Mrs. William Chivers, Miss Courtney Biddges, Miss Kate Biddgood, Miss Lizzie C. Temple and Mr. Richard Biddgood.

Centennial Celebration. The centennial of the Female Humana Association will be celebrated on May 4th, at the home of the association, No. 703 East Leigh Street.

Many of the clergy belonging to the different churches throughout the city will gather to join in the beautiful celebration services and to add to the interest that naturally gathers around an anniversary, connected with one of the oldest and worthiest charities in Richmond.

A centennial cake with a hundred candles will be one of the many pleasant things that have been devised by the ladies representing the board of managers of the association. Friends of the association and those interested in it are invited to be present.

The association is endowed, but, with an ever increasing cost in living and a much diminished income, those who for years have labored for the orphan girls that the association shelters, feel the pressing necessity of help to prevent an increasing deficit, and the consequent hampering of effort in behalf of helpless childhood and girlhood.

Officers and trustees of the association are Miss Emily Harvie, president; Mrs. Herbert A. Claiborne, secretary; Mrs. E. P. Valentine, treasurer; Mr. William M. Hill, Mr. Preston Cooke and Mr. Edmund Addison.

Arem Chapter, O. E. S. Owing to the severe indisposition of Mrs. H. M. Barbour, chairman of Arem Chapter, O. E. S., table at the International Festival, to be held in the Temple April 25th-28th, Mrs. W. A. Rice has felt compelled to withdraw from the affair.

All donations will be disposed of at private sale, and the donors given credit for same. The proceeds will be turned over to the Masonic Home, as has been stated. The ladies expect to realize quite a neat little sum, and appreciate the many gifts they have received, and wish to express thanks for same.

Mrs. Dashiell at Club. Mrs. L. R. Dashiell gave a clever and charming paper on "Current Events" last afternoon at the "Woman's Club. She touched the lighter side of topics that engage the present attention of the world with a delicately humorous touch, evoking instant and sympathetic responses. The Eucalyptus-Hyde music and the Oster age-limit showed their funny sidelights when viewed from Mrs. Dashiell's standpoint.

The usual number of Easter out-of-town visitors came in to add to the charm of the night, springing the atmosphere of the parlors, that were fragrant with the beauty and perfume of Easter blossoms. Mrs. John B. Lightfoot, Miss Annie Minor and Miss Sally Goodwin were chairman's guests.

Lent made was served by Mrs. Pleasant Conquest and tea was poured by Miss Caroline Moreland.

Personal Mention. One of the pleasant happenings of Easter Monday for the juveniles of the city was the Easter-egg hunt, given by Mrs. E. J. Willis in her home, Beverly B. Munford and the friends who helped her to enjoy it.

BOYS JACK TAR SUIT.

No. 3129—This natty long trouser suit or suit can be made of a large variety of materials, including linen, galatea, pique, duck, flannel and serge. It is bound to be popular because it is easy to make and easy to launder. The blouse is of the "slip on" kind, it may, however, be finished to open down the front. If preferred the applied yoke may be omitted as may the sleeve caps. The collar can be sewn fast or finished separately. The pattern is cut in sizes 4, 5, 6 and 10 years and requires 3 1/2 yards of 42-inch material with 1/2 yard of contrasting material for the eight-year size. The pattern can be gotten from The Cohen Co., for 10c.—Adv.
